Egypt Warns M-E at Crossroads of Peace or War

SALZBURG, Austria (UPI) — Egypt warned Saturday on the eve of crucial talks between President Ford and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat that the Middle East stands at the crossroads of peace or war.

Sadat arrived here Saturday for the the Middle East peace talks with Ford scheduled for today and Monday. Ford arrives this morning from Madrid and the two presidents were scheduled to discuss how best to revive the stalled peace talks.

An Egyptian statement issued here in advance of the meeting said: "The importance of this meeting is derived from the fact that the Middle East stands now at crossroads. It could go either for peace or war."

In a speech in Vienna before flying to Salzburg, Sadat said the Arab cause will triumph regardless of whether his talks with Ford succeed or fail.

But Sadat said he would exhaust every possibility of reaching a peace settlement with Israel before considering going to war again. "If peace efforts fail, then we will ... prepare for battle," he said.

The meeting is considered crucial in the overall reassessment of the U.S. Middle East policy following the collapse in March of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step approach to an Egyptian-Israeli agreement on Sinai.

Diplomatic sources said the two leaders will discuss such possibilities as a revival of the step-by-step U.S. search for peace, or a resumption of the Arab-Israeli Geneva talks, or a combination of both.

Sadat indicated in Vienna Friday that he favored the Geneva approach "especially since both the United States and the Soviet Union already have said they want the conference resumed."

Ford said in Brussels Friday that he will make recommendations in late June or early July. This meant he will not speak out until after his talks with Sadat here and with Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin in Washington June 11-12.

Sadat has said he will urge the United States to declare a position of its own on the Middle East, instead of trying to remain a neutral mediator between the two sides.

He said he wants the United States to declare that Israel does not have the right to keep territory acquired by force.

Sadat feels he paved the way for such a statement by his own declaration that Israel has a right to exist — within its pre-1967 frontiers.

Sadat, who arrived in Vienna Friday, flew here from Vienna in his private plane with his youngest daughter, Jihan, 15, and Austrian chancellor Bruno Kreisky.

He was greeted by an honor guard, an Austrian brass band and about 400 spectators.

The two presidents will hold most of their meetings in the Residenz, a 13th-century palace in the heart of old Salzburg, at the foot of the cliff below the city's ramparted castle.

New Arab-Israeli Conflict ... 'Certain Without Breakthrough'

MADRID (UPI) — A top-ranking American official warned Saturday a new Arab-Israeli war is "mathematically certain" — possibly within six months — unless progress is made in Middle East peace negotiations.

The official, declining to be named, told reporters aboard President Ford's plane that he expects a "significant development" as a result of Ford's talks today and Monday with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

He strongly indicated the breakthrough involves a return to step-by-step negotiations fostered by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy broke down in failure last March and since then, Ford has been trying to get the Arab and Israelis back on the track.

"I have detected a resurgence of interest in step-by-step diplomacy," the official said. "It is mathematically certain that if there isn't some progress somewhere down the road — six months, one year, two years — there will be a war. There is absolutely no question of that."

"If there is no progress, there is going to be an explosion somewhere — there is going to be war."

Ford told a news conference Thursday he expects to announce a proposal for resuming negotiations in late June or early July, but not until he has had similar talks with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in Washington, June 11-12.

Ford leaves Madrid today for two days of "crucial" talks with Sadat.

"We will give our assessment and he (Sadat) will give his," the official said. "I think it will be a very important, crucial meeting, but it will not tend to any spectacular announcement."

"I would be absolutely astounded if there is an announcement of a major breakthrough. But I am not saying there is not going to be an important development growing out of the Ford-Sadat meetings. I think Sadat will tell us what he thinks he can do. I have the impression that Sadat wants some progress."

The official said he had observed a "resurgence of interest in the step-by-step" approach by all sides. He said the Soviets also have become aware of the complexities of a full-scale conference in Geneva.

The United States and the Soviet Union are co-sponsors of a Middle East peace conference that has been pending for several months and is one of the options being considered. But the Ford administration prefers the Kissinger approach.

The official said the United States is willing to go to Geneva, and added "we would have no interest in humiliating the Russians" who have been supporting the peace conference.

He said many persons were proposing a return to Geneva when the Kissinger effort broke down last March, but now they are no longer saying that because "they realize that if the Geneva talks fail, there will be no other place to go."

President Ford waves to crowd lined up Saturday on the streets of Madrid. Ford, accompanied here in an open-top car by Generalissimo Franco, later met with the Spanish leader for four hours. (UPI)

Ford Hails Accord With Franco on Bases

MADRID (UPI) — President Ford won a basic agreement Saturday from Generalissimo Francisco Franco for U.S. forces to remain on Spanish bases. He hailed it as a "major contribution" to the defense of Western Europe.

But Spanish sources said they foresee the United States losing at least one of the four bases it maintains in negotiations to be completed next month.

After a sun-splashed, fiesta-type welcome, Ford met with Franco for four hours. The meeting ended with both sides expressing confidence a satisfactory agreement will be worked out in detailed negotiations in Washington.

Franco was believed to be seeking a treaty with Washington, an infusion of U.S. tactical short-range weapons and a reduction in the number of American troops in Spain.

The current pact, due to expire in three months, allows the United States to use four Spanish military bases: the Polaris submarine base at Rota, two airfields near Madrid and Seville and an aerial gunnery range at Zaragoza, which has been mothballed. The bases are home for about 20,000 American troops.

Spanish sources said the United States could wind up losing at least one base, probably the one at Torrejon, a strategic air command bomber base 10 miles from Madrid.

The base is considered obsolete, and the Spanish government has always felt uneasy about allowing a major military target that close to a city of almost 4 million people.

A White House spokesman, however, said he could give no indication whether the United States, while retaining base rights, might lose one of the bases. He said the question is still in confidential negotiation.

Assistant Secretary of State Arthur Hartman briefed reporters on Saturday's breakthrough in the talks and indicated there may be changes in the current base set-up. One aspect could be a specification of how the Americans are to use the facilities.

The Spanish government, with close ties to the Arab world, would not let the United States use the bases for logistics support of Israel during the 1973 Middle East war.

Cheering crowds estimated at more than 400,000 lined the route of Ford and Franco's motorcade route into Madrid after Ford's arrival Saturday morning for a 22-hour stay.

A squadron of silver-helmeted, plumed and caped horsemen heralded the two leaders' arrival as if they were kings.

Spain, through its bilateral defense cooperation with the United States, is making a major contribution to the defense of Western Europe," Ford told Franco at a black-tie state dinner in the Spanish leader's chandelied royal palace.

The dinner was the last official function of his 22-hour visit. The President planned to fly to Salzburg, Austria, today to meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The President inserted the remark into the advance text of his toast at the black tie affair.

The aging Spanish leader, who is believed to have Parkinson's disease, told his 140 dinner guests "the Western world is in need more than ever before of the values that are common to us all."

The Francos and the Fords listened later to a string quartet before the American couple headed off to their Moncloa palace home for the night.

Alarmed at the rise of communism in neighboring Portugal, Ford had put Madrid on his European itinerary to underscore Spain's importance to Western defense. He sought to emphasize the need for a continued U.S. presence in the country.

The President had earlier summed up the purpose of his visit during a toast following a stag luncheon he gave for American and Spanish officials at Moncloa Palace, his home for the day.

A Real One and A Hoax

BEARSVILLE

A middle-aged Bearsville man and wife were tied up and blindfolded in their Wittenberg Road home by three unknown assailants who then ransacked the house, taking numerous items of value.

And a reported armed robbery on Ulster Heights Road, Town of Wawarsing, early Saturday turned out to be a hoax.

Woodstock Police Chief William Waterous said that three white males entered the Benito and Mira Barcone residence about 9 p.m., Friday, pulled out silver-plated handguns, tied up Barcone and his wife and placed pillow sacks over their heads while they searched the premises, taking among other things jewelry, rifles and a shotgun. Town and state police are continuing the investigation. The two victims were not injured.

And in Wawarsing, 19-year-old Romak Chmura of Floral Park, was arrested Saturday for falsely reporting an incident and for making a false sworn statement to police, both misdemeanors, after he reportedly told state police at Ellenville that someone had robbed him at knife-point and stolen his car.

His car was found five miles away on Ulster Heights Road, having been involved in a property damage accident, striking a tree. Police said it was later found that the driver was unlicensed and the car was not insured.

Tight Mortgage $$ ... Not the FmHA

By Jon Powers

KINGSTON

While tight money conditions and substantial down payment requirements have helped to stifle new home construction throughout the country, one government agency has had — in a somewhat exaggerated sense — its pockets overflowing with money for prospective borrowers. And despite its rather deceptive title, the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) is legally empowered to serve a much broader base of the American population.

Since July, 1974, the FmHA office in Kingston — which serves Ulster and Dutchess Counties — has approved loans and grants totalling more than $12 million. That figure includes some $9.5 million for community facilities and another $2 million in housing loans, as well as about $600,000 for new home construction loans.

"The future looks excellent," said Jack A. Massaro, FmHA county supervisor, "there's no reason why we can't handle $20 million in loans next year. And we're hoping to increase our housing totals to at least three or four million."

FmHA is a rural credit agency for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, but its area of coverage is not, by any means, restricted to the farming community. It may lend money to individuals, businesses and municipalities that are located in areas with a population of 10,000 or less; that qualified all of Ulster County, except the City of Kingston, for FmHA funded projects.

In fact, a relatively small percentage of the loans approved by the FmHA office in Kingston are specifically earmarked for agricultural operations. Part of the reason may be that the marginal farm operation — precisely the one that needs financial help the most — has succumbed to economic pressures and all but disappeared from the local scene.

Much of the activity at the Kingston office, located at 41 Pearl Street, is devoted to loans that enable individuals to buy or build new homes.

And, although there are restrictions that leave some people ineligible to receive an FmHA loan, the agency is able to offer financial assistance to a significant segment of non-urban middle income residents.

"We generally look for the same kind of applicant as the banks," Massaro commented, "but someone without the down payment ability that the banks require." As an example: a person earning $10,000 a year with one outstanding debt and $1,500 cash on hand might be reasonably confident of obtaining $20,000 mortgage from FmHA, provided that they come up with a $200 downpayment toward the purchase of the home and pay for the closing costs.

With some banks requiring down payments of 40-50 percent on an 8 1/2 percent mortgage, most low and middle-income families have been priced out of the new home market. FmHA can provide the money at a current 8 1/2 percent interest rate.

Not everyone, Massaro repeated, is eligible for an FmHA loan. If five percent of a family's base pay plus $300 for each dependent child is subtracted from the total family income, and that amount falls below $12,900, that family can seek an FmHA loan. If adjusted family income is above $12,900, the agency cannot approve the loan.

Massaro also noted that families whose adjusted income falls below $8,500 are eligible for an interest subsidy program, in which FmHA will subsidize part of the mortgage for two years.

In addition to Massaro — who is president of the New York State Association of County Supervisors and vice-chairman of the Mid-Hudson Regional Community Development Committee — the Kingston office is staffed by John Ketz, assistant supervisor; Victoria Musso, county office assistant; Lorraine Fiore, county office clerk and Loualice Marshall, office clerk. The office has a branch in Millbrook, which will be open this summer.

State Docs Starting Slowdown

NEW YORK (UPI) — A statewide doctors' job action begins this week to protest the high price of malpractice insurance, a spokesman for nine metropolitan county medical associations said Saturday.

Dr. Norman S. Blackman, a spokesman for the New York State Crisis Committee on Medical Malpractice Insurance, said the planned doctors' slowdown will begin today, despite efforts by the state Insurance Department to head it off.

Related Story Page 26

The department established a corporation last week to issue malpractice insurance, but many doctors had expressed fears that the rates would rise steeply unless the medical society itself offered the coverage.

A department spokesman said the new system would increase rates only 10 to 20 percent, a figure considerably lower than those requested by private insurers.

Blackman emerged from a two-hour meeting Saturday with 29 doctors from various county medical societies. He said,

"nothing will stop a curtailment of medical services beginning tomorrow."

"We couldn't stop a job action now if we wanted to," Blackman said during a five-minute news conference after the doctors' meeting. "There will be a curtailment of medical services to show the intensity practicing doctors feel about this law."

The doctors drafted a five-point list of demands Saturday which they said was the least they would accept in any malpractice legislation drafted by the state legislature.

The doctors' proposal, which is not new, calls for a definition of medical malpractice and suggests that it be limited to incompetent practice.

They are asking for the establishment of an impartial medical panel to advise juries in malpractice court cases, and they want a limit set on the amount of money that can be awarded in such cases.

And finally, they suggested that a study commission be established to study any new malpractice legislation.

In Saugerties School Elections, the Decisions Are Simple

SAUGERTIES Central School District will have simple decisions to make Wednesday at the polls.

They will be asked to pass a budget up only 6.2 percent from the present one, and will have no choices among board of education candidates.

As with most districts in New York State, Saugerties cannot accurately predict exactly what the tax effects will be as figures on state aid will not be available until August.

At its May 19 budget hearing, the board played the ritual game of guessing high and guessing low on state aid for the benefit of the public in attendance.

Using present state aid, assessments and equalization rates the present proposal of $7,503,987.63 would have the following effects on homeowners in these towns within the district: Saugerties up $13.27 to $153.10; Woodstock up $4.03 to $40.28; Ulster up $17.93 to $196.86.

Figures were also supplied in the event a 15 percent increase in state aid is forthcoming, lowering rates in all three district towns. The amount to be raised by local real estate taxes is $2,769,136.97.

Another imponderable, pointed out by the board in its budget message, is the figure for contracted personnel in two employee units, teaching and non-teaching staff. The budget includes a five percent increase in that category, although this was explained at the hearing to be a figure for state officials in order to meet the budget preparation deadline and not to be construed as accurate. Whatever the exact case, the district takes pride in its "hold the line" efficiency, portraying in its budget book the eight school districts in Ulster County with educational cost per pupil in bar graphs. Saugerties comes in low at $1,525, with New Paltz at the other end of the spectrum at $2,120 per pupil.

And another comparative graph with county schools, showing taxes on a fictitious $30,000 home in 1974, once again has Saugerties at rock bottom with $585.30. New Paltz is on top at $897.

Neither the budget, nor anything else, is arousing much public furor or even much public participation in connection with this week's voting.

There are four vacancies on the board of education up for grabs. And there are four candidates. And there appear to be no burning issues.

Three terms are for three years and the fourth for one year. Board member Wesley Maxwell will not seek reelection. Two incumbents, Anne Bogert and the Rev. John Needham, are running for another full term.

Ray Fuller, who was appointed this past year, is seeking a full term. And the fourth candidate is Barbara Stevens, a registered nurse who lives at 48 Montgomery Street in the Village, who will be elected to a remaining one-year term.

Any questions district residents may have on the budget or board candidates may be aired the evening of June 3 at the annual district meeting.

Voting June 4 will be held at the Cahill School from noon to 9 p.m. It is not necessary to pre-register to vote. Any U.S. citizen who is at least 18 years old and has lived in the district for at least 30 days is eligible to vote.

Carnivals Have Changed . . . Or Have They? . . . Different Views

By Carl Graham

KINGSTON

Carnivals are (about the same as they were years ago) (quite different) (neither of the above).

Carnival business is (better than ever) (worse than ever) (about the same).

The answers to these questions seem to depend on which veteran carnival worker you question. Whether it's the typical reluctance of the "carny" to give information to outsiders or the small businessman's instinct to talk down the state of business or the honest difference of opinion among men who view the same set of facts differently is hard to determine, but interviews with four veterans traveling with Continental Shows failed to bring out any agreement about how things really are or how they used to be.

Interviewed while the show was playing Dietz Stadium last week, Peter Ciardi of Somerville, Massachusetts, feels that things haven't changed much in his 40 years on the road — "Just the faces, they come and go."

Ciardi operates a gorilla show and a fried dough concession with Continental Shows making another of its yearly visits to Kingston. Most shows tend to return to the places where they are known.

One change seems to have caught up with Ciardi. Formerly he wintered in Florida, along with most carnival and circus people, but he spends his winters now dispensing fried dough at indoor shopping centers in Massachusetts. Otherwise, he says, things are not too different.

To the visitor, the carnival seems about like it always has been. Sno Cones, fried dough, sausage and peppers and the ubiquitous pizza tempt the appetite. Booths offer a chance to win prizes for ringing a wooden post with a hoop, tossing a ping pong ball through an opening ("A dog or a bear every time"), tossing a basketball through a hoop, puncturing balloons with darts or shooting the center out of a paper target with a .22 caliber rifle.

A small, wizened man wanders over, attracted by the photographer's camera. He identifies himself only as Bob and is rather vague about such things as last names or origins, but finally admits to having been a dirt farmer in Florida, where he still winters. Florida farmers have their slack season during the summer when carnivals are busy. Bob hit the road 48 years ago and never went back to farming.

He feels there have been significant changes in carnival life during his years on the road, especially in transportation. Practically all carnival concession booths now pack onto a trailer instead of into the bed of a truck as they formerly did. Bob was vague, too, about comparing business now and then.

Jake Hart, another small, slender man, looked back on his 45 years and said "Carnivals haven't grown any, but the entertainment has increased. (Continental offered only one "performing" show, Zomba the Gorilla Girl, along with numerous rides and concessions.

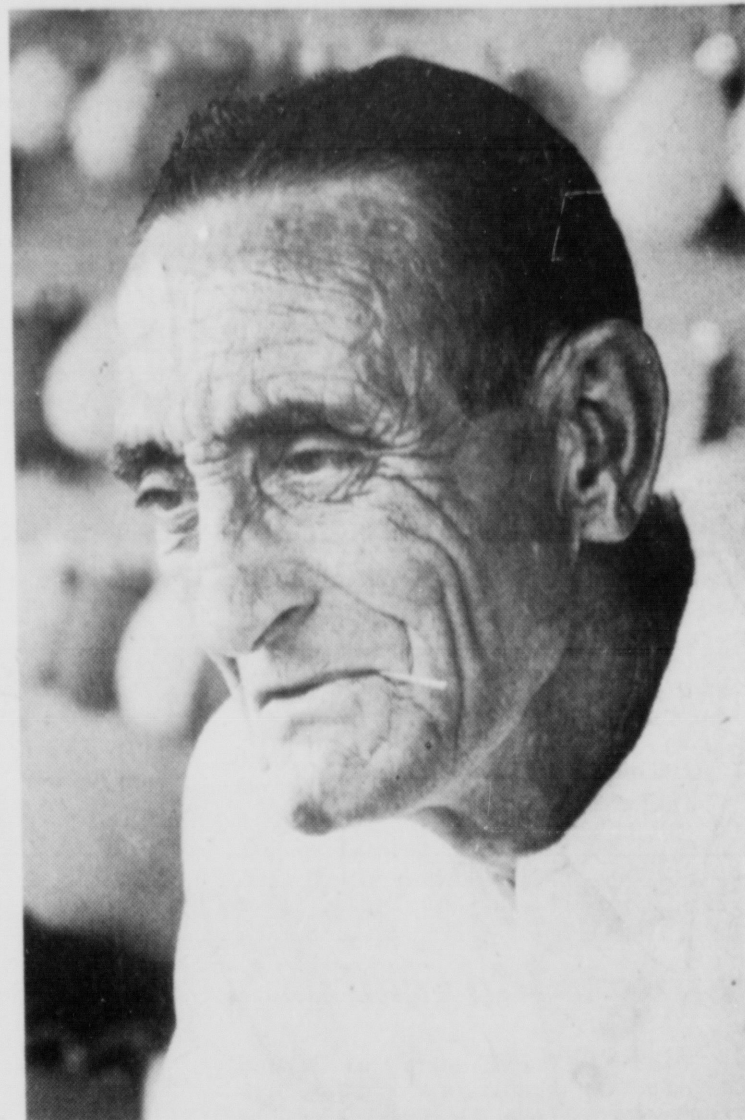

Jake feels that the ride business is doing about as well as it has always done but that concessions are off. A more sophisticated audience, perhaps conditioned by years of the Ed Sullivan show? He wasn't sure, but he revealed that he finds other work during the off season. "Got to keep hustling," he said. "You sure can't live on social security any more."

Like most of the people who travel with carnivals, Freddy Prumo started out to be something else and just sort of wandered into the closely knit carnival world. Freddy was selling ice cream from a small truck in his native Utica 40 years ago and decided that his route was too short. He joined a carnival, converted his truck to over-the-road requirements, and hasn't looked back since.

He runs a dart and balloon concession now and like most carnies workers, wouldn't go back to the "straight" life for anything.

He feels that business is nothing like it used to be. "We used to give real kewpie dolls," he said.

Power Politics Put Crunch on Community Action

NICE TRY—Community Action people who had the temerity to challenge the administration's grand design for Community Development and who found that after several polite audiences, no one was really listening, are probably feeling rather down at this point.

After all, a good deal of time, work and money (some $38,000 was budgeted, we are told) went into the attempt to show that the city came up with a plan that addressed the administration's priorities and not necessarily those of the public.

By the same token, the administration and its "me too" Community Development Advisory Council is probably feeling rather smug at this point, having beat off the challenge of those "outside agitators trying to stir things up."

Neither position, in our opinion, is valid. Things aren't quite as bad as community action thinks they are and things aren't going to be quite the same for the administration next time around assuming Community Action or some non-political citizen group like it, doesn't take this year's defeat as final.

Community Action attacked the city's Community Development plan on two fronts pointing out first that the public hadn't been given sufficient notice on what the program was all about — truthfully, neither had the administration — and secondly, and perhaps truthfully, the "priorities" established by the administration didn't necessarily meet the needs of the public, in this case, low and middle-income people.

The plan to spend $375,000 to convert the auditorium into a midtown neighborhood center is a case in point.

The municipal auditorium has been in decline for the past decade. It didn't reach its present sad state of disrepair and neglect overnight, you know.

Ergo, toward the end of last year, the administration, ever on top of things, especially with election years looming, decided it was time at long last to put some money into the old wreck. The idea of a bond issue was circulated around. Architect Albert Milliken was called in for estimates.

Then along came Community Development with $1.4 million for 1975. The old "if you can get it done by somebody else for nothing" mentality exerted itself and thus was born the midtown neighborhood center.

So, Community Action had a valid criticism when it said that the money the city was putting into the auditorium was "maintenance" money and not renovation money.

But, all that's beside the point, a point that Community Action, which never got into the mainstream of politics in Kingston, failed to appreciate. Political power means you never have to say you're sorry.

Things should be different the next time.

The JUDGESHIP—One can almost imagine the conversation between a local Democratic judicial hopeful and an "Albany source" giving him the news that the review committee has been named.

The source: "Listen, Babes, they've named the judicial panel and Ulster County's got two guys on it."

"Hey, that's good."

Source: "Yeah, but they're both Republicans."

"Hey, that's bad."

Source: "That ain't the half of it. One of them's Jack St. John."

"Jack St. . . . (stumbling over the name) JOHN!! Oh, my God!!"

Jack St. John no longer strikes terror in the hearts of Republicans as he once did some 15 years ago but he is still a symbol of Republican power in Ulster County and as such more than a few Democrats resented his appointment to the aforementioned judicial review board last week.

Some see it as yet another example of the lack of influence in the governor's office of County Chairman Hal Brown. (Fact is, St. John's appointment came from the judiciary).

People in the Maurice Hinchey camp are particularly upset since St. John is after all the law partner of H. Clark Bell whom Hinchey knocked off in a rather bitter campaign last fall.

If it's any consolation to grieving Democrats, St. John did not seek the position. And there's the fact that he's rather well qualified; it's difficult to think of a Democrat with his credentials. So he's not a Demo. Two out of three ain't bad.

LANDFILL—"Nobody wants garbage in their backyard," was Pete Savago's way of dodging implementation of a regional landfill concept for the past five years. But the Legislature chairman may have been only half right. "Nobody wants somebody else's garbage in their backyard," would have been more accurate.

That, basically, is the problem with "regionalism" in general and the plan for a regional center at Chapel Street in particular. Plus the fact, that an awful lot of people live in that particular "backyard," not the four or five families planners and engineers initially lead the public to believe.

We don't see much action on this hot potato during this year "is it election year AGAIN?" . . . Kingston's Frank Koenig is going to have a tough time selling it in any event and there are indicators already that some of the surrounding towns have gotten cold feet.

The politicians may just take this one "under advisement" for the next six months or so. But after Election Day . . . Watch out!

Meetings Planned

ALBANY Public information meetings on possible emergency steps in the event of a natural gas shortage are being held by the Public Service Commission, with Newburgh the area hearing location.

Although the meetings and hearings are open to the public, the principal attendance is expected to be industrial and commercial customers since state law, PSC regulations, and Federal Power Commission rules give highest priority for continued gas service to residential consumers.

Public information meetings will begin June 10 with hearings to follow about a week later. The Newburgh informational meeting for Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., Orange and Rockland Utilities, Inc., and New York State Electric and Gas will be held June 24, with public hearing July 1, both at the Newburgh City Hall.

District 6 Democrats Nominate Klein, Wolf and DeStefano

PORT EWEN Democrats from the towns of Esopus and Rosendale caucused for the nomination of candidates in the Sixth Legislative District late last week and named incumbent Louis M. Klein along with Barbara DeStefano and Joseph Wolf.

It was a four-way race with James Fairley, candidate for the post two years ago, finishing fourth in a secret ballot of those committeemen present.

Fairley was nominated by Esopus Committeeman Hugh P. Maguire and seconded by Marilyn Coffey, secretary to the supervisor of Esopus.

Leading the ticket will be Klein, seeking his third term in the legislature. He was nominated by Esopus Town Chairman Roger W. Mabie and seconded by Michael M. Mullarkey, a Rosendale committeeman.

Ms. DeStefano, serving her second term as trustee in the Village of Rosendale, was nominated by Rosendale Town Chairman Gabriel G. Kajeckas and seconded by Viola Noonan, an Esopus committeewoman.

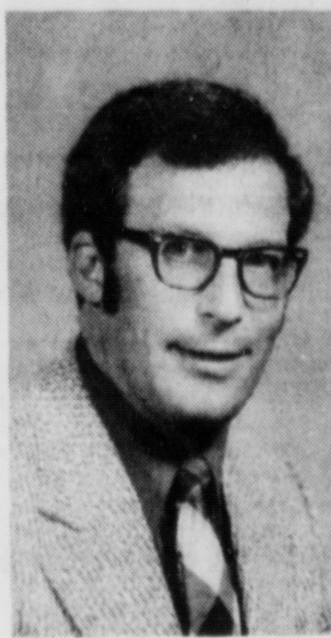

Wolf, a member of the Town of Esopus Planning Board, was nominated by Joan Killeen and seconded by Fred R. Schiskie, both members of the Esopus town committee.

Klein, when asked to comment on the outcome of the caucus and the Democratic slate of candidates, said, "It is a great honor to once again have been selected as a Democratic candidate for Ulster County Legislator. I am truly grateful to the committeemen of Esopus and Rosendale for their continued confidence and support, and to Roger Mabie and Mike Mullarkey for honoring me by placing my name in nomination.

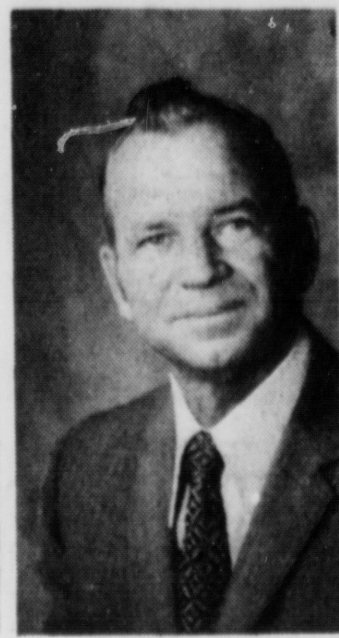

"I was impressed and encouraged by the outstanding qualities of the other three candidates seeking the nomination, and only regret that we all couldn't have been selected. Jim Fairley was the Democratic candidate for legislator in 1973, and did us all proud by his fine showing, despite a late entry into the campaign. He would have been a fine candidate this year, and I sincerely hope that he will remain active in the Democratic Party, and perhaps considering running for a position on the Esopus Town Board.

Concerning Joe Wolf and Barbara DeStefano, they are outstanding candidates, fully qualified to serve on the county legislature. I am honored to have them join me on the Democratic ticket this year. During the months ahead, we will conduct a campaign on the many issues confronting our district and county, and hope to warrant the support of the many fine citizens of Esopus and Rosendale", Klein concluded.

Judge Richter 'Admonished'

KINGSTON City Judge Hubert A. Richter has been "admonished" by the State Judicial Conference for using "poor judgement" in an altercation with a defendant in his court on March 1.

John Schiskie, appearing before Richter on charges of burglary and possession of stolen property had charged Richter with physical abuse during an incident in city court.

A spokesman for the Judicial Conference which investigated the incident, told the Freeman "there was no real evidence of physical attack" on Richter's part.

Richter was criticized for his behavior, however. "It was determined that Judge Richter used poor judgement in stepping down from the bench to address the complainant (Schiskie) and to this extent he was admonished by the court," the Judicial Conference stated in a letter to Schiskie and his attorney, Joshua Koplovitz last week.

Schiskie admitted to provocative language — he swore at Richter after Richter set bail at $10,000 — and also admitted in his affidavit that he spit at Richter after he alleged that Richter had struck and kicked him.

A spokesman for the Judicial conference said that its investigators interviewed three persons, Richter, Schiskie and Patrolman Douglas Longto, who was court officer that day along with Patrolman James Wallace. Wallace said he was not interviewed.

The Judicial Conference officials said that Longto's testimony supported Richter's. "It did corroborate pretty much Judge Richter's story that primarily no physical abuse occurred," the spokesman said.

There was physical contact between the judge and the defendant, according to the Judicial Conference source. He said Richter admitted to inadvertently striking Schiskie with the back of his hand in attempting to ward off Schiskie's attacks on Richter. Schiskie was handcuffed and had his feet manacled at the time of the incident.

A Judicial Conference spokesman said the case "never reached the formal disciplinary stage" in which case a judge is subject to censure or removal from office.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

May-June, 1775:

The British position in the colonies deteriorates. On May 31 the royal governor of North Carolina, Josiah Martin, flees New Bern to Fort Johnston on Cape Fear; six weeks later he takes refuge aboard the British sloop HMS Cruizer in the Cape Fear River. On June 2 the Provincial Congress of South Carolina declares its citizens "ready to sacrifice their lives and fortunes" in the cause of liberty. On June 6 members of the Sons of Liberty, led by Lieutenant Colonel Marinus Willett, seize five wagon-loads of weapons in New York City. On June 8 Governor John Murray Dunmore of Virginia flees to the HMS Fowey at Yorktown. On June 12 the General Assembly of Rhode Island commissions two sloops — thus constituting the first navy to be established in the colonies.

Trouble in Korea

Non-Communist Asia is uneasy in the wake of the Red takeovers in Cambodia, South Vietnam, Laos apparently and Thailand conceivably.

And South Korea is in the forefront of concern. Kim Il Sung, North Korea's president and Communist party boss, elated by the events in Indochina, is feeling adventurous.

Currently, some 38,000 American troops in South Korea tend to dampen the Communist enthusiasm for a military invasion from the north, despite Kim's proclaimed contempt for U.S. "imperialism" trapped in "an inextricable quagmire of ruin."

But the doubts expressed by Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore over U.S. foreign policy reflect those of other Asian nations dependent upon the American security blanket.

True, President Ford has reaffirmed U.S. alliances with Japan and the defense treaty with South Korea and has acknowledged the importance of military bases in the Philippines.

The mood of a Congress determined to have a major policy voice in future diplomacy, however, is far from certain.

Congress, endeavoring to read the will of the American people, is reluctant to endorse the concept of further American troop involvement in remote corners of the world. Members, too, have been vocal in their criticism of the strong restraints imposed by South Korean President Chung Hee Park on dissident South Koreans.

But Korea is important to Japan. It is important to the Philippines. And both Japan and the Philippines are significant to U.S. security in the Pacific.

Former South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky has interpreted correctly the congressional apathy toward Korea — and the importance of an independent South Korea to the future of Asia.

He has urged Congress to bolster the South Korean government with more military aid and arms to avoid a test of the congressional will. Congress should heed the advice to help South Korea build its own strong military force to discourage a Communist challenge in the area of most potential for a new war.

Berry's World

"Your problem is you've been bombarded with more information than you can assimilate!"

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—The story can now be told how the Peace Corps lost its idealism.

The details have been buried in secret files for almost 10 years, but insiders have slipped us some of the suppressed documents.

At the call of the late President John F. Kennedy, thousands of young Americans volunteered to go to the forgotten corners of the earth to help the disadvantaged.

It was a noble experiment which soon began to flounder. Inevitably, the young idealists became entangled in red tape and suffocated by politics.

Merely to get through the selection process, several agreed, a candidate had to "keep his head down and mouth shut." One trainee described the indoctrination as "the most degrading 12 weeks of my life."

By the late 1960s, creeping bureaucracy had turned the idealism into pragmatism. The programs had become so encumbered that one official concluded: "The Peace Corps could function effectively only in those countries which could do quite well without us."

Other volunteers saw themselves, in the words of their secret reports, as no more than "political emissaries."

"The Peace Corps is not set up as an altruistic agency..." complained one recruit, "but rather is a political organ of the State Department." The volunteers were being used, he charged, "to influence people at the grass-roots level to the American way of thinking."

The experience in faraway Somalia was typical. Ambassador Raymond Thurston sent a telegram to the State Department in 1968 demanding that some Peace Corps teachers be replaced. Apparently, they were more interested in serving the Somalis than in carrying out his political policies.

"The Peace Corps is in Somalia," charged one volunteer, "because it's the only thing the United States has going there."

Another protested that the Peace Corps administration makes "the Somalis get down on their hands and knees and kiss our feet just for a few school books or some lumber and cement..." The Peace Corps says do it our way or you don't get anything.

But the criticism didn't get far. When the dissatisfied volunteers tried to make their critical comments part of an official report, Peace Corps headquarters ordered all but two of the copies burned. Officials were instructed to tell anyone asking for a copy that "a report was made directly to the director and no copies are on file."

Here are other random problems that were swept into the secret files:

—The Peace Corps often neglected to take into account the culture of a country before sending in volunteers. For example, a young woman who was sent to Afghanistan as a teacher found she was considered a "prostitute" because she was unmarried and was living with another single girl. She complained that no single woman would ever be accepted into the community.

—Some volunteers made scathing comments about the people they were supposed to be helping. Here are some typical remarks, for example, from Peace Corps volunteers in Morocco: "You don't feel at ease with them" ... "I've never met a Moroccan I felt I really know—the women are impossible and the men are silly" ... "If you can cheat a Moroccan and not get into a fight, they're your friends" ... "People borrow things

By William F. Buckley

Along with Mr. Malcom Muggeridge, who has written his congratulations to the editor, I am greatly cheered by the appearance of the Human Life Review, a thoughtful quarterly devoted to sober analysis of the case against abortion and euthanasia. Mr. Muggeridge is a man whose greatest gift is the sense of true perspective. A reader of his autobiography finds himself slowly coming into touch with great wisdom. He writes now, in connection with the Human Life Review, "It has long been my opinion that the abortion-euthanasia issue with all its implications is the basic one of our time."

With all its implications.

What are its implications? They are complex, fascinating, romantic, and greatly revealing. Whatever one thinks about abortion, one must welcome the effort to rescue the arguments from the vulgarity and acrimony in which they so regularly squat.

In the introduction to the current issue, the editor makes a point I have not seen so clearly made before. It is very widely assumed that opposition to abortion is something of a Catholic tic. This is very far from the truth. Mr. Muggeridge, for instance, is not a Catholic. And only one of the seven featured articles in the current issue is written by a Catholic. In the initial issue, there was a fine essay by Rabbi Immanuel Jakobovits. In the current issue, Margot (Mrs. Nat) Hentoff of the Village Voice, a Jewish intellectual, writes of her distaste for the semantic hypocrisy that surrounds abortion. A black Protestant theologian (Professor Eric Lincoln) tells the story of his altered position on abortion. Like Mr. Lincoln, the other writers are Protestants.

Indeed, one learns that a recent Sindinger & Co. poll reveals that 60 percent of all Americans polled oppose abortion, while only 36 percent approve of it. Eighty per cent of Catholics oppose it.

On the Right

Elevating the Abortion Argument

Amalgamate these statistics, include the percentage of Americans who are Catholics, and one discovers that of all those Americans who oppose abortion, less than one-third are Catholics.

Mr. M.J. Sobran, a young writer from Michigan, inquires into the tactic of dismissing the anti-abortion case as a denominational idiosyncrasy of the Roman Catholic Church. He finds that the tactic is particularly useful to Catholic politicians under pressure. He gives the example of Mr. Frank Kelley, up for reelection as Attorney General of Michigan, asked where he stood on the issue. "With a name like mine," he replied, "naturally I'm against abortion; but if it passes, I'll bow to the wishes and demands of the law."

Mr. Sobran makes the interesting observation that the arguments in favor of abortion "especially for the poor" very often disguise thinly the fact that the public interest is in cutting down the black population. But Catholic "ethics" are widely suspected of being anti-black; of inheriting racial bigotry. Those of them who impartially oppose abortion, even knowing that the highest incidence of it is among black poor, are, surely, impressive in their sincerity. What is their motivation? Is it that "they are eager to impose their own sectarian values on the rest of us? But then we must ask why they did not picket hamburger stands in the days when they were forbidden to eat meat on Fridays; why they do not boycott drugstores that sell birth control devices."

Nor have the opponents of abortion attempted to attract attention to the factor of greed, specifically in the managers of abortion clinics and the doctors who work in them. Mr. Sobran informs us that a young woman reporter in Detroit submitted a urine specimen she said was hers, though in fact it was her boyfriend's, to one of these clinics, and was told that it tested positive; she was pregnant. "She actually went through the operation before publishing the story. An uproar ensued and new restrictions were passed, so that abortions in Detroit can now be performed only under rigorously controlled conditions. An abortionist is forbidden by law to collect his fee without actually killing a child. Thanks to that reporter, other young women are getting their money's worth."

The quarterly is expensive ($2.50). But a free copy will be sent to the first 100 people who ask for it. Write to the Human Life Foundation, Room 540, 150 East 35th Street, New York, 10016. And in reading the cogent, calm arguments of the contributors, bear in mind the haunting admonition of Mr. Muggeridge.

YOU CAN ALWAYS TELL A FAILURE BY THE WAY HE CRITICIZES SUCCESS

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Stepping Toward Suppression

of the Federal government or any other government. You're guilty of that crime if you egg "other persons to engage in conduct that then or at some future time would facilitate" the overthrow of, say, New Jersey. Thus, conceivably, an anti-Mafia speech directed at certain public officials in that state might send the speaker to the big slammer. How else does one overthrow New Jersey without sending it splashing, uninvited into Pennsylvania?

The Nixon-Mitchell-McClellan-Hruska bill is so named because the first two gentlemen thought it up, and, now somewhat rewritten, the old Arkansas anti-subversive and his colleague, the defender of the silent mediocrity, are pushing it. That may explain why it contains clauses to make it impossible for another Daniel Ellsberg to come along and present the nation with a different set of Pentagon Papers.

This bill makes it a crime to pass along or receive "national defense information," a category that includes much more than what we would call "military information." It is so broad it could include almost any sort of political information or data about cost overruns, kickbacks and graft. It would not only nail an Ellsberg but anybody taking anything from an Ellsberg. "Even members of Congress and their staffs might (be) prosecuted," the ACLU comments, adding that had the law been in force during the Pentagon Papers affair, "Reporters, editors, publishers, secretaries, and probably even printers could have been swept up within the statute's reach."

Under the sabotage sections of S.1, people taking part in demonstrations, like those massive outpourings which had so much to do with getting the nation to take a second look at the war, might be prosecuted for a felony. However, even where S.1 is absolutely retrograde, as with its affirmation of the death penalty, it makes little progress in areas of the law of great concern to many.

The marijuana penalties are still harsh. The wiretap provisions are the same as they are now, which is to say inadequate to protect privacy, and nothing is done to prevent the conversion of the grand jury into a legal torture chamber. Under S.1, as under the present law, a person's Fifth Amendment right to clam up is mutilated. By conferring an unsatisfactory immunity on a person, whether he wants it or not, a witness can be forced to testify about the private, non-criminal beliefs and activities of himself and his friends.

For some years, even though the device has been repeatedly used to plague people for their political beliefs, prosecutors have defended the immunity gimmick on the grounds they have to use it to catch gangsters. One social good does have to balance against another, but few gangsters seem to go to jail while many dissidents have gotten and are still getting the grand jury treatment.

S.1 is not on the verge of passage, but its sponsors are determined and tenacious men. They've been nudging this bill along for years, and are about to nudge it out into the full Senate Judiciary Committee where it is not certain there are enough votes to defang it. If it ever gets on the floor it is too complicated to expect it can be fixed up in any very rational form.

Better than killing it would be working this bill so that it does indeed provide the promises in its preamble.

Work Ethic

Editor, The Freeman:

There is a change and reform in order for the welfare (so-called Social Services) and unemployment rolls!! I understand, at this time, that unemployment in Ulster County exceeds 10 percent, with no relief in sight.

Why is it, then, that there is insufficient help in many areas of various businesses? Why are there no workers for jobs that exist today?

On numerous occasions I have placed orders through the welfare and unemployment offices, only to be informed that there is no one available, or that those who are available do not fit in the category of chamber maids or laundry workers.

Sometimes there are applicants; however, they frequent.

Youth Theatre

Editor, The Freeman:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Ulster Youth Theatre for their production of "Alice in Wonderland." Watching the children on stage in their colorful costumes, speaking clearly, having self-confidence in themselves was a delight to see and hear.

Also just being a part of that wonderful audience of children hearing their applause and laughter, really made me feel good in these very troubled times. Good luck in the future and thank you again.

MRS. C. SULLIVAN

ly appear in cut-off jeans with a mid-riff top, and a cigarette dangling out of their mouth. This is not to say that they are expected to appear in formal attire, or in a suit; but at least present themselves as respectful citizens, expecting to be considered for employment — not with dirty hair, nails, and feet. Surely, all welfare and unemployment recipients can't be totally without self-respect and pride in their appearance, even though most of them are very willing to accept hand-outs.

If they are unwilling to work, why should they, or how can they collect welfare or unemployment? I was under the impression that those who were unwilling to accept work were eliminated from welfare rolls. However, being supported by society seems to be fashionable in today's world. Whatever happened to that old-fashioned American pride? Has it been replaced by a complete lack of self-respect and general apathy? Do we have no alternative but to support these leaches on society?

Right now, I am a very angry person. While I, a manager of a large establishment, must take my valuable time to work in the laundry room, because it seems impossible to obtain enough help to do this job.

Why should those who will work make it possible for those who won't to have their holidays and live a life of leisure? They can afford luxuries that the working person cannot, because our wages are so heavily taxed in order to support them in style.

If there is anyone who disagrees with my opinion and train of thought, let me hear from you. If there is anyone who would like an honest job, call on me.

ERA Vote

Editor, The Freeman:

We, members of Mid-Hudson National Organization for Women, are deeply gratified that an overwhelming majority of our state legislators support the concept of equality for women as clearly expressed by the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA).

We take pride in having been part of the major effort of women and men across the state who worked so hard to achieve this significant vote.

We have complete confidence in the judgment of the voters of this state. We are sure that the electorate will approve the ERA by a substantial margin in the November election.

Sincerely yours,
DOT PERSH

Freeman Readers Write*Fluoridation

Editor, The Freeman:

Fluoridation is the addition of sodium fluoride, a powerful cumulative poison (by-product of steel, aluminum and fertilizer industries) to public water supplies. Sodium fluoride was formerly used as rat poison and insecticide.

On Aug. 15, 1963, Edna M. Lovering from the F.D.A. Department stated: "Sodium fluoride used for therapeutic effect would be a drug, not a mineral nutrient." Fluoride has not been determined essential to human nutrition."

Gov. Carey is ill advised about the safety of fluoridation. To start with I would advise him to read "A Struggle with Titans" by George L. Waldbott, M.D. (Carlton Press, N.Y., N.Y. 1965), a fully documented book which deals with fluoridation findings at length. Unfortunately, it has received almost no notice in the ordinary news since its appearance was early October 1965.

Maybe he would be interested in what U.S. Department of Agriculture Handbook No. 38, "Air Pollutants Affecting the Performance of Domestic Animals" Agriculture Research Service. It states, "Airborne fluorides have caused more worldwide damage to domestic animals than any other pollutant. Whenever domestic animals exhibited fluorosis, several cases of human fluorosis were reported, the symptoms of which were one or more of the following: Dental mottling, respiratory distress, fluoride in teeth and urine . . . Man is much more sensitive than animals to fluoride intoxication."

Gov. Carey may be trying to tell us, "home rule is dead?"

In a recent column, I wrote that the University of Boston had "cancelled the invitation to Ron Zeigler" to speak. Mr. John Sibley, the President of the University, advises me that the cancellation was owing not to the obnoxious character of Mr. Zeigler, but to his having been promised, by a refractory student committee, a fee in excess of the statutory limit set by Boston University. I regret I did not know this distinction when I wrote.

Peter J. Savago
County Office Building

Dear Mr. Savago:

We note with some satisfaction that the members of the Committee on Mass Transportation have been named. However, we are at a loss to understand, since no explanation has been given, why the Legislature has failed to include a member of Consumer Organizations on the committee, and has again refused to set time limits for reports. We feel that firm proponents of the utilization of the available Federal and State funds, which alone can assure Mass Transportation with scarcely any investment on the part of the County, should necessarily be part of a committee to create a Transportation System. We hope that a report of concrete progress will be made at the June meeting of the Legislature.

Yours Sincerely,

Area Gardeners Battle Prices

KINGSTON

A year ago, cucumbers, tomatoes, beans and peppers were sprouting like crazy. The backyard garden, prompted by soaring supermarket food prices, was the latest rage.

The fetish for home-grown food, however, appears to have subsided somewhat, but there are still thousands of families who spend evenings and weekends weeding, watering and worrying about the neighbor's dog.

Although the spirit, for the most part, still seems willing, higher seed prices and as apparent shortage in some categories has made it more difficult to grow a well-stocked garden that justifies the time and effort.

Orville Norman of Kingston Garden Center on Route 9W says that some seed prices — peas and beans for example — have doubled this year. Zucchini, squash, peppers and cucumbers cost more and are harder than ever to get.

"I don't know if there's a shortage or if it's just a matter of poor distribution," said Norman, "there were more people interested in home gardening this year than last, but I had to tell some of them that we just didn't have everything they wanted."

Norman said that tomatoes and peppers remain the most popular vegetables for the home gardener, despite price increases in the 40 percent range. About the only category that hasn't increased in price is onions, but they're scarcer than ever.

A spokesman at Clossi's Feed Store on Neighborhood Road in Lake Katrine confirmed Norman's assessment of the situation. He said that the shortage of peppers, cucumbers and fertilizers was especially acute this season, and that prices in just about all categories are higher.

"We've run out of items faster this year than last year," he noted, "I think it's a combination of more gardeners, and smaller supplies."

The people at Foxfire Nursery in Stone Ridge didn't necessarily agree with assessments that people are as enthusiastic as ever about starting and maintaining a backyard garden.

"I think there are probably fewer gardeners this year," said a Foxfire spokesman, "supermarket prices are lower than last year and I think a lot of people who started a garden last year didn't realize just how much work it involves. The oldtimers — the ones who know what it takes and don't mind the hard work — are still buying seeds."

He noted that tomatoes, potatoes and peppers are the most popular for the veteran gardener. Annuals such as strawberries, rhubarb and asparagus are favorites, as well. It was also noted that the enthusiasm of beginning gardeners may have been dampened somewhat this year by seed prices that are 30 to 40 percent higher than 1974.

While the combination of seed shortages and higher prices may have dissuaded some from continuing this year what many thought was just a fad a year ago, there are still plenty of amateur gardeners in the area who will celebrate their persistence and ingenuity with fresh, home-grown vegetables this summer.

Ulster Academy Ceremonies Set

KINGSTON

Ulster Academy will graduate a class of 16 students at its 6th commencement, June 9 at 3 p.m. at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Michael Van Kleeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baltus Van Kleeck of Red Hook, will be the valedictorian. He will attend Amherst College next fall.

Deirdre DiDonna, daughter of Ms. Cay Conway of Kingston, will be the salutatorian. She will attend Cornell University in the fall.

Commencement speaker will be Ms. Karen Peters of Stone Ridge, an attorney who practices locally. She was most recently a member of the defense team in the McGovern-Culhane trial.

A reception in the garden of the Gov. Clinton Hotel will follow graduation ceremonies, weather permitting.

Catskill Center Annual Meeting

HOBART

The 1975 annual meeting of the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development (CCCD) will be held Saturday, June 14 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at center headquarters in Hobart.

The morning agenda will include a review of the year's activities by CCCD president Sherret S. Chase, the report of the CCCD's executive director, Peter R. Borrelli, and an address by Roger Barber, chairman of the Governor's Task Force on Agriculture.

Following lunch there will be simultaneous showings of the film "The Challenge to Our Catskills" and the multiple slide production of "Downsville 1890." For persons wishing to see both shows, the film will be repeated later in the afternoon.

Persons interested in attending and having lunch should arrange reservations as soon as possible.

Hobart is located in Delaware County, about three miles southwest of Stamford on Route 10.

A Tax Break for Senior Citizens with Low Income

ALBANY Senior citizens with low incomes will be eligible for a break on their property taxes under a bill that has passed the State Assembly.

The bill, sponsored by Ronald A. Stott (D-Onondaga), allows local municipalities to grant homeowners 65 or older increased real property tax exemptions, based on their income level.

"The legislation is needed," Stott said. "More than 88 percent of New York State's senior citizens over 65 years of age have household incomes of less than $7,000."

Under the bill, if the income of the owner or owners is $2,000 or less, the allowed tax exemption may be up to 100 percent of the assessed valuation, but not less than 50 percent, Stott explained. If income is between $2,000 and $3,000, the exemption may be up to 90 percent.

"A graduated scale covers home owners with higher incomes," Stott said. "The top range allows a 25 percent exemption for those with incomes of more than $6,500 but less than $7,000."

"At the present time, one-third of all state municipalities grant no senior citizen tax exemption at all. Moreover, the present tax exemption guidelines do not provide greater relief for those in the lower income brackets.

"By scaling the tax exemptions, our bill encourages communities to give added help to those with the greatest need, without imposing a prohibitive burden on the local municipal budget. And, hopefully, it will encourage those communities that do not offer such exemptions to do so."

Meanwhile, Assemblyman Emeel Betros (R-99th) says his efforts to relieve some of the burden of land taxes from senior citizens have been thwarted by the Assembly Democrats.

Betros said that the aforementioned bipartisan-sponsored bill was advanced by the Assembly Majority which would enable localities to provide real property tax exemptions to senior citizens based on a sliding income scale. Betros proposed an amendment which would have excluded Social Security from the income on which real property tax is calculated.

"Unfortunately," said Assemblyman Betros, "as debate ensued on my Social Security amendment, it became obvious that a Republican proposal was not part of the Democrat Majority's 'master plan' but that the significant benefit inherent in the amendment was garnering wide support from the Democrat side of the aisle.

"It became apparent that they felt the amendment was in danger of passing, despite the fact that it was sponsored by a Minority Republican assemblyman and the Democrat Majority quickly went to work and corralled enough 'no' votes into line to assure the amendment's defeat just because it was sponsored by a Republican."

"Ultimate defeat of my amendment was a tremendous loss for the elderly of this state. Many of our senior citizens rely greatly on Social Security for their incomes and this amendment should have been passed because the senior citizen is experiencing severe economic hardship now more than ever," Betros concluded.

Public Disclosure Plan

ALBANY

In an effort to open up more government operations to the people, State Senator Edwyn E. Mason of Hobart (R-48th) and Assemblyman Clark Wemple of Schenectady (R-107th) are co-sponsoring legislation requiring disclosure of all negotiations between public employees and their governmental employers.

The Mason-Wemple bill would affect teachers, negotiating the terms of conditions of their employment with school boards, as well as other local and state governmental employees. Demands and counter-demands by both sides in all negotiations would have to be publicly disclosed within 48 hours of their occurrence.

"Such negotiations are now conducted in secrecy, behind closed doors. The public and media are excluded. Only when a final agreement is reached, is the public let in on the secret," Mason noted. "This is wrong, the subject of much complaint, and contrary to our system of open government, and to the public's right to know how its money is being spent."

"When you consider that roughly 80 percent of the average school budget goes toward employee salaries and fringe benefits, it's understandable why any attempts to hide such detailed information is a continual source of much public dissatisfaction and distrust," Mason said.

Fish, Gilman and McHugh Oppose Women's Academy

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Congressmen Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th), Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th) and Matthew McHugh (D-27th) all voted against a House amendment aimed at setting up a separate women's academy for the armed forces.

The measure was defeated by a 284-113 vote. Proponents were generally in favor of delaying a bill for up to one year that would allow women to enter service academies under the same conditions as men. With the amendment for a women's academy defeated, the bill to allow women to enter the existing academies was passed and sent to the Senate. Fish, Gilman and McHugh were in the majority.

Roll Call

Ulster's three congressmen were split on the issue of funding research for the B-1 bomber to the tune of $108 million. McHugh voted to delete the funds while Fish and Gilman voted to retain them in a defense appropriations bill. Final vote was 227-164 in favor of the B-1 which is expected to replace the B-52 bomber.

McHugh was in the majority (208-195) in a vote to postpone a veto override vote on President Ford's rejection of strip mining legislation. Fish and Gilman voted against delaying the veto until June 10. Congress returns from its Memorial Day Recess on June 2.

Before they left on their Memorial Recess (the vote on recessing was 233-99 with Fish and McHugh voting to recess and Gilman voting against) the House took up some house-keeping legislation, raising its per-member staff payroll allowance by $23,000 to a total of $227,270. The members also voted to increase their employees per member from 16 to 18 and to raise the number of free trips back home to 26 from the present 18. Fish and McHugh voted against the measure while Gilman voted for it.

In the senate, the vote was 41-40 permitting President Ford to lift a ban on U.S. arms aid to Turkey providing the Turks keep the cease fire with Cyprus. Senator James Buckley voted in favor while Senator Jacob Javits voted against. Congress had originally imposed the ban on Feb. 5.

Javits voted in favor and Buckley against an amendment to remove anti-busing language from a House-passed bill on supplemental appropriations. Final vote was 51-38.

Javits and Buckley were in agreement on the senate's rejection of a measure to cut $700 million for railroad repairs. Final vote was 46-16 against.

EXCELLENCE comes in many sizes

And, in the case of Paddock Gunite Pools, many shapes, as well. Whatever the design, your Paddock Gunite Pool will be installed by expert craftsmen; men who take great pride in the quality of the work they do. They also know that they represent a firm that has been the recognized leader in the swimming pool industry for more than half a century. Regardless of the shape and size of your Paddock Gunite Pool, it will be custom designed and site-engineered to combine beautiful form and unequalled operating efficiency. And it will be built to last a lifetime. That statement is not just a meaningless bit of advertising puffery. You'll actually receive a Contractor's Structural Guarantee, which means that the soundness of your Paddock Gunite Pool is guaranteed for as long as you own it. Paddock has 55 years of corporate reliability to back that guarantee.

One reason we can offer such a guarantee is because your Paddock Pool will be constructed using the Gunite process. With the Gunite method, concrete is pneumatically applied over a framework of reinforcing steel. In addition to the exceptional strength of the structure, the adaptability of the Gunite process means that the exact size, shape and depth of your Paddock Pool is determined by the terrain of the swimming pool's location, by your family's need and your own personal taste. If you appreciate impeccable craftsmanship, experience, integrity—in short, if you appreciate excellence, your only choice is a Gunite Pool by Paddock. For complete details, call or write. We'd like to talk with you. You are under no obligation. Financing is available.

- OUR POLICIES HAVE NEVER CHANGED:
1. Only prime meats used. Why prime meats? The U.S. Govt. rates this to be America's best.
  2. We use no tenderizers. Why not? Because some people have adverse reactions to tenderizers.
  3. No artificial seasoning or flavorings. Why not? Prime meat doesn't need them—the flavor is there.
  4. Our fish products are not frozen. Fresh from Fulton Fish Market and file on premises
  5. We care to originate and not duplicate.

Irwin Ahead By Three in Atlanta Classic

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hale Irwin hardly considers his three-stroke lead entering the final round of the Atlanta Golf Classic Sunday insurmountable.

The reigning U.S. Open champ knows only too well how quickly that lead can evaporate.

After all, he had almost a grandstand seat when Miller Barber, leading Irwin by a shot at the time, suffered a three-stroke swing on a single hole. "This still is anybody's ball game and I'm going to play Sunday with that in mind," Irwin said after shooting a third-round 68 Saturday for a 13-under-par 203 that had him three strokes ahead of surprise runner-up Charles Coody.

"Anybody can come out of the pack and shoot 64 on this course," Irwin said. "Nothing is safe."

The steady Irwin was a stroke behind the 44-year-old Barber going into the 15th hole Saturday on the hilly Atlanta Country Club course.

That's where Barber, playing in the threesome immediately ahead of Irwin's group, saw his game collapse.

"Mr. X" suffered a double bogey six at 15 when he put his approach shot into thick rough to the left of the green and needed three more shots to get on—then preceded to bogey the next two holes as well.

Irwin ran home an 18-foot putt on the 15th hole to move two ahead and was three ahead of the field until Coody temporarily cut that margin to two with a birdie at the final hole. Irwin matched that birdie to return to his three-stroke edge again.

Tom Watson shot a seven-under-par 65 to move into a tie for third place at nine-under 207 with Johnny Miller who had a 68 and Jim Dent who had a 69.

Barber, winding up at 73-208, was tied with Jack Nicklaus, who had a 67 Saturday, says he still feels he has a chance at winning here for the third straight year.

Billy Casper had a 73 Saturday and was alone at 209. Jack Ewing (70), Ray Floyd (69), Gibby Gilbert (70) and Leonard Thompson (67) were all at 210.

"It's still anyone's ball game," said Irwin who earlier had noted that a three-stroke lead was far from safe on the Atlanta Country Club course. "I'm going out there in the final round tomorrow (Sunday) with that in mind."

Irwin noted that a lot of low scores have been made in the first three rounds of this $225,000 "designated" tour event and the man who wins the $45,000 first prize on Sunday will have to be prepared to shoot a pretty good final round.

Irwin, who has won more than $80,000 already this year although he hasn't been a tournament winner since last June's U.S. Open, had five birdies and one bogey in Saturday's round. His best birdie putt was a 20-footer at No. 9 but he felt his best shot of the day was a wedge he left 18 inches from the pin on the final hole after going over the green into deep grass.

Kermit Zarley, Mark Hayes, Lyn Lott, Allen Miller and Larry Hinson were all at 211. Lee Trevino, with a Saturday 67, was at 212 along with John Schlee, Jim Colbert, Don Bies and Joe Imman.

Irwin was tied for the lead after an opening round 66 with Casper and Imman and tied for the lead with Barber after the second round when Barber shot a record-tying 64.

"Anybody can come out of the pack and shoot a 64 on this course," said Irwin. "Nothing is safe."

Beaver Leads County Golf Qualifier

By Charles J. Tiano

ACCORD

This was kind of a crazy week for Dennis Beaver, the 1973 Sawyerkill Country Club champion.

Last Monday, he posted a horrendous 91 on his home layout and it was to be the last time he hit a ball until Saturday's Ulster County Amateur qualifying round at the Rondout Golf, Pool and Tennis Club.

In between, illness in the family kept him away from the golf course. The enforced rest must have had a salutary effect on the IBM employee. Combining a brilliant chipping and putting game he fired a one-over-par 36-37-73 to pace the 60-player field.

Ted Decker, a Rondout High School graduate with professional aspirations, was runnerup with 39-35-74. Bob Bechtold and Dan Gaffney of Twaalfskill and Charlie Stauffer of the host club tied with 76.

Jack Parnett of Wiltwyck grabbed sixth place with 77. Bryan Smith Jr. of Wiltwyck had 78 and Harold Van Aken of Wiltwyck and Darin Bigelow of Sawyerkill carded 79s.

Beaver, who played with several Kingston High School championship teams, toured the challenging Rondout without a three-putt green and fashioned four birdies along the way. The first time around he rolled in a 25-footer on the No. 4 hole and chipped in on the seventh.

On his second swing around, he holed out a 25-footer on the fourth hole and a 20-footer on the seventh.

"I think I had only one bad shot all day," said the former Sawyerkill champion who has long been regarded as one of the county's finest tournament players. "I was chipping and putting well and I'd have to say my iron shots were responsible for my good round."

Beaver said he had about a half dozen one-putt greens. Decker, who returned to golf competition this season after a two-year layoff, managed to escape a three-putt green and collected his three birdies for a 35 on the back nine.

He pinpointed beautiful iron shots for two-foot birdie putts on the 10th and 11th holes and canned a 25-footer on the 16th hole.

"It was the best game I've played all year," said Decker, who hit 14 greens in regulation. "I managed a scrambling par on the 18th hole," he said. He missed a three-footer for a birdie on the 8th hole. "I thought the greens were rolling beautifully," he said, echoing the sentiments of the entire field.

CHIP SHOTS:

It was a profitable day for the Rondout club. Not only did it shed its image as a 'tough course' but the condition of its greens drew universal praise from the players... Alternate tees setting up par 5s on the 2nd and 8th holes resulted in better than expected scores... Tony Pizzarelli, who went out in 38, could have broken the log jam of players who got a free ride with 85s, but had his troubles on the back nine, skied to a 48 and missed the cut by one shot... Beneficiaries of the decision to cancel a sudden death playoff for the 28th spot

Ruffian Romps to Mother Goose Victory

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ruffian, Locust Hill Farm's unbeaten 3-year-old filly, broke a stakes record and ran off to a 13½ length victory Saturday in the $83,700 Mother Goose Stakes at Aqueduct.

Ruffian now has won all nine of her races and has captured the first two legs of New York's Filly Triple Crown.

Sweet Old Girl was second, two lengths in front of Sun and Snow, Sir Ivor's Sorrow, Gallant Trial, Point In Time and Dan's Commander, who threw rider Rudy Turcotte at the bad start, trailed.

Only Dark Mirage in 1968, Shuvee a year later, and Chris Evert last year have swept the Acorn, Mother Goose and Coaching Club American Oaks. Ruffian, who captured the Acorn here on May 10 by 8½ lengths, will make the attempt, no doubt again as an overwhelming favorite, to complete the Triple on June 21 at Belmont Park in the 1½-mile Oaks.

The coal black daughter of Reviewer-Shenanigans, who is trained by Frank Whiteley Jr., set slow early fractions in allowing her six opponents a chance to stay within range for the first three-quarters of a mile in the 1½-mile Mother Goose.

But jockey Jacinto Vasquez, who once again found it unnecessary to use his whip, opened up an eight-length lead by the head of the stretch and finished the contest easily in 1:47.4-5 for Ruffian's greatest margin of victory since her first race.

The time was three-fifths of a second better than the stakes record of 1:48.2-5 held jointly by Wanda in 1972 and Windy's Daughter in 1973, but four-fifths of a second slower than Riva Ridge's track record.

Ruffian earned $50,220 for the victory to raise her career earnings to $246,709. She has now captured nine races, including seven stakes, at distances between 5½ furlongs and 1½ miles, with an average winning margin of just under nine lengths. She has tasted the whip once.

Sent off at odds of 1-10 by the crowd of 30,798, Ruffian paid $2.20, $2.20 and $2.10. Sweet Old Girl, the longest shot at better than 33-1, returned $8.20 and $2.10 and Sun and Snow showed at $2.10.

The heavy betting on Ruffian created a total minus show pool, fast becoming a tradition when Ruffian runs, of $57,513.15 between the track and the New York Off-Track Betting Corp.

Two strokes back was Donna Caponi Young, who overcame a painful side injury to score seven birdies, five on the first seven holes enroute to a 73. But she also had seven bogies.

Sandra Palmer, the LPGA's leading money winner, also shot even par and was all alone at 218, one stroke ahead of Gail Denenberg and JoAnn Washam and two ahead of Jocelyn Bourassa and Carol Mann.

Mrs. Young's injury occurred on the practice tee prior to the third round. "I felt this pop on my left side the first time I swung and suffered with it on the front nine. I can't complain too much because I made some great putts."

Trying to explain her seven bogies, Mrs. Young said, "This course is too tough not to make bogies. I tried to block out the pain, but was reminded of it every time I swung."

"Anybody three strokes back still has a chance to win this tournament," she said. "Whoever makes less mistakes is going to win it."

She said she would ask fellow golfer Amy Amizich, a retired physical therapist, about treatment for her injury.

Lakers Bidding for Jabbar

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers Saturday denied a report they were close to making a trade with the Milwaukee Bucks for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, but admitted they have been talking with the Bucks for months.

"We've been talking for months and are still talking," a Lakers' spokesman said Saturday, adding that Bucks' 7-foot-2 superstar was at the center of the conversations.

"Who else would we be talking about but Jabbar?" the spokesman said. "But so is everybody else in the league. If we make any deal, of course we'll announce it."

A sportscaster for television station KNBC reported Friday night that the Lakers and Bucks were "close" to an agreement that would bring the former UCLA All-American to Los Angeles.

In exchange for Jabbar, the Lakers reportedly would give the Bucks center Elmore Smith, guard Brian Winters and the NBA rights to former

UCLA forward Dave Meyers and Junior Bridgeman, the Lakers' top picks in this week's player draft.

It was learned, meanwhile, that the offer was made by the Lakers to the board of directors of the Milwaukee Bucks, which initially was split on the deal. Bucks general manager Wayne Embry was in favor of releasing Jabbar from his contract, which had another option year to run, figuring the team could get more for him this year than next, a source close to the offer disclosed.

Jabbar has been in Los Angeles for the past week, playing tennis with his friend and former teammate at both UCLA and Milwaukee, Lucius Allen. Allen came to the Lakers early last season.

When contacted Friday night for his reaction to reported trade, Lakers owner Jack Kent Cooke said the idea was "titillating" but he denied that the club was close to a deal.

Anthony Beats Frazier for PBA Title

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI) — Earl Anthony rolled strikes in eight of 10 frames Saturday to turn back Jim Frazier and win the $75,000 Professional Bowling Association National Championships for a record third straight year.

Anthony, 37, a left-hander from Tacoma, Wash., built up a 75-pin lead over Frazier, from Spokane, Wash., before coasting to a 245-180 victory in the tournament finals.

Anthony's $9,000 prize gave him earnings of $68,560 so far this year. That is $15,000 ahead of his pace last year, when he fell just $415 short of becoming the first pro bowler ever to earn $100,000 in one year.

Frazier rolled two spares at the start of the nationally televised final match, but had an open third frame. Anthony started with two strikes and a spare to take an early lead.

The defending champion led by 42 pins after six frames and his bulge ballooned to 75 when Frazier missed an easy spare in the ninth.

Frazier won three matches earlier in the day in his bid for his first championship. The finals started with Frazier downing Ross Packard, San Jose, Calif., 220-207, and Gary Mage, Seattle, 233-164.

Frazier then met Mark Roth of Staten Island, N.Y., last year's runner-up, in the tournament semi-finals, and beat him 238-199 to set up the final match against Anthony.

CHRIS EVERT

ROME (UPI) — Chris Evert retained her singles title at the Italian International Tennis Championships Saturday, trouncing Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia, 6-1, 6-0, in 42 minutes.

Romania's mercurial Ilie Nastase became too nervous to play in the men's singles and left Mexico's Raul Ramirez a finals berth against Manuel Orantes of Spain.

Miss Evert, the world's top-ranked women's player, had little more than a workout in defeating the 19-year-old Czechoslovak lefthander, whom she had whipped in last year's final as well.

Apart from an opening game deuce, and the fourth game of the first set which she won, Miss Navratilova won only 14 points in the entire match. Chris, who picked up $5,000 for her victory, lost only 13 games during the championships and never played more than an hour in any of her five matches.

Nastase, the world's sixth ranked badboy of tennis third seeded here, explained that he became ill from nervousness before the match because Ramirez, who eliminated defending champion and top seed Bjorn Borg of Sweden in straight sets Friday, was half an hour late for the match.

Nastase said he considered asking the organizers for a default because Ramirez was late but decided against it for the sake of the spectators at the Italian championships.

Ramirez was winning 6-2, 5-2 when Nastase offered him his hand on the sidelines during the court change, picked up his racquets and stalked off the court to the dressing room. Nastase said he could not breathe because of his nervousness.

Miss Evert, who was smashing in a lilac and white harlequin check dress, was equally smashing with her doublefisted crosscourt backhand which kept the second-seeded Czechoslovak behind the baseline most of the match.

Miss Evert passed Miss Navratilova at will and when she attacked the net she left her opponent shaking her head at drop volleys that fell for free points. Chris who has not lost in Europe in two years, won on her second match point which Miss Navratilova dribbled off her forehead on the left side.

Nastase opened well against Ramirez, breaking the Mexican's serve in the second game. However, Ramirez put together eight straight games to take the first set 6-2 and lead 2-0 in the second.

Ramirez attacked the net hard and fast and left the Romanian, who won here in 1970 and 1973, watching helplessly as the Mexican's drop volleys fell out of reach. Nastase held his third and fifth game serves but Ramirez took the sixth game at love to set up the crucial seventh.

That game went to five deuces with Ramirez earning three break points. Ramirez put it away to take the 5-2 lead when Nastase hit long. At that point, Nastase quit.

Orantes gave second-seeded Argentine southpaw Guillermo Vilas a lesson in precision placement and mixing shots in a straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2, semifinals victory. Vilas, who climbed to No. 4 world ranking after losing to Borg in the semifinals at Rome last year, could never find the range against the Spaniard.

Cleon Leads Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hot-hitting Cleon Jones doubled home one run and then ignited a three-run sixth inning rally with a leadoff single Saturday night, carrying the New York Mets to a 7-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Jones, who doubled in Felix Millan for the Mets' first run in the second inning, led off the three-run sixth with a single before leaving for a pinch-runner after a perfect 3-for-3 night that lifted his average to .800 since coming off the disabled list four days ago.

Following Jones' single, the Mets got consecutive singles from Ed Kranepool, Joe Torre and Mike Phillips, plus a sacrifice fly by John Stearns to snap a 1-1 tie in the sixth and break the game open.

The Mets, who had 17 hits in the game including three each from Jones, Kranepool and Phillips, added three more runs in the eighth on Del Unser's bases-loaded single and a run-scoring single by Millan.

Tom Seaver, who struck out six and held the Padres to six hits in picking up the win, saw his bid for a no-hitter and a shutout end in the sixth inning when losing pitcher Joe McIntosh (5-3) singled and came home on Johnny Grubb's double to deep centerfield. Grubb gave the Padres their other run in the eighth with a solo homer over the rightfield fence, his second of the season.

In beating the Padres for the 15th time in 16 lifetime decisions, Seaver improved his season's record to 7-4 and went the distance for the seventh time this year.

Cubs Trim Dodgers, 2-1

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jose Cardenal called his shot. In fact, he did better than that for the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

"Jose told me in the locker room preceding the game that he was going to hit a home run and that I had to do was pitch a shutout," Cubs pitcher Rick Reuschel said.

Instead, Cardenal smacked two home runs—although losing pitcher Andy Messersmith insisted the second roundtripper was "not a homer." And while Reuschel didn't quite make the shutout, he did throw a three-hitter for a 2-1 Chicago victory.

The Cubs needed it after the Dodgers opened the day by preserving a 3-1 win to finish a contest delayed by darkness Friday after 7½ innings were completed. Messersmith yielded only one hit to the Cubs over the last two innings of that game to save Don Sutton's ninth win against three losses.

In the regularly scheduled game, Messersmith said, Cardenal "hit a good fast ball" in the fourth inning and a "bad slider" in the sixth inning. He said Jose didn't deserve the second home run.

"The umpires blew the call because on the replay it clearly shows that a kid in a yellow shirt backhanded the ball below the wall and therefore it should have been a ground rule double," he said after suffering his second straight loss after seven wins in a row.

However, Messersmith praised Reuschel for "one helluva performance."

Expos Nip Giants, 3-2

MONTREAL (UPI) — Mike Jorgensen homered to lead off the ninth inning Saturday and give the Montreal Expos a 3-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Rookie Gary Lavelle, who replaced Giants' starter Jim Barr in the ninth, had a 1-2 count on Jorgensen before the Expos first baseman hit his fifth homer over the rightfield fence to break a 2-2 tie.

Rookie Dan Warthen picked up the win, his first major league decision.

Pirates Tounce Braves

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dave Parker paced a 16-hit attack with three hits and scored three runs Saturday night to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 11-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves for their sixth straight victory.

Bruce Kison tossed an eight-hitter and recorded his fifth victory against one loss. The triumph kept the Pirates a half-game ahead of the Chicago Cubs in the National League East.

Roric Harrison, the first of five Atlanta pitchers, took his fourth loss in seven decisions.

Astros Explode, 15-3

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Pinch-hitter Cliff Johnson drove in three runs with a double and a homer to highlight a 12-run eighth inning Saturday night that gave the Houston Astros a 15-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Astros went into the eighth trailing 2-0 but knocked out Wayne Twitchell and hammered reliever Tug McGraw and Gene Garber for the 12 runs.

Reds Shutout Cards

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Left-hander Don Gullett tossed a four-hitter and Joe Morgan cracked a two-run homer in the first inning Saturday night to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-0 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Gullett raised his record to 6-3 with his second shutout and fifth complete game. He struck out five and walked two in besting Bob Gibson who failed to last past the fifth inning.

Wisconsin Sweeps IRA

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Wisconsin won the Jim Ten Eyck memorial trophy Saturday after sweeping the Intercollegiate Rowing Association championships on Onondaga Lake for the third consecutive year.

"I am very elated," Coach Randy Jablonic said, after his team was given the trophy for scoring a total 248.6 points in all events.

Bayi Runs 3:55.4 Mile

LONDON (UPI) — Filbert Bayi, the pencil-slim Tanzanian world record holder, won the 23rd Emsley Carr mile event by 10 yards at London's Crystal Palace Saturday in 3:55.4, well outside the record 3:51.0 he set in Kingston, Jamaica, two weeks ago.

A Run for Mets

Mets' Felix Millan races home, scoring from first on double by Cleon Jones in third inning of Saturday night's game against San Diego. At left is New York's Rusty Staub.

Catfish: One-Hitter

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter surrendered a lone sixth-inning single and was backed by a 16-hit attack Saturday night in pitching the New York Yankees to a 6-0 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Hunter boosted his record to 7-5 with his sixth victory during the month of May. It was his third shutout of the season.

The only hit off Hunter came in the sixth when Cesar Tovar singled cleanly through the middle with two outs. Texas put only one other man on base as Toby Harrah reached in the third on an error by shortstop Jim Mason.

The New York attack was highlighted by a four-run seventh inning during which Bobby Bonds hit his 10th homer of the year into the left field seats after Fred Stanley had singled.

Elliott Maddox followed Bonds with a single, stole second and scored on a single by Roy White, who then came home on Chris Chambliss' double.

Maddox, who has piled up nine hits in the first three games of the four-game Yankee-Rangers series, doubled in the first and scored on White's single. White scored in the fourth, opening the inning with a single, moving to second on Mason's base hit and coming in on another single by Graig Nettles.

The game drew a ball-night crowd of 38,714, the second largest in the Rangers' four-year history.

Indians Top A's, 4-1

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rookie Dennis Ekersley tossed a six-hitter and George Hendrick drove in three runs with a pair of homers Saturday to lead the Cleveland Indians to a 4-1 victory over the Oakland A's.

The 20-year-old Ekersley, who had blanked Oakland on three hits last Sunday, walked only one and struck out five in raising his record to 3-0. He gave up his first earned run in 28 2-3 major league innings when the A's scored in the sixth on Phil Garner's bunt single and a double by Sal Bando.

Tigers Zip Chisox, 2-0

DETROIT (UPI) — Willie Horton hit his 11th home run of the season Saturday and rookie Vern Riffe pitched his first major league shutout, a 2-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Jim Kaat yielded Horton's home run following a single by Dan Meyer in the fourth inning to lose for the second time in his last 17 decisions. Kaat now is 8-2 this season.

Ruhle, who struck out five and walked one, raised his record to 5-1. It was his second complete game in a row.

Two-out singles by Ken Henderson in the fourth and Brian Downing in the fifth were the only hits by Chicago.

Red Sox Rip Twins, 12-8

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Rookie Jim Rice smashed a three-run homer in the seventh inning Saturday, snapping a 7-7 tie and lifting the Boston Red Sox to a 12-8 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Rick Burleson and Carl Yastrzemski singled with one out before Rice hit his seventh homer of the season into the leftfield bleachers. Dwight Evans doubled home the final two Boston runs in the ninth.

The Red Sox laced 17 hits off three Twins' pitchers with the win going to reliever Roger Moret and the loss to Tom Burgeimer.

Mayberry Sparks Royals

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — John Mayberry collected three hits, including a homer and a double, scored three runs and drove in another to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 7-5 victory Saturday over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The triumph was the Royals' seventh in last eight games while the Brewers absorbed their 10th loss in 12 games.

Mayberry hit his fifth home run into the centerfield bleachers leading off the second, singled and scored in the fourth and doubled and scored in the fifth.

Lindy McDaniel, who relieved starter Dennis Leonard with one out in the fourth, held the Brewers to just one hit and one walk the rest of the way for his second victory without a loss.

Harvey Bostic, the Wiltwyck Golf Club professional who bids for a U.S. Open spot in the Sectional Qualifier at Greenwich, Conn. Tuesday, sees it as a happy omen — his pairing with Tom Nieporte of Piping Rock, Locust Valley in the 36-hole ground.

"My brother, Joe, was up from Long Island last week and thought it would be a great idea if I were paired with Nieporte in the Sectional," says Bostic. "I received my notice from the USGA Thursday and there it was. I am paired with Nieporte and Lloyd Monroe!"

Nieporte, an infrequent PGA tour player who se biggest triumph came in the Los Angeles Open, is regarded as one of the best teachers in the game.

As Joe put it to his older brother, "He should help you on some of those holes. 'He keeps the ball in play beautifully.' Nieporte led the local Long Island qualifier with rounds of 66 and 69. He is the current Long Island champion.

It's a high class field of 61 pros and 7 amateurs against whom Bostic will be vying for one of 10 U.S. Open Berths. Probably the best known is aging Doug Ford of Westchester, a former Masters and PGA champion.

The list also includes present and past tour regulars like Howie Johnson, Rex Baxter, Mike Krak, Mike Fitchik, Art Silvestrone, Roger Ginsberg. Also on hand will be Tom Joyce, one of Met area's best new players, and Pat Schwab.

One of the most illustrious amateurs in the country, William Hyndman of Philadelphia, and our old friend Johnny Parsons, a former winner of the Woodstock Open are also in the field.

Besides Bostic, the Northeastern contingent includes Ben Lendzion of Stratton Mountain, Vt., who led the Local Qualifier at Albany Country Club. Long-Hitting Ralph Montoya makes his bid along with Ken Tallon, Don Deletka, Ron Philo and Don Kalode.

A field of 601 will compete in the 13 Sectional Qualifying rounds remaining on June 2, 3 and June 10. These players, plus the 28 totally exempt, are all that remain from an original entry of 4,300. The 122 survivors will comprise the starting field of 150 which begins the 75th Open Championship over the No. 3 course of the Medinah Country Club at Medinah, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. The Open will be played June 19 through June 22.

Our congratulations to the Ulster County Women's Golf Association for biting the bullet and finally elevating its country championship event to a Class tournament.

Under the new format, any woman player in Ulster County with a Class S handicap (19 and under) as of June 1, 1975 is automatically qualified for this year's event. They must exercise the option to compete by notifying their UCWGA representative no later than July 1, 1975.

The low 25 gross scorers in this year's tournament will be exempt from qualifying in 1976. That's a good start.

The qualifying tournament may cause some problems for the association but if it plans to retain a major league format, it will have to follow through as planned. The initial qualifier for the number of berths to fill a field of 46 players is scheduled July 8 at Sawyerkill Country Club. In case of ties for the 45th place, all who tie will be permitted to play.

The tournament proper will be played on two consecutive days, a departure from the two-week format of the past. The first round is scheduled Tuesday, Aug. 5 at Wiltwyck and the final round the next day at Stone Dock, Friday, Aug. 8, is the rain date for either club.

Betty Davenport, one of the prime movers for an all-gross championship, appears concerned about the at-large qualifying round on July 8 at Sawyerkill. She fears that many women in the 20-and-up handicap range will be reluctant to subject themselves to the qualifying ordeal.

From past experience, we know that the at-large qualifying gets off the ground slowly and then mushrooms, when golfers realize it is the only path to the championship tournament. Meantime, 25 players in this year's will be exempt from qualifying in 1976.

There is still room for a county-wide women's handicap tournament for some worthy cause and needs only to be promoted. But the women's county championship is where it belongs.

A group of 40 former New Paltz State varsity golfers combined as assault on Huguenot Manor's demanding par and nostalgic memories in the first annual New Paltz State Golf Reunion staged by Coach Doug Sheppard. The old Hawks came from diverse points as Buffalo, Burlington, N.J. and West Chester, Pa. "It was a fantastic day all the way around," aid the coach.

Among the golfers who attended were three who are now professionals: Bob Freer of Mt. Holly, N.J.; Ron Ward from Utica and Jack Jordan of nearby Tarrybrae in Sullivan County. Also attending were Bill Cutler, former SUNY champion and Jeff Berry, a recent Orange County champion.

Ulster County was represented by Rick Barthel, the Onteora High coach and former Ulster County Amateur champion and Mike Mostrowsky. Barthel is the only golfer ever to win two consecutive individual titles in State University Athletic Conference competition. Barthel didn't fare too well in the eighteen-hole tournament, placing tenth with an 84.

None of the 40 players was able to match the Manor's rugged par 36-36-72. Best score of the day was turned in by Pete Strafaci (1962-63) whose father is the pro at Dykner Beach, one of the world's busiest public courses, and whose uncle is head pro at the plush Doral Club in Miami.

Strafaci put together nines of 38-39 for a five-over par 77. Berry was runnerup with 78. Jordan posted a 79. Others in the top ten included Jim Bilezikjian 80, Jay Golden 81, Mostrowsky 81, Bob Freer 81, Ron Shapiro 82, George Ross 83, Barthel and Bill Meddaugh 84.

Remember, in golf the most important shot is the next one.

Barry Tops All-NBA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rick Barry, Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association finals where he led his underdog Golden State team to the league championship, today was the leading vote-getter in balloting for the NBA All Star team.

The team, announced as his last official act by retiring commissioner Walter Kennedy, consisted of Barry, Elvin Hayes of Washington, Bob McAdoo of Buffalo, Nate Archibald of Kansas City-Omaha and Walt Frazier of New York.

Hayes and McAdoo were selected for the first time.

The second team lineup was made up of John Havlicek, Dave Cowens and Jojo White, all of Boston, Spencer Haywood of Seattle and Phil Chenier of Washington.

Knicks May Have to Pay to Avoid 'Piracy' Charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks made an initial installment of $500,000 to sign George McGinnis and now may have to pay some more to avoid "piracy" charges.

McGinnis accepted a six-year, $2 million package and was reported to have received a down payment check of a half-million dollars for his services when he agreed to terms with Knicks President Mike Burke "a few minutes before midnight on Thursday night."

Big George shrewdly had protected his future last season when he signed a two-year contract with the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association with an option allowing him to buy out of the pact for $85,000.

The Philadelphia 76ers, who hold the NBA draft rights to McGinnis, labeled the action Friday a "piracy." They called for the commissioner and the member clubs to support them against "the flagrant violation of the constitution and bylaws of the NBA."

Observers feel, however, the 76ers can be easily placated if they obtain in return from New York a player of above average ability as salve for being burned.

Burke admitted "we didn't notify Philadelphia in advance, but we called the club early Friday and told Irv Kosloff we had signed George. I don't know if he can interfere with this agreement, but I told him we were prepared to negotiate with the 76ers for acquiring McGinnis."

McGinnis, a fourth-year pro, was a sophomore sensation at the University of Indiana in 1970-71. He cut short his college career to sign with the Pacers and Philadelphia drafted him in 1973 when his class graduated.

After Signing George McGinnis

"We've been actively interested in George for a year and negotiated strenuously to get him," Burke said of New York's previous attempts to land the ABA scoring champion who averaged 29.8 points a game this past season. "We found him unsettled about his future plans and then he elected not to join us."

"Last Thursday, we reopened negotiations and updated our earlier contract proposals."

McGinnis had gone to federal court here earlier this week for an injunction against the NBA, contending that no team could dictate where he plays pro ball. He was scheduled for a Friday morning hearing, but dropped his complaint when he signed with New York.

Pat Williams, general manager of the 76ers, said Philadelphia had no prior knowledge of the signing.

"We did not participate in any way in the settlement of this litigation. The Knicks and McGinnis acted at their own peril and now must be prepared to take the consequences."

McGinnis said he signed with New York "for purely economic reasons (salary, endorsements) and the Knicks are the only team I want to play for in the NBA."

"I'm aware I'll have to make changes," said McGinnis. "My game is to play inside. I think I fit in well with Bill Bradley's type of play, especially if I'm double-teamed. He's the kind I can get a pass off to for a quick shot."

Both Coach Red Holzman and General Manager Eddie Donovan of New York said they planned to use McGinnis at forward, where he has the rebounding potential of a Dave DeBusschere and the scoring touch of a Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Onteora Triumphs, 149-169, To Clinch UCAL Golf Title

WOODSTOCK

An afternoon of miserably wet weather couldn't sidetrack Onteora High School's varsity golf team Friday as the Indians clinched the 1975 Ulster County Athletic League championship with a 149-169 victory over Coleman High at Woodstock Country Club.

Not only did Coach Rick Barthel's squad win the title, but its 149 was the lowest score recorded in the league this season.

"I just couldn't be happier," said Barthel, who has brought his players along through the growing years into this season of senior maturity.

Onteora, with a match remaining Monday against Ellenville, has a UCAL record of 13-2 (15-2 overall). With Friday's defeat, Coleman now has four losses. Rondout and New Paltz have five apiece.

New Paltz completed its season Thursday with 165-177 win over Pine Bush.

In turning back Coleman, Onteora was led by the trio of John Carlson, Jeff Buton, and Mike Powers, each with rounds of 37. Billy Kennedy was just behind them with 38.

OCS holds the UCAL record of 148 and could have broken it, but Carlson three-putted the ninth hole.

Bryan Smith led Coleman with 40. Brian Crosswell carded a 41, and both A. J. Maneen and Howard Chambo had 44s.

"The competition was pretty much what I thought it would be this season," reflected Barthel. "I thought Liberty was going to be stronger and New Paltz came on well and was the surprise of the league."

"I got a little worried when we lost two matches without Carlson in the middle of the season, but we finished up well," he added.

Onteora loses five of its top seven players to graduation. In New Paltz' final win against Pine Bush, Richie Siegel and Kurt Grosshans each fired 39s. Gary Siegel fashioned a 42, and Jeff Mackey had 45.

For the Bushmen, Jim Falco had 43, Joe Moreno 44, and Pete Marlo and Chris Bement notched 45 apiece.

Schoemer Sets Mark For Saugerties High

WHITE PLAINS

Schoemer ran the half mile in 1:59, good for a sixth place finish. He held the old mark of 2:00.5.

The Saugerties senior, who will attend St. Lawrence University, finished his career with three individual records and a share of four relay marks.

Schoemer set the 440 dash norm earlier this year in 52.2. Last season his 42.4 broke the 330 intermediate hurdles mark. He was anchor man on an 880 relay team that ran in 1:31.4, a mile relay quarter that covered the distance in 3:33.3; a two mile relay that ran in 8:34; and a shuttle relay squad that also set a Saugerties record.

"He's really done an outstanding job for us," said Sawyer coach Bud Smith.

Zehe Brothers to Face Collins and Guernsey

STONE RIDGE

The top-seeded Zehe Brothers — Pete and Bill — will meet No. 2 seeded John Collins and Steve Guernsey today at 11 a.m. for the championship of the first annual Ulster County men's doubles tennis tournament.

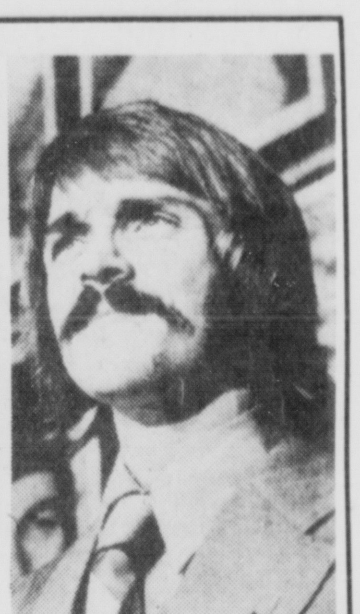

The two teams survived Saturday's opening day in which 30 doubles duos began competing in the tourney sponsored by Potter Brothers Ski Shops Inc. The event is being held at Ulster County Community College.

The Zehe — perennial champs in the Kingston Tennis Association tournament — gained today's final by beating Don Bunk and Tom Frost, 6-4, 6-3; Jerry Leatherman and Hank Skyes, 7-5, 6-2; and the fourth seeded Rich Burnes and Zeon Markovycz, 6-2, 6-1.

Collins and Guernsey, the Dutchess County champs, topped Paul Lyle and Doug Struber, 6-0, 6-2; Charlie Farley and on Schoonmaker, 6-2, 6-1; and third seeded Pete Boyd and Ron Woods, 6-2, 6-4.

DEATH CAR

STEVE PREFONTAINE

Prefontaine: Legally Drunk

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Steve Prefontaine, America's top distance runner and holder of seven national records, was legally drunk when he died in the crash of his sports car, an autopsy showed.

Dr. Edward Wilson, assistant medical examiner for Lane County, performed the autopsy Friday shortly after the fatal crash. He said Prefontaine's blood alcohol level was .16 per cent.

Under Oregon law a level of .10 per cent is considered sufficient to show intoxication and a level of .15 or higher is considered a more serious offense while driving a car.

Prefontaine was en route home after a party when his convertible sports car crossed the center line, jumped a curb and smashed into a stone wall. The car flipped over, pinning Prefontaine underneath.

The party was held just after a track meet in which Prefontaine bested Frank Shorter in a 5,000 meter race. The meet was the last in a series arranged by Prefontaine featuring a group of track stars from Finland.

Wilson said Prefontaine's death was caused by suffocation. He said the runner's chest was crushed by the car, making it impossible for him to breathe.

"He couldn't have lived more than a minute under those circumstances and he suffered no other injuries that would have caused his death themselves," he said.

A memorial service for the colorful and controversial star is scheduled Monday in the Marshfield High School football and track stadium at Coos Bay, Ore., where Prefontaine first came to national attention. After setting numerous records there and at the University of Oregon, he went to the 1972 Olympics where he finished fourth in the 5,000 meters.

He left disenchanted with the games. Shorter, a friend as well as competitor, said Prefontaine planned to enter the 1976 Olympics. He had been publicly critical of the post-college amateur track program in the United States but turned down offers to turn professional.

At the time of his death he held American records in the 2,000, 3,000, 5,000 and 10,000 meters and two, three and six miles.

College All-Star Grid Team Set

CHICAGO (UPI) — A squad of 54 players was named Saturday by Coach John McKay of Southern California for the all star squad he will send against the Pittsburgh Steelers in the annual College All Star game on Aug. 1.

McKay named 21 players who were first round draft choice of the pro teams, 11 picked in the second round and 10 chosen in the third round. The team will report to training camp at Northwestern University on July 10 for three weeks of preparation.

McKay picked three quarterbacks, Steve Barkowski of California, the first player selected in the pro draft, Fred Solomon of Tampa and his own Trojan quarterback, Pat Haden. Another choice from Southern California was his son, wide receiver Johnny McKay.

Top selections in the defensive line were Mike

Hartenstine of Penn State, Gary Johnson of Grambling, Mack Mitchell of Houston, Mark Mullaney of Colorado State, Cornelius Walker of Rice, Dave Wasick of San Jose State, Jimmy Webb of Mississippi State and Randy White of Maryland.

Running backs chosen were

Nieporte, an infrequent PGA tour player who se biggest triumph came in the Los Angeles Open, is regarded as one of the best teachers in the game.

As Joe put it to his older brother, "He should help you on some of those holes. He keeps the ball in play beautifully." Nieporte led the local Long Island qualifier with rounds of 66 and 69. He is the current Long Island champion.

It's a high class field of 61 pros and 7 amateurs against whom Bostic will be vying for one of 10 U.S. Open Berths. Probably the best known is aging Doug Ford of Westchester, a former Masters and PGA champion.

The list also includes present and past tour regulars like Howie Johnson, Rex Baxter, Mike Krak, Mike Felchik, Art Silvestrone, Roger Ginsberg. Also on hand will be Tom Joyce, one of Met area's best new players, and Pat Schwab.

One of the most illustrious amateurs in the country, William Hyndman of Philadelphia, and our old friend Johnny Parsons, a former winner of the Woodstock Open are also in the field.

Besides Bostic, the Northeastern contingent includes Ben Lendzion of Stratton Mountain, Vt., who led the Local Qualifier at Albany Country Club. Long-Hitting Ralph Montoya makes his bid along with Ken Tallon, Don Deletka, Ron Philo and Don Kalode.

A field of 601 will compete in the 13 Sectional Qualifying rounds remaining on June 2, 3 and June 10. These players, plus the 28 totally exempt, are all that remain from an original entry of 4,300. The 122 survivors will comprise the starting field of 150 which begins the 75th Open Championship over the No. 3 course of the Medinah Country Club at Medinah, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. The Open will be played June 19 through June 22.

Our congratulations to the Ulster County Women's Golf Association for biting the bullet and finally elevating its country championship event to a Class tournament.

Under the new format, any woman player in Ulster County with a Class S handicap (19 and under) as of June 1, 1975 is automatically qualified for this year's event. They must exercise the option to compete by notifying their UCWGA representative no later than July 1, 1975.

The low 25 gross scorers in this year's tournament will be exempt from qualifying in 1976. That's a good start.

The qualifying tournament may cause some problems for the association but if it plans to retain a major league format, it will have to follow through as planned. The initial qualifier for the number of berths to fill a field of 45 players is scheduled July 8 at Sawyerkill Country Club. In case of ties for the 45th place, all who tie will be permitted to play.

The tournament proper will be played on two consecutive days, a departure from the two-week format of the past. The first round is scheduled Tuesday, Aug. 5 at Wiltwyck and the final round the next day at Stone Dock. Friday, Aug. 8, is the rain date for either club.

Betty Davenport, one of the prime movers for an all-gross championship, appears concerned about the at-large qualifying round on July 8 at Sawyerkill. She fears that many women in the 20-and-up handicap range will be reluctant to subject themselves to the qualifying ordeal.

From past experience, we know that the at-large qualifying gets off the ground slowly and then mushrooms, when golfers realize it is the only path to the championship tournament. Meantime, 25 players in this year's will be exempt from qualifying in 1976.

There is still room for a county-wide women's handicap tournament for some worthy cause and needs only to be promoted. But the women's county championship is where it belongs.

A group of 40 former New Paltz State varsity golfers combined as assault on Huguenot Manor's demanding par and nostalgic memories in the first annual New Paltz State Golf Reunion staged by Coach Doug Sheppard. The old Hawks came from diverse points as Buffalo, Burlington, N.J. and West Chester, Pa. "It was a fantastic day all the way around," said the coach.

Among the golfers who attended were three who are now professionals: Bob Freer of Mt. Holly, N.J.; Ron Ward from Utica and Jack Jordan of nearby Tarrybrae in Sullivan County. Also attending were Bill Cutler, former SUNY champion and Jeff Berry, a recent Orange County champion.

Ulster County was represented by Rick Barthel, the Onteora High coach and former Ulster County Amateur champion and Mike Mostrowsky. Barthel is the only golfer ever to win two consecutive individual titles in State University Athletic Conference competition. Barthel didn't fare too well in the eighteen-hole tournament, placing tenth with an 84.

None of the 40 players was able to match the Manor's rugged par 36-36-72. Best score of the day was turned in by Pete Strafaci (1962-63) whose father is the pro at Dykner Beach, one of the world's busiest public courses, and whose uncle is head pro at the plush Doral Club in Miami.

Strafaci put together nines of 38-39 for a five-over par 77. Berry was runnerup with 78. Jordan posted a 79. Others in the top ten included Jim Bilezikjian 80, Jay Golden 81, Mostrowsky 81, Bob Freer 81, Ron Shapiro 82, George Ross 83, Barthel and Bill Meddaugh 84.

Remember, in golf the most important shot is the next one.

Barry Tops All-NBA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rick Barry, Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association finals where he led his underdog Golden State team to the league championship, today was the leading vote-getter in balloting for the NBA All Star team.

The team, announced as his last official act by retiring commissioner Walter Kennedy, consisted of Barry, Elvin Hayes of Washington, Bob McAdoo of Buffalo, Nate Archibald of Kansas City-Omaha and Walt Frazier of New York.

Hayes and McAdoo were selected for the first time. The second team lineup was made up of John Havlicek, Dave Cowens and Jojo White, all of Boston, Spencer Haywood of Seattle and Phil Chenier of Washington.

Knicks May Have to Pay to Avoid 'Piracy' Charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks made an initial installment of $500,000 to sign George McGinnis and now may have to pay some more to avoid "piracy" charges.

McGinnis accepted a six-year, $2 million package and was reported to have received a down payment check of a half-million dollars for his services when he agreed to terms with Knicks President Mike Burke "a few minutes before midnight on Thursday night."

Big George shrewdly had protected his future last season when he signed a two-year contract with the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association with an option allowing him to buy out of the pact for $85,000.

The Philadelphia 76ers, who hold the NBA draft rights to McGinnis, labeled the action Friday a "piracy." They called for the commissioner and the member clubs to support them against "the flagrant violation of the constitution and bylaws of the NBA."

Observers feel, however, the 76ers can be easily placated if they obtain in return from New York a player of above average ability as salve for being burned.

Burke admitted "we didn't notify Philadelphia in advance, but we called the club early Friday and told Irv Kosloff we had signed George. I don't know if he can interfere with this agreement, but I told him we were prepared to negotiate with the 76ers for acquiring McGinnis."

McGinnis, a fourth-year pro, was a sophomore sensation at the University of Indiana in 1970-71. He cut short his college career to sign with the Pacers and Philadelphia drafted him in 1973 when his class graduated.

After Signing George McGinnis

"We've been actively interested in George for a year and negotiated strenuously to get him," Burke said of New York's previous attempts to land the ABA scoring champion who averaged 29.8 points a game this past season. "We found him unsettled about his future plans and then he elected not to join us."

"Last Thursday, we reopened negotiations and updated our earlier contract proposals."

McGinnis had gone to federal court here earlier this week for an injunction against the NBA, contending that no team could dictate where he plays pro ball. He was scheduled for a Friday morning hearing, but dropped his complaint when he signed with New York.

Pat Williams, general manager of the 76ers, said Philadelphia had no prior knowledge of the signing.

"We did not participate in any way in the settlement of this litigation. The Knicks and McGinnis acted at their own peril and now must be prepared to take the consequences."

McGinnis said he signed with New York "for purely economic reasons (salary, endorsements) and the Knicks are the only team I want to play for in the NBA."

"I'm aware I'll have to make changes," said McGinnis. "My game is to play inside. I think I fit in well with Bill Bradley's type of play, especially if I'm double-teamed. He's the kind I can get a pass off to for a quick shot."

Both Coach Red Holzman and General Manager Eddie Donovan of New York said they planned to use McGinnis at forward, where he has the rebounding potential of a Dave DeBusschere and the scoring touch of a Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Onteora Triumphs, 149-169, To Clinch UCAL Golf Title

WOODSTOCK — An afternoon of miserably wet weather couldn't sidetrack Onteora High School's varsity golf team Friday as the Indians clinched the 1975 Ulster County Athletic League championship with a 149-169 victory over Coleman High at Woodstock Country Club.

Not only did Coach Rick Barthel's squad win the title, but its 149 was the lowest score recorded in the league this season.

"I just couldn't be happier," said Barthel, who has brought his players along through the growing years into this season of senior maturity.

Onteora, with a match remaining Monday against Elenville, has a UCAL record of 13-2 (15-2 overall). With Friday's defeat, Coleman now has four losses, Rondout and New Paltz have five apiece.

New Paltz completed its season Thursday with 165-177 win over Pine Bush.

In turning back Coleman, Onteora was led by the trio of John Carlson, Jeff Buton, and Mike Powers, each with rounds of 37. Billy Kennedy was just behind them with 38.

OCS holds the UCAL record of 148 and could have broken it, but Carlson three-putted the ninth hole.

Bryan Smith led Coleman with 40. Brian Crosswell carded a 41, and both A. J. Maneen and Howard Chambo had 44s.

"The competition was pretty much what I thought it would be this season," reflected Barthel. "I thought Liberty was going to be stronger and New Paltz came on well and was the surprise of the league."

"I got a little worried when we lost two matches without Carlson in the middle of the season, but we finished up well," he added.

Onteora loses five of its top seven players to graduation. In New Paltz' final win against Pine Bush, Richie Siegel and Kurt Grosshans each fired 39s. Gary Siegel fashioned a 42, and Jeff Mackey had 45.

For the Bushmen, Jim Falco had 43, Joe Moreno 44, and Pete Marlo and Chris Bement notched 45 apiece.

Schoemer Sets Mark For Saugerties High

WHITE PLAINS

Schoemer ran the half mile in 1:59, good for a sixth place finish. He held the old mark of 2:00.5.

The Saugerties senior, who will attend St. Lawrence University, finished his career with three individual records and a share of four relay marks.

Schoemer set the 440 dash norm earlier this year in 52.2. Last season his 42.4 broke the 330 intermediate hurdles mark.

He was anchor man on an 880 relay team that ran in 1:31.4; a mile relay quarter that covered the distance in 3:33.3; a two mile relay that ran in 8:34; and a shuttle relay squad that also set a Saugerties record.

"He's really done an outstanding job for us," said Sawyer coach Bud Smith.

Zeeh Brothers to Face Collins and Guernsey

STONE RIDGE

The top-seeded Zeeh Brothers — Pete and Bill — will meet No. 2 seeded John Collins and Steve Guernsey today at 11 a.m. for the championship of the first annual Ulster County men's doubles tennis tournament.

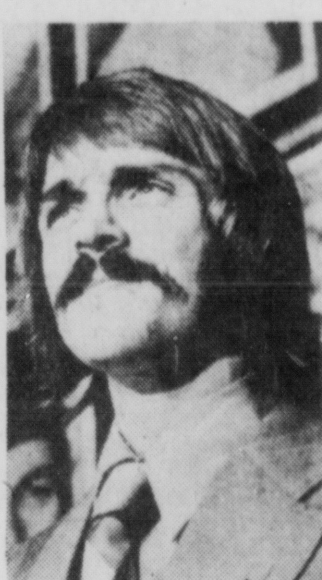

The two teams survived Saturday's opening day in which 30 doubles duos began competing in the tourney sponsored by Potter Brothers Ski Shops Inc. The event is being held at Ulster County Community College.

The Zeehs — perennial champs in the Kingston Tennis Association tournament — gained today's final by beating Don Bunk and Tom Frost, 6-4, 6-3; Jerry Leatherman and Hank Skyes, 7-5, 6-2; and the fourth seeded Rick Burnes and Zeon Markowicz, 6-2, 6-1.

Collins and Guernsey, the Dutchess County champs, topped Paul Lyle and Doug Struber, 6-0, 6-2; Charlie Farley and on Schoonmaker, 6-2, 6-1; and third seeded Pete Boyd and Ron Woods, 6-2, 6-4.

DEATH CAR

STEVE PREFONTAINE

Prefontaine: Legally Drunk

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Steve Prefontaine, America's top distance runner and holder of seven national records, was legally drunk when he died in the crash of his sports car, an autopsy showed.

Dr. Edward Wilson, assistant medical examiner for Lane County, performed the autopsy Friday shortly after the fatal crash. He said Prefontaine's blood alcohol level was .16 per cent.

Under Oregon law a level of .10 per cent is considered sufficient to show intoxication and a level of .15 or higher is considered a more serious offense while driving a car.

Prefontaine was en route home after a party when his convertible sports car crossed the center line, jumped a curb and smashed into a stone wall. The car flipped over, pinning Prefontaine underneath.

The party was held just after a track meet in which Prefontaine bested Frank Shorter in a 5,000 meter race. The meet was the last in a series arranged by Prefontaine featuring a group of track stars from Finland.

Wilson said Prefontaine's death was caused by suffocation. He said the runner's chest was crushed by the car, making it impossible for him to breathe.

"He couldn't have lived more than a minute under those circumstances and he suffered no other injuries that would have caused his death themselves," he said.

A memorial service for the colorful and controversial star is scheduled Monday in the Marshfield High School football and track stadium at Coos Bay, Ore., where Prefontaine first came to national attention.

After setting numerous records there and at the University of Oregon, he went to the 1972 Olympics where he finished fourth in the 5,000 meters.

He left disenchanted with the games, Shorter, a friend as well as competitor, said Prefontaine planned to enter the 1976 Olympics. He had been publicly critical of the post-college amateur track program in the United States but turned down offers to turn professional.

At the time of his death he held American records in the 2,000, 3,000, 5,000 and 10,000 meters and two, three and six miles.

College All-Star Grid Team Set

CHICAGO (UPI) — A squad of 54 players was named Saturday by Coach John McKay of Southern California for the all star squad he will send against the Pittsburgh Steelers in the annual College All Star game on Aug. 1.

McKay named 21 players who were first round draft choice of the pro teams, 11 picked in the second round and 10 chosen in the third round. The team will report to training camp at Northwestern University on July 10 for three weeks of preparation.

McKay picked three quarterbacks, Steve Barkowski of California, the first player selected in the pro draft, Fred Solomon of Tampa and his own Trojan quarterback, Pat Haden. Another choice from Southern California was his son, wide receiver Johnny McKay.

Top selections in the defensive line were Mike

Hartenstine of Penn State, Gary Johnson of Grambling, Mack Mitchell of Houston, Mark Mullane of Colorado State, Cornelius Walker of Rice, Dave Wasick of San Jose State, Jimmy Webb of Mississippi State and Randy White of Maryland.

Running backs chosen were

Foolish Pleasure, Master Derby Hook Up Next in Belmont

NEW YORK (UPI) — The folks at Belmont Park like to refer to the Belmont Stakes as "The Test of the Champion."

Regardless of anyone's particular view of this piece of puffery, that claim holds a certain amount of validity this year. The 107th running of the Belmont Stakes June 7 could go a long way toward determining the champion 3-year-old colt.

Foolish Pleasure, the winner of the Kentucky Derby, and Master Derby, who took the Preakness, will take one more shot at each other over the gruelling 1½ mile distance of the $150,000 Belmont Stakes, the third leg of the Triple Crown that again will go unclaimed this year. No more than a half dozen others are expected to challenge the top two.

The Belmont's 1½ mile route is the foundation of its claim as "The Test of the Champion." Tracing back to racing's English heritage, the Epsom Derby and the rest of the mother country's Triple Crown are contested at 1½ miles, so that is considered the true "classic" distance.

Additionally, the Belmont distance is not kind to horses. Trainers do not run their horses 1½ miles for a lark, not if they like them. As it is, the Belmont has taken its toll on many of its participants.

Consequently, the field for the Belmont is often much smaller than for the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, reducing the role luck plays in the race. At the extended distance and, without the traffic jams that sometimes affect the first two Triple Crown races, each horse in the Belmont usually gets the opportunity to run his best race.

That appears likely in this year's Belmont.

John L. Greer's Foolish Pleasure and Golden Chance Farms' Master Derby, who will be a supplemented entry as he was in the Preakness, need not worry about logjams hampering their duel. The Belmont shapes up as an eight-horse field.

The California duo of Arthur Seeliger's Avatar and Frank McMahon's Diablo, who have unsuccessfully chased first Foolish Pleasure and then Master Derby to the wire, are certain starters barring injuries. Darby Dan Farm's Prince Thout Art, a disappointment in the Derby and Preakness with his "classic" breeding letting down his supporters, and Mrs. Cynthia Phipps' Singh, who won the Jersey Derby by three lengths Monday, also appear likely starters.

Trainer Johnny Campo, who ran Media in the Derby and Preakness and Just in Time in the Preakness, also has promised to come up with a Belmont starter, but is being secretive about his newest challenger for Foolish Pleasure and Master Derby.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Roberts' Honey Mark, who spent the early part of the year shadowing Master Derby to the wire in races down South, also appears to have earned serious consideration for a Belmont start with his fast-closing, second-place finish in the Jersey Derby.

Another possible starter is Mr. and Mrs. William Perry's filly Sarsar, who beat the second echelon of 3-year-olds in the Withers. However, it is unlikely trainer David Whiteley would test the top colts with Sarsar before he tangles with the top filly, Ruffian.

Foolish Pleasure, trained by LeRoy Jolley and ridden by Jacinto Vasquez, has won 11 of 13 races. In addition to his Kentucky Derby victory, Foolish Pleasure also won the Flamingo and Wood Memorial this year.

He came from off the pace in the Kentucky Derby to fly past Avatar and Diabolo when they bumped in the stretch for a 1-3/4 length victory as the 9-5 favorite.

In the Preakness, he rapidly closed ground on Master Derby in the stretch before his opponents dug in again to become the longest shot, at 23-1, ever to win the race.

However, Master Derby hardly deserved such a lack of support. Mrs. Robert Lehmann's Dust Commander colt had been the third choice in the Kentucky Derby, in which he finished fourth. Previously, Master Derby had won the Louisiana Derby and the Blue Grass Stakes.

Trained by Smiley Adams, Master Derby is ridden by 20-year-old Darrel McHargue.

Avatar finished second in the Derby and fifth in the Preakness, while his California buddy, Duabolo, was third in the Derby and Preakness.

Prince Thout Art, by Hail To Reason-Primonetta, was an extremely disappointing sixth in the Kentucky Derby when he failed to deliver his usual strong finishing kick and was only slightly better in the Preakness, finishing fourth.

Singh, who missed the Derby with an injury, was considered the only horse to have a legitimate excuse in the Preakness when he was checked in a crowd before finishing sixth.

Ellenville's Vincent Pinque Miron Scholarship Winner

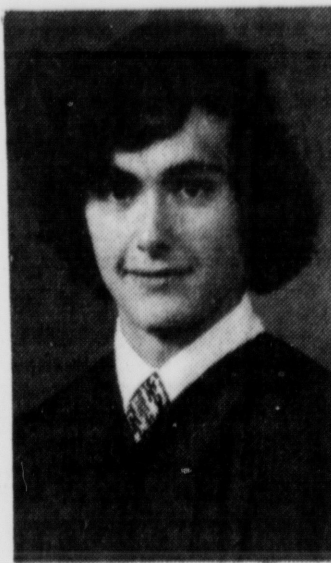

KINGSTON Vincent Pinque, an eight-letterman at Ellenville High School, has been chosen to receive the 1975 Miron Scholarship Award.

Presented annually to the outstanding male or female student athlete in Ulster County, the $1,000 scholarship is the eighth awarded by the Miron Building Products Co. Inc.

Pinque, who plans to attend the State University at Binghamton, ranks third in his class at Ellenville High. He is a Regents Scholarship winner and has been named for four honor awards.

Vincent played football for four years as a guard and linebacker. He was a captain on the junior varsity and "best team player" on the varsity. He also wrestled for four years, and as varsity captain in his senior year he compiled a 17-4 record, finishing second in the 140-pound class at the Ulster County Athletic League tournament. As a four-year participant in track and field, he ran the two mile and 880, threw the discus, and competed in the triple jump.

He is also a member of the high school band, the dance band, the school and county chorus, the high school yearbook, the student council, the Leaders Club, the Spanish Club, and the student singing group Les Chanteurs.

Vincent has been the Boys

State Representative for the American Legion; has been named to the Who's Who in American High Schools; and is a member of the Honor Society. Active in church activities, he is an altar boy.

Despite his impressive credentials, Pinque was not a clear-cut choice for the award since this year's nominees were by far the most outstanding in the eight-year history of the scholarship.

The selection committee was composed of Stephen E. Miron, representing the Miron Company; Joseph W. Robertson, Vice-President, First Commercial Bank; Edward A. Palladino, Managing Editor of the Daily Freeman; Charles J. Tiano, Sports Editor of the Daily Freeman; and Ira Fufeld, Assistant to the Sports Editor of the Daily Freeman.

Previous winners were: Mike Pagano of Marlboro, Nick Ascienzo of Kingston, Dennis Gale of Ontario, David Smith of Saugerties, Ronald Hall of Rondout Valley, John Cabell of Kingston, and Dean Limeri of Saugerties.

Kim Kinary of Mt. Marion is shown clearing the last jump enroute to victory in his class — 125cc Amateur — in the holiday Woods Road Motocross in Cairo. He won overall first place in the AMA-sanctioned race. More than 400 bikes competed in the various divisions. (Lund photo)

JAC Tops Academy

Ulster Academy completed its abbreviated baseball season with a 16-7 loss to Coleman High Jayvees. Rich Kelderhouse limited Ulster to five hits. Bill Hazenbush, the losing pitcher, led Ulster with a single and triple.

The Academy played a four-game schedule and lost all four games.

Capitals Sign Ron Low

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Ron Low, who was in goal for all eight of the Washington Capitals' wins in their inaugural National Hockey League season, signed a long-term contract Saturday.

Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

Soccer Clinics Scheduled

STONE RIDGE The Mid-Hudson Soccer Association will sponsor its first soccer clinic on four dates this month. USSF licensed coaches George Vizvary of Ulster County Community College and Tony Elia of Saugerties

High School will conduct the programs on June 3, 5, 10 and 12 from 6-9 p.m. at the UCCC campus.

Area coaches, referees, players and interested parents are invited to the sessions free of charge. Lectures, demonstrations and group participation will cover subjects such as methods of coaching, physical fitness, technique, tactics, team management, care of injuries and the laws of soccer.

"This is the first clinic of its kind in this area," Vizvary said. "We are hoping for a large turnout. We feel this is very necessary to upgrade the quality of soccer in the area."

Those interested in attending the clinic are asked to call 687-7621, ext. 47 or 18.

OCS Girls Score, 8-5

BOICEVILLE Ontario and Coleman High girls softball teams finished all even (4-4) in the Ulster County Girls Softball League, after Ontario topped Coleman 8-5 in the season's finale for both teams.

Trailing 4-1, Ontario went ahead to stay in the fourth inning when Colleen Duffy and Mollie Klinger launched a four-run rally with back to back homers. Colleen also had a triple.

Lynn Stoothoff had three singles for Ontario and teamed with Pam Wenner to contribute several fine running catches that took away several potential Coleman hits. Barb Sheehan was the winner for Ontario in her first pitching effort.

Janet Knott led Coleman with a single and double. Fran Laware had two singles.

"SPORTS CAMP PHILOSOPHY"
ONE TO ONE AND SMALL GROUP INSTRUCTION

Camp is at West Shokan, N.Y. 4-2 Week sessions July 6-Aug. 2. Learning and improving sports skills in small groups and working with our coaches on a one to one basis emphasizes our philosophy at Scholastic Sports Camp. Scholastic Sports Camp only selects staff members who are top men in their field and enjoy working with our campers. Our exceptionally fine staff consists of college and high school coaches. Our guest pros for 1975 are: Bob Cousy, Nate Archibald, Billy Paulitz, Ron Johnson, Jon Matlack, Henry Bibby, Ed Kranepool, Lou Carnesecca.

Each pro will be at camp for one full day. Our guest pros have been chosen not only for their athletic success, but also for their personal integrity and interest in youth.

Denenberg in Girl Talk Golf Field

PINE PLAINS

Gail Denenberg of Monroe will be in the field of about 100 women professional golfers scheduled to tee off Friday in the 54-hole $50,000 Girl Talk Magazine Classic at the Carvel Farms' All-American Golf and Tennis Club.

An 18-hole Pro-Am is scheduled for Wednesday with the induction of Patty Berg into the Collegiate Hall of Fame and the dedication of the women's wing highlighting the Thursday program. The tournament dates are June 6-7-8.

Miss Denenberg, who played her first golf at the Orange County Country Club, had her biggest year on the LPGA tour, winning about $35,000. Her biggest career triumph came in the Sears Classic in Port St. Lucie, Florida which earned her $15,000. She ranked 13th in the final money standings on the tour.

The Orange county star is lagging well behind her 1974 pace primarily because of a long bout with the flu, causing her to miss two $40,000 tournaments. She has won only about $5,000 this year.

The Northeast contingent in the tournament also includes Debbie Austin of Oneida; Betty Burfeindt, born in New York City and a graduate of Cortland State U. in 1967; Helen Beth Duntz of Claverack; Patty Hayes of Hoboken, N.J.; Vivian Brown of Atlantic City; Pat Bradley of Arlington, Mass.

Other top money winners in the field and earnings through May 5 are Jane Blalock of Portsmouth, N.H. ($26,392); Kathy McMullen ($25,193); Judy Rankin ($18,394); Sandra Post ($15,708); Carol Mann, the Ladies PGA president ($15,346) and Amy Alcott, a rookie winner on the tour with $13,505.

In addition, the entry list includes Kathy Whitworth, a seven-time Player of the Year; Hall of Famers Louise Suggs and Patty Berg; Marlen Hage; and Laura Baugh, Golf Digest's Most Beautiful Golfer on the tour.

Dutchess County Community Hospitals will be the beneficiaries of the proceeds from the tournament. Actress Dina Merrill, a contributing editor to Girl Talk Magazine, will serve as honorary chairperson of the tournament.

The All-America course features streams of water, strategically placed ponds, the usual warm June breezes and a spectacular view of the nearby Catskill and Berkshire mountains.

of the tournament. Miss Merrill, with Colgate president David Foster and Carvel Corporation president Tom Carvel will preside over the June 5 Hall of Fame ceremonies.

America's Musical Heritage Presented by J. C. Penney

KINGSTON
J. C. Penney's contribution to America's 200th anniversary celebration—a 100-minute package depicting this country's musical heritage from the Revolution to the 1970's—will be presented to Mid-Hudson area high schools at special ceremonies Monday at the Senate House in Kingston.

Representatives of six high schools in Ulster and Dutchess Counties will accept the special Bicentennial packages from Glen Stampfle, manager of the J. C. Penney store in Kingston. Ceremonies will begin at 10 a.m. Monday on the Senate House grounds.

The Bicentennial package—which includes sheet music for 34 songs that represent America's diverse musical traditions—was offered to all of the more than 30,000 schools and colleges throughout the United States. Kingston, Saugerties, Ontario, New Paltz, Red Hook and Ulster took advantage of the free offer, and will accept their packages Monday.

The musical selections are specially adapted for high school and college bands, orchestras and choral groups. Stampfle said he expects many of the schools to prepare Bicentennial concerts with the music provided by the nationwide store chain. The packages are being distributed this Spring so that the schools can begin to organize and practice for the concerts when school resumes after the summer vacation.

J. C. Penney started its Bicentennial project some two years ago, hiring music composers and historians to research the history of American music, and to select the compositions that are most representative of the traditions and cultures of the American people.

Five of the compositions included in Penney's 100-minute Bicentennial package were written and scored by contemporary composers especially for this project. One of the compositions dates to 1770 and the package also includes a newly rediscovered John Philip Sousa composition. All of the historic works have not normally been available to high school musical groups.

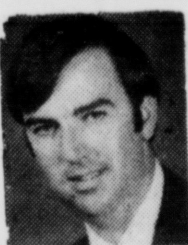

The historic selections included in the package date from the Colonial period, and include jazz, soul, classical, Broadway and folk compositions.

Three of America's most distinguished musical historians developed the J. C. Penney Bicentennial portfolio: Dr. Richard Franko Goldman, Dr. Leonard de Paur and the late Thor Johnson. They were assisted by a 15-member advisory panel composed of educators and journalists, many of them members of the Music Educators National Conference.

Penney's Bicentennial Musical Celebration is officially recognized by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration—the first corporate project to be so certified.

The Maryland Bicentennial Commission has hailed the program as "a very meaningful way to bring our musical heritage to Americans during the Bicentennial." A concert featuring 13 of the works in the Bicentennial project, held at New York City's Avery Fisher Hall in April, was critically acclaimed.

Are you minding your own business? Eventually, your business, like everyone else's, will require disposition in one of these ways:

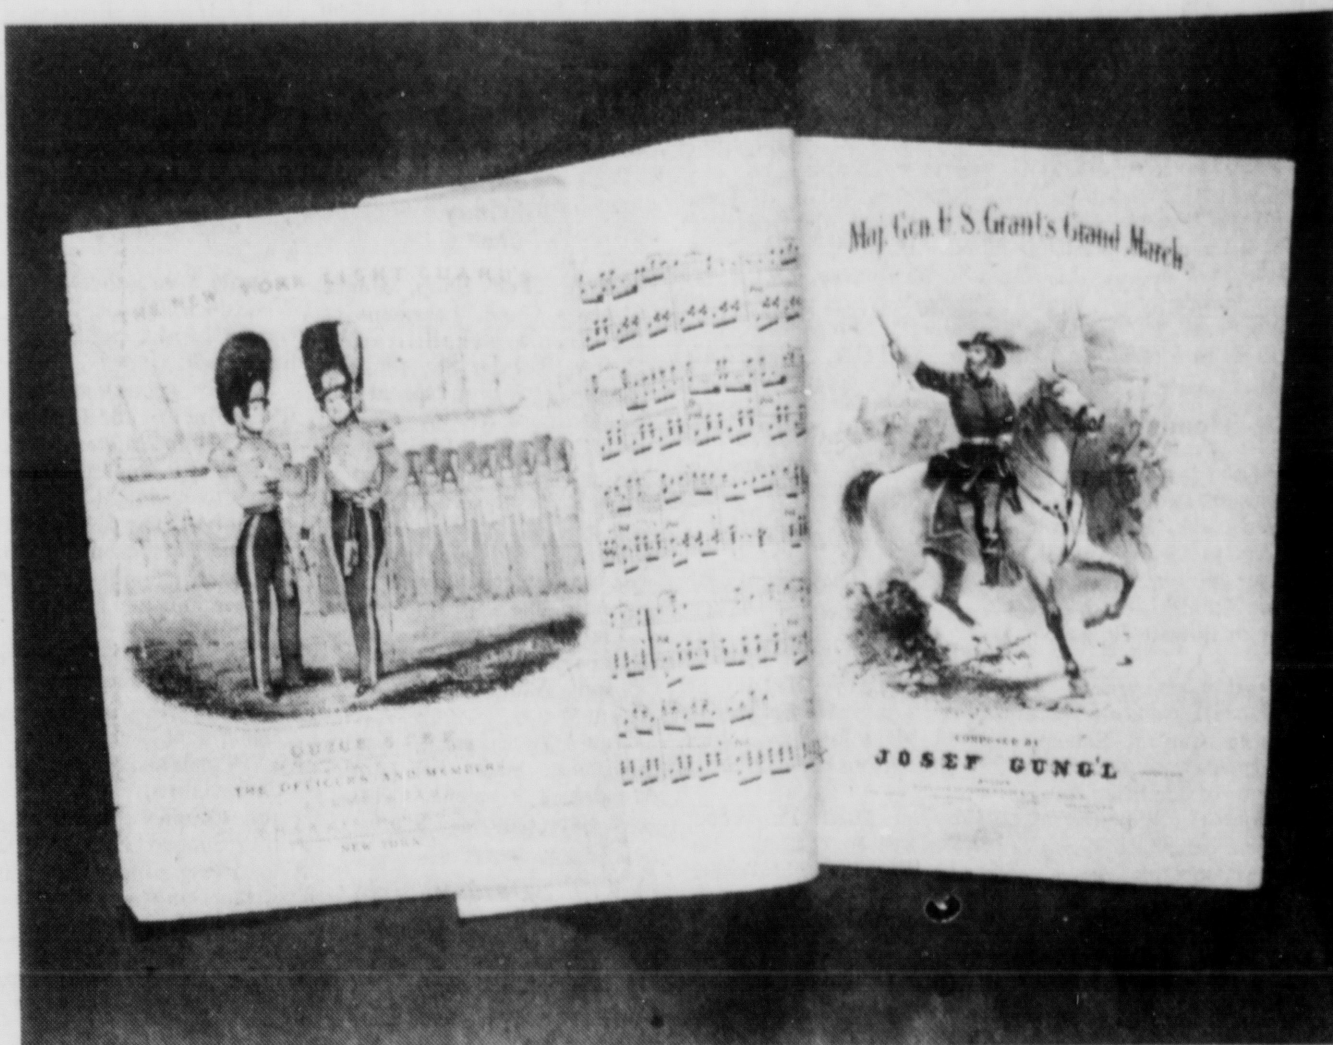

1. Will to heirs
2. Acquired by associates
3. Sold to employees
4. Purchased by competitors
5. Liquidated by estate

There are many problems as well as considerable expense when business assets have to be sold or transferred to a new owner. Business history shows that when a business is eventually transferred, it may suffer loss in value from taxes, administrative costs, decline in market value, etc. Without careful planning, a business will be worth far less to heirs than to you as a going concern.

The right kind of Business Life Insurance planning eliminates many of these problems, regardless of the final method of disposition . . . and results in greater asset value for your family. So, if you are minding your own business, why not find out about Business Life Insurance.

Miron Sales Seminar Discusses Truss System

KINGSTON
Building contractors from throughout the Hudson Valley listened last Wednesday to experts detail the advantages of new truss systems and building block at Miron's sales seminar at the Holiday Inn.

Roy Cohen, Miron vice president, explained that David F. McSpadden of Trussal Systems, Inc., Troy, Mich., is probably the country's leading authority on building trusses, and most of the explanations of this time-saving method of floor joist and roof truss building was allotted to McSpadden.

Cohen also painted a brighter economic picture for the building industry in the near future, commenting that "Miron has invested huge sums in these labor saving procedures. Joe Sharken, Miron Truss and Component Corporation manager, stated, 'We have the most automated shop in the East, probably in the country.'"

The Trussal system is designed to compete with both conventional joists for residential construction and steel bar joists for light industrial and commercial use.

They employ scientifically stress engineered construction with two-by-fours and patented steel plates, with the wide 3 1/2" edge of the two-by-four pointing upward and downward.

Some background on the lumber industry was given to point up the advantage of using two-by-fours instead of the conventional two-by-ten or two-by-twelve for joists.

McSpadden pointed out that "we are living in a decade that will see the disappearance of old growth forests for lumber" in this country, calling it "an historic point in the building industry." The result is that wide boards are becoming increasingly scarce, costly, and in short supply with long delivery time.

Trussal has engineered and tested its truss system "to make it simple," said McSpadden. "Whatever is being done now with joists can be done with trusses easier." They can be ordered to any length specifications, allowing for such luxuries as a clear span basement in a dwelling instead of erecting posts at intervals.

Pre-measured, they eliminate waste by the contractor, will not warp in storage, and are engineered for superior strength. They cost somewhat more on a square foot purchase basis, he said, but usually more than make up for this difference in saving labor and waste.

And when workers box in a floor or ceiling, they have a 3 1/2" joist to nail plywood on instead of the conventional 1 1/2" from a two-by-four. Heating ducts and electrical and plumbing work can be placed inside the truss, saving the expense of a dropped ceiling.

McSpadden claimed that this "new application of a traditional material" usually takes but one-third the time to erect as conventional joists, and "there is no way they can cost more than steel joists."

Ken Miron, company vice president, told the builders, "We are set up to handle large volumes of floor joists and roof trusses." The concept has been on the market for only four years in this fashion, and has been available here for the past year.

Another "labor saving" material lauded, by Ben Grad of Miron's masonry division, is embossed concrete block, on the market for about four years. It is a replacement for the conventional block and brick facing, and literally cannot be told apart from brick except upon close inspection.

Numerous examples of its use were shown in a slide presentation, with surface painted in a variety of waterproof colors to suit the individual. A styrofoam insulation pre-inserted in the embossed block, if desired, was stated to reduce heat loss by 50 percent; it is named Korfil.

As Roy Cohen stated at the outset of the seminar, "It is our purpose to bring to builders the latest in labor saving techniques."

A similar presentation was scheduled for builders from the lower Hudson Valley for Newburgh Thursday.

KINGSTON

The local Fresh Air Fund Committee has issued a call for families in the area to participate in this year's vacation time for needy city children.

Last year approximately 15,000 children enjoyed "Fresh Air" vacations in 3,000 communities on the Eastern seaboard with approximately 150 visiting families in Ulster County. The Fresh Air Fund has been helping children to have "country" vacations since 1877, with the continued success of the program depending on the cooperation of host families.

Vacation time, this year is scheduled for July 16 through 30. Anyone interested in participating as a host family or needing more information may contact Mr. and Mrs. Len Waters of Woodstock or Mr. and Mrs. George Kupec of Kingston.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of our Mother and Grandmother, Mrs. Frank (Mary Elizabeth) Parslow Sr., whom God called home May 31, 1973.

They say that time heals all sorrow,
It helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved,
How much we miss her yet.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it means to lose her,
No one will ever know.
From your hospital bed, to heavenly rest,
God took you home to be His guest.
You worked so hard, your pleasures were few,
You never deserved what you went through.
You stood the test and stood it well,
Just what you suffered no one can tell.
God saw that you were suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
And so He closed your weary eyes and Whispered "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair, some time,
Some day, we know not when,
We will meet our loved one there.
So treasure her, Lord, in your garden of rest,
For when on earth, she was one of the best!

Bard Graduates 151

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON

William J. McGill, president of Columbia University, delivered an optimistic 115th commencement address Saturday at Bard College comparing the relative openness of the 1970s with the so-called golden age of the Roaring 1920s.

Dr. McGill told the 151 graduating seniors that we are facing problems that no society in history has been able to solve but that "we are attacking them openly and honestly for the first time in our history."

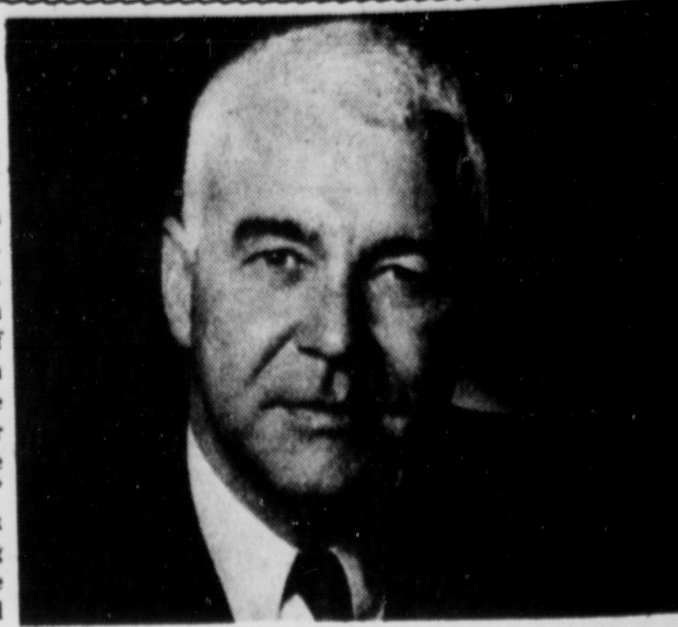

Columbia University and Bard College were associated for 16 years from 1928 until 1944 when Bard chose to admit women, a decision unacceptable to the Columbia board of trustees.

Dr. McGill said of the 1920s, "We look back on those times and find them much more attractive than the harsh era through which we are living today, but was it better to have come to flower then than now?"

Answering his own question, he counseled, "Is it not better to have uncovered all the corruption of racism, sexism, and economic exploitation in our society, corruptions which made a mockery of our Constitution and our Bill of Rights? Is it not more worthy of the America in which we have always believed to have brought these problems to the surface of our national life where they are today so that we might attack them and attempt to solve them?"

And he asked, "Was a white elitist New York City in 1928 somehow better than the seething polymorph we find in 1975? Which is more characteristic of the real nature of the United States?"

Mother, 2 Children Die In Greene Auto Mishap

CAIRO
A Long Island mother and her two children were killed in a Town of Cairo crash Saturday.

Leeds State Police reported that Mrs. Linda McGovern, 24, of 400-54 River Avenue, Patchogue, and her two children, Michael, 6, and Patricia, 5, were passengers in a car operated by Howard S. Quick of 35 Dale Lane, Smithtown, which was moving north on Route 32 about six miles south of Cairo at 5 p.m. As the car turned left into the parking lot of Carson City, an amusement park, it was in collision with a southbound vehicle operated by Richard E. Nangle, 23, of Box 203, Catskill.

Mrs. McGovern and her two children were dead on arrival at Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill. Quick was admitted to the hospital for observation and treatment.

State Police said that the cause of the crash had not yet been determined and that criminal action is pending.

Levitt Says Proposed Thruway Hike Too High

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt says a 15 percent proposed toll hike for the State Thruway is too high.

Levitt's office, in a report issued Saturday, said an 11 percent average increase "is all that is needed at the present time."

The audit said projections of inflation and many costs for the next five years were unduly pessimistic. It agreed, however, that a substantial toll hike was needed to keep the 559-mile superhighway operating in the black.

The authority asked for the toll increases after inflation, the recession and the Arab oil embargo brought about a revenue decline last year for the first time in its 25-year history.

Passenger car tolls, which account for about 58 percent of the Thruway's income, dropped 7 percent, or $4.8 million last year. The authority said it projected a deficit for each of the next five years if the tolls were not raised.

Authority Chairman Gerald Cummins said Levitt's audit, requested by the authority, would receive "every consideration."

Public hearings have been scheduled around the state June 10 and June 11 and implementation of the toll hike proposals, or a modified form of the increases, could come as soon as late June, a spokesman said.

Tolls were last increased for passenger cars in 1959 and were last hiked for commercial traffic in 1970.

Levitt's staff said that it used inflation projections for the next five years from the state budget director and the National Bureau of Economic Research, which were "somewhat lower" than the authority's estimate.

The study found that the "projected increase would generate about $14.6 million more than would be needed to meet all budget requirements of the authority" through 1979.

The auditors also suggested that a portion of the authority's $10.7 million in working capital be used to "offset the needed toll increase."

In addition, a lower toll increase would cause a smaller dropoff traffic and projected salary costs were "somewhat high," the report said.

"We also feel that, in the interest of containing the inflationary spiral, the authority's toll increases should be at the minimum level necessary to sustain its operations."

The auditors also recommended reducing the authority's fleet of cars and ending the subsidy in the employees' cafeteria in Albany to save money.

Ranch Blaze

CLINTONDALE

Guests and employees of the Rocking Horse ranch were evacuated from the resort's main building on Route 44-55 Saturday after an electrical fire in the utility room filled the structure's ventilating system with heavy smoke.

Chief Donald Tubbs and 44 Clintondale firemen with three pieces of equipment responded to a call at 4:31 p.m. They were joined by Highland volunteers under a pre-planned mutual aid call. Firemen emptied the building and fought the fire with carbon dioxide extinguishers because high voltage on the control panel prevented the use of water.

Gardiner firemen assisted at the scene and the Modena department did standby duty at the Clintondale Firehouse.

Tubbs praised the prompt action of Clintondale volunteers in confining damage to the utility room, where a large high-pressure boiler is also located.

All units were back on station at 8:30 p.m.

Riding the Bull at Paltz High

While some prefer throwing the bull, this visiting cowboy at the New Paltz High rodeo Saturday shows his skill and form in this American form of entertainment. ## Wiring Blamed for Fire

ROSENDALE

Firemen are blaming electrical wiring for a Saturday morning fire that severely damaged a summer house in Rosendale.

According to one officer who was on the scene, the blaze at Paul Cho's Route 213 house, near Marty's gas station, started in the living room, producing strong heat and blistering the walls. Closed living room doors forced the flames upward through the second story of the wood frame dwelling and into the eaves.

There was no one home at the time of the fire. Cho lives in Poughkeepsie. And the house was reportedly not insured for fire. There was no monetary damage estimate.

Bloomington and Binnewater fire companies joined the Rosendale volunteers under fire chief Bob Sheehan at 4 a.m., hosing down the house until about 6:30. About 40 men responded.

Hurricane Warning

MIAMI (UPI) — Today marks the official beginning of the 1975 hurricane season, and one scientist has urged coastal residents to be especially wary this year.

University of California meteorologist Dr. Jerome Namias, attending the American Meteorological Association's annual meeting, said Friday that conditions along the U.S. Atlantic coast this year are similar to those which prevailed during the 1950s.

"I'm not predicting there will be more hurricanes this year, but I see conditions along the East Coast today that are similar to those which attracted many storms in the 1950s," Namias said. "I am merely pointing out that the conditions to attract and prolong hurricanes are present again."

He said that cold winters in the 1960s and early 1970s helped push hurricanes into the Gulf of Mexico and its coastal areas. But the last three winters have been milder than usual, making an attractive lure for hurricanes, which feed on warm water.

Paltz Decision Reserved

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Board of Police Commissioners reserved decision Thursday night following the close of a departmental hearing for suspended patrolmen Richard Thompson and Charles Walton concerning alleged violations of departmental rules and regulations.

The pair were suspended from the department after Thompson fatally wounded Edward D. VanHorn, 26, of 41 Brewster Street, Kingston, in an incident March 27.

At the time, Thompson and Walton, both off duty, were in a New Paltz bar, where, according to authorities, VanHorn allegedly began harassing them. VanHorn left the bar and was followed by Thompson and Walton. A foot chase ensued, which ended when VanHorn allegedly stabbed Thompson and Thompson shot VanHorn once in the neck, authorities said.

An Ulster County Grand

Jury previously cleared Thompson of criminal charges in the matter. The grand jury did, however, hand up a sealed report on the incident.

The New Paltz Police Commission hearings began May 20, and were held in three lengthy sessions, the last of which ended Thursday night. The police board will publicly announce its decision when it is reached, a member of the commission told the Freeman.

For Period Ending 7 p.m. EST Today.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms are forecast along the Atlantic Coast. Scattered showers are also expected in portions of the Central Plains. It will be mostly fair over the rest of the country.

Gets Promise Of Thruway Hearings

WASHINGTON, D.C. Gov. Hugh Carey has assured Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th District) that tolls on the New York State Thruway will not be increased without public hearings and a thorough audit of the Thruway Authority's books.

Even after the audit and the public hearings, Carey told Gilman, no increase in Thruway tolls will be allowed unless it is "absolutely necessary."

Carey also advised Gilman, according to Gilman that adjustments are being made in the new toll structure on the Port Authority bridges and tunnels, which was recently increased by 50 percent. Carey told Gilman that commuters traveling three to a car or more will be allowed to pay the old toll rate instead of the recently imposed increased rate.

Gilman had protested the increase in tolls because of its impact on the "many residents of our district who must commute to work in New York City." He called for public input into the toll decision, and Carey, in his letter to Gilman, assured the congressman he would "find ways in the months ahead to bring public input to the decision making procedures of this and other public authorities."

HIA Reception

KINGSTON The Handicapped in Action (HIA), formerly known as the Gateway Clients Action Organization, will celebrate its first anniversary on June 10 with a reception and dinner at the Beef House, 765 Broadway.

The reception will begin at 4:15 p.m.; the dinner starts at 5 p.m. Among those attending will be organization members and their guests, members of the staff and Board of Directors of Gateway Industries, Inc. and community supporters.

Carey said that although the Thruway Authority is "an independent, self-supporting public corporation," Thruway officials had assured the governor that "before tolls are adjusted, public hearings will be held in various parts of the state."

Gilman said he welcomed the public hearings on the Thruway tolls "because the public, which must use this road, should have the opportunity to be heard before any increase goes into effect." Gilman added, however, that the Port Authority tolls "remain an unjustified burden on our citizens, particularly in the absence of any financial data to back up the increase."

"I may have a $2500 bonus for you"

Today's Army now has many challenging jobs that pay bonuses.

Not everyone gets these jobs. You must qualify, and successfully complete the training that goes with your 4-year enlistment. But, if you do, you'll be paid a cash bonus ranging from $1500-$2500, depending on the job.

The bonus will be paid in a lump sum, and is in addition to regular Army pay and benefits. So you'll still receive a starting salary of $344.10 a month before deductions, with a raise to $383.40 after just four months. As well as meals, housing, medical and dental care, and 30 days paid vacation each year.

Let me tell you now, the jobs are demanding. But the rewards are great. I'd like a chance to talk about the Army's "Cash Bonus Option" with you in person.

The Mercedes-Benz 280.

This year some new American cars look surprisingly like it.

On the outside.

The original: the Mercedes-Benz 280. Inspiration for other manufacturers' imitation.

The "Look-alikes" are here...sedans whose shapes and sizes will remind you of our Mercedes-Benz 280. The shape may look the same, but that is where the similarity ends.

When you look beyond the new suits of clothes that the imitators are sporting, it's the same old story. Key elements like engines and suspension systems still have not changed.

Come in and see the original, the Mercedes-Benz 280 Sedan. Then arrange a test drive with us. We think you'll see why a Mercedes-Benz has become the standard other manufacturers measure by.

New Anti-American Act Ordered by Laotians

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — The first woman to climb Mt. Everest said Saturday she worked off her excitement by singing "Swanee River" on the way down from the world's highest peak.

Junko Tabei, 35, says she likes old style American music, and that she is not a women's lib type.

"I'm not very interested in the movement," the Japanese woman said in an interview with UPI. "I did not climb Mt. Everest for any feminine motive, but simply because I wanted to climb the world's highest peak."

"I want to be known as a climber, not as a woman particularly," she added.

Tabei also said that at high altitudes men are better climbers than women.

"I have never thought that women climbers are stronger than their male counterparts," she said. "Men are physically stronger and more powerful, and they have greater speed. "Because of their strong builds, they are much more effective in cutting ice at the higher altitudes."

Mrs. Tabei said that she could not have climbed Everest without the help of her male Sherpa guide, Ang Tsering.

"An assault team made up entirely of women could make it to the top of Everest," she said. "But it takes a lot of time. I don't think it would be possible for an all-woman team to return safely from the top to the South Col on the same day."

Mrs. Tabei said that aside from mountain climbing, her main interest in life is music. She said she likes Stephen C. Foster's music and sang his "Swanee River" on her descent from the 29,028-foot peak.

She gives piano lessons at low prices to children in her neighborhood in suburban Tokyo in order to stimulate their interest in music.

She plans to continue the piano lessons after her return to Japan. Tabei also an accomplished performer on the koto, a harp-like device that is one of Japan's oldest musical instruments.

Mrs. Tabei said she would like to go to Europe soon and climb Mt. Blanc in Switzerland.

Tabei's husband, Masanobu Tabei, is an engineer with the Honda Motor Co., a manufacturer of cars and motorcycles.

Asked if she ever climbed mountains with him, Tabei said:

"I will after I get old. I have never climbed together with my husband on a major expedition."

Susan's Prom Goes to White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The East Room of the White House, the scene of many staid state receptions, was invaded by teenagers and rock music Saturday night when Susan Ford hosted her high school prom.

The guests included 74 graduating members of the senior class at the Holton Arms School for Girls and their dates. Miss Ford, who chose a flowered gown, was escorted by Billy Pifer, a medical student whom she met when she was crowned Apple Blossom Queen recently in Winchester, Va.

Miss Ford had obtained her parents' permission to host the prom before they left on their trip to Europe. But when her classmates arrived Saturday morning to decorate, they ran into difficulty. Someone had forgotten to reserve the East Room.

The problem soon was ironed out and the girls quickly set to work with their homemade decorations, using floral and bamboo print sheets as table cloths with flower arrangements of daisies, yellow tulips, orange carnations, white sweetpeas and ming fern.

The prom was financed entirely by the senior class, which has held yearly fund raising affairs since seventh grade including bakesales, a dance, an Easter egg party, and a school fair.

In the State Dining Room, waiters laid out a spread that included miniature quiche lorraine, pigs-in-a-blanket, swedish meatballs and sweet and sour chicken. A non-alcoholic punch concocted of tea, lemonade, white grape juice, club soda and sugar.

Two bands, the Outerspace of Wendell, Mass., and The Sandcastle of Richmond, Va., were hired to play music including rock, jazz and country and western.

Like any senior prom, this one was not expected to end when the bands stopped playing at 12:30 a.m. Susan, who planned to go to other parties afterward, did not intend to be home before 5 a.m.

Doctors ... An Emergency

The doctors' strike over malpractice insurance spread out into New York and Texas Saturday while in California an expected return of physicians was thrown into turmoil.

For the first time in 30 years, the California Medical Association convened an emergency meeting to discuss its position.

A plan to provide a temporary insurance "pool" had been expected to get the first big wave of boycotting anesthesiologists back into the operating rooms Monday in eight California counties.

Hospitals had expected to resume normal surgery, but late Friday State Insurance Commissioner Wesley Kinder declined to activate the pool arrangement for at least a week. He said he postponed action because of complaints raised by doctors.

Hospitals were thrown into turmoil as the physicians awaited guidance from a meeting in Los Angeles of their state association's 400-member House of delegates.

In New York, thousands of doctors planned to protest beginning Monday by refusing all surgery but emergency or by turning away new patients.

However, an insurance program sponsored by the New York State Medical Society offered new rates only 10 to 20 percent higher than current premiums — much less than the 100 percent boosts requested by other private insurers.

In Austin, Fort Worth and San Antonio, Tex., anesthesiologists voted to refuse all surgery but life-or-death cases, effective Monday.

The Ohio Society of Anesthesiologists was polling its members to determine whether they will take a similar position.

Marcos Going to Peking

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos will visit China June 7 to 11 on a trip that could lead to establishment of diplomatic relations with Peking, the government announced Saturday.

The announcement said Saturday Marcos would meet with top Chinese officials to discuss questions of mutual interest.

According to official sources, the Philippines might have to sever relations with the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan in the event of diplomatic ties with Peking, since China has insisted it would have no official relations with any country which recognizes Taiwan diplomatically.

The brief announcement said Marcos' discussions with Chinese officials will reflect "the steady improvement in the relations between the two countries."

It said the trip was being made at the invitation of Chu Teh, Chairman of the Standing Committee of China's National People's Congress and Premier Chou En-lai.

They said Marcos would be accompanied by his wife, Imelda, Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo, Finance Secretary Cesar Virata, Industries Secretary Vicente Paterno and Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad.

Mrs. Marcos paved the way for her husband's trip to Peking when she visited China in September, 1974, and met with top Chinese leaders, including Chinese Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou.

Marcos has also announced the Philippines was moving toward establishment of diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

A Philippine navy patrol boat which earlier sank 17 Moslem rebel pumpboats came under heavy fire in a southern Philippine port in a rash of fighting that killed at least 11 men, military authorities said Saturday.

C-H May Be Included in FEA Study on Coal

NEW YORK CITY — The Federal Energy Administration is studying the possibility of ordering Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, among others, to convert two of its Roseton generating stations to coal use.

Three major utilities in the New York metropolitan area have been identified as having a potential for converting some of their generating facilities to coal, and may be ordered by the FEA to cease using oil or natural gas as their primary energy source at eight generating units, according to Region II FEA Administrator Alfred Kleinfeld.

Besides units three and four at Central Hudson's Danskammer generating station at Roseton, on the Hudson River, two other area utilities may be affected.

They are Atlantic City Electric Company with two units at the England generating station at Beesleys Point, N.J.; and Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, which serves Greene and Columbia Counties as part of its region, with four units at the Albany generating station.

The program is part of a continuing effort to convert utilities to the use of coal, as required by Congress in the Energy Supply and Environmental Coordination Act of 1974.

Public hearings will be held on this issue, as required by FEA regulations. Kleinfeld said that one of the hearing objectives is to carefully measure the costs of the proposed conversion against the financial ability of the corporations to convert to coal.

Public hearings on the notices will begin June 10 at 9 a.m. in Room 305, FEA Region II, 26 Federal Plaza, New York City. This issuance of notice of intent is the first step in a lengthy process designed to determine whether power plants identified by FEA will be prohibited from burning natural gas or petroleum products as their primary energy source.

A total of 79 electric utilities in six regions have been identified as eligible for the orders. Ultimate conversion by all utilities' 155 involved units would result in annual savings of an estimated 163 million barrels of oil and 160 million cubic feet of natural gas.

Some of the findings the FEA is researching include an analysis of the availability of coal supply and transportation facilities for each power plant; the practical ability of burning coal; a determination of each plant's capability of burning coal; whether issuance of a prohibition order would impair reliability of service to the area served.

Kingston Man and His Fish . . . Relaxing Hobby for Gil Adin

By Jon Powers

It might be said that Gil Adin has gone off the deep end. When he's not selling insurance, the Manor Place resident coddles and cares for a family of fish that would impress Neptune. And in the 25 years that he has pursued this watery hobby, Adin has something of an expert in the science of ichthyology.

It is the size of Adin's collection, however, that truly impresses. He has an estimated 500 fish distributed among 13 tanks that contain more than 800 gallons of water; the water alone weighs almost a ton.

Adin's special pride is a 10-foot, 250-gallon tank that he built into the wall of the basement family room — a window to a fascinating underwater world where brightly-hued fish dart among gently swaying aquatic plants and rocks that resemble boulders. Jacques Cousteau would feel right at home.

"I've always had a fascination for the peace and tranquility that fish provide," said Adin. "It's a very relaxing hobby. I can spend hours down here and not even realize that the time has passed."

There can be some nervous moments, however, especially when 25 years of care and an investment of several thousand dollars can be washed away by a leaky tank or an inaccurate thermometer. Adin spends several hours each day feeding his flock, checking water conditions and arranging the tanks and their inhabitants.

Most of Adin's fish are cichlids, a relatively rare tropical freshwater species found primarily in Africa, which require special care in an artificially controlled environment.

Water temperature, for instance, should be kept at about 80 degrees; any sudden drop in the temperature will kill the fish. The alkalinity and acidity of the water is controlled by ordinary baking soda and peat moss, respectively; a lump of plaster of paris is used to harden the water.

The fish apparently aren't too particular about what they eat, and that makes Adin's job just a little easier. Some dine on baby goldfish (which he raises himself); others have developed a peculiar fondness for Purina Tender Vittles cat food.

Adin's hobby, however, is not solely an ethereal pursuit. Many of the fish that he raises are shipped to tropical fish dealers and collectors throughout the country, and it is not uncommon for members of the closely-knit American Cichlid Association to trade fish back and forth.

Adin says more than 70 million people raise fish as a hobby, and he offers a few tips to those who are just starting:

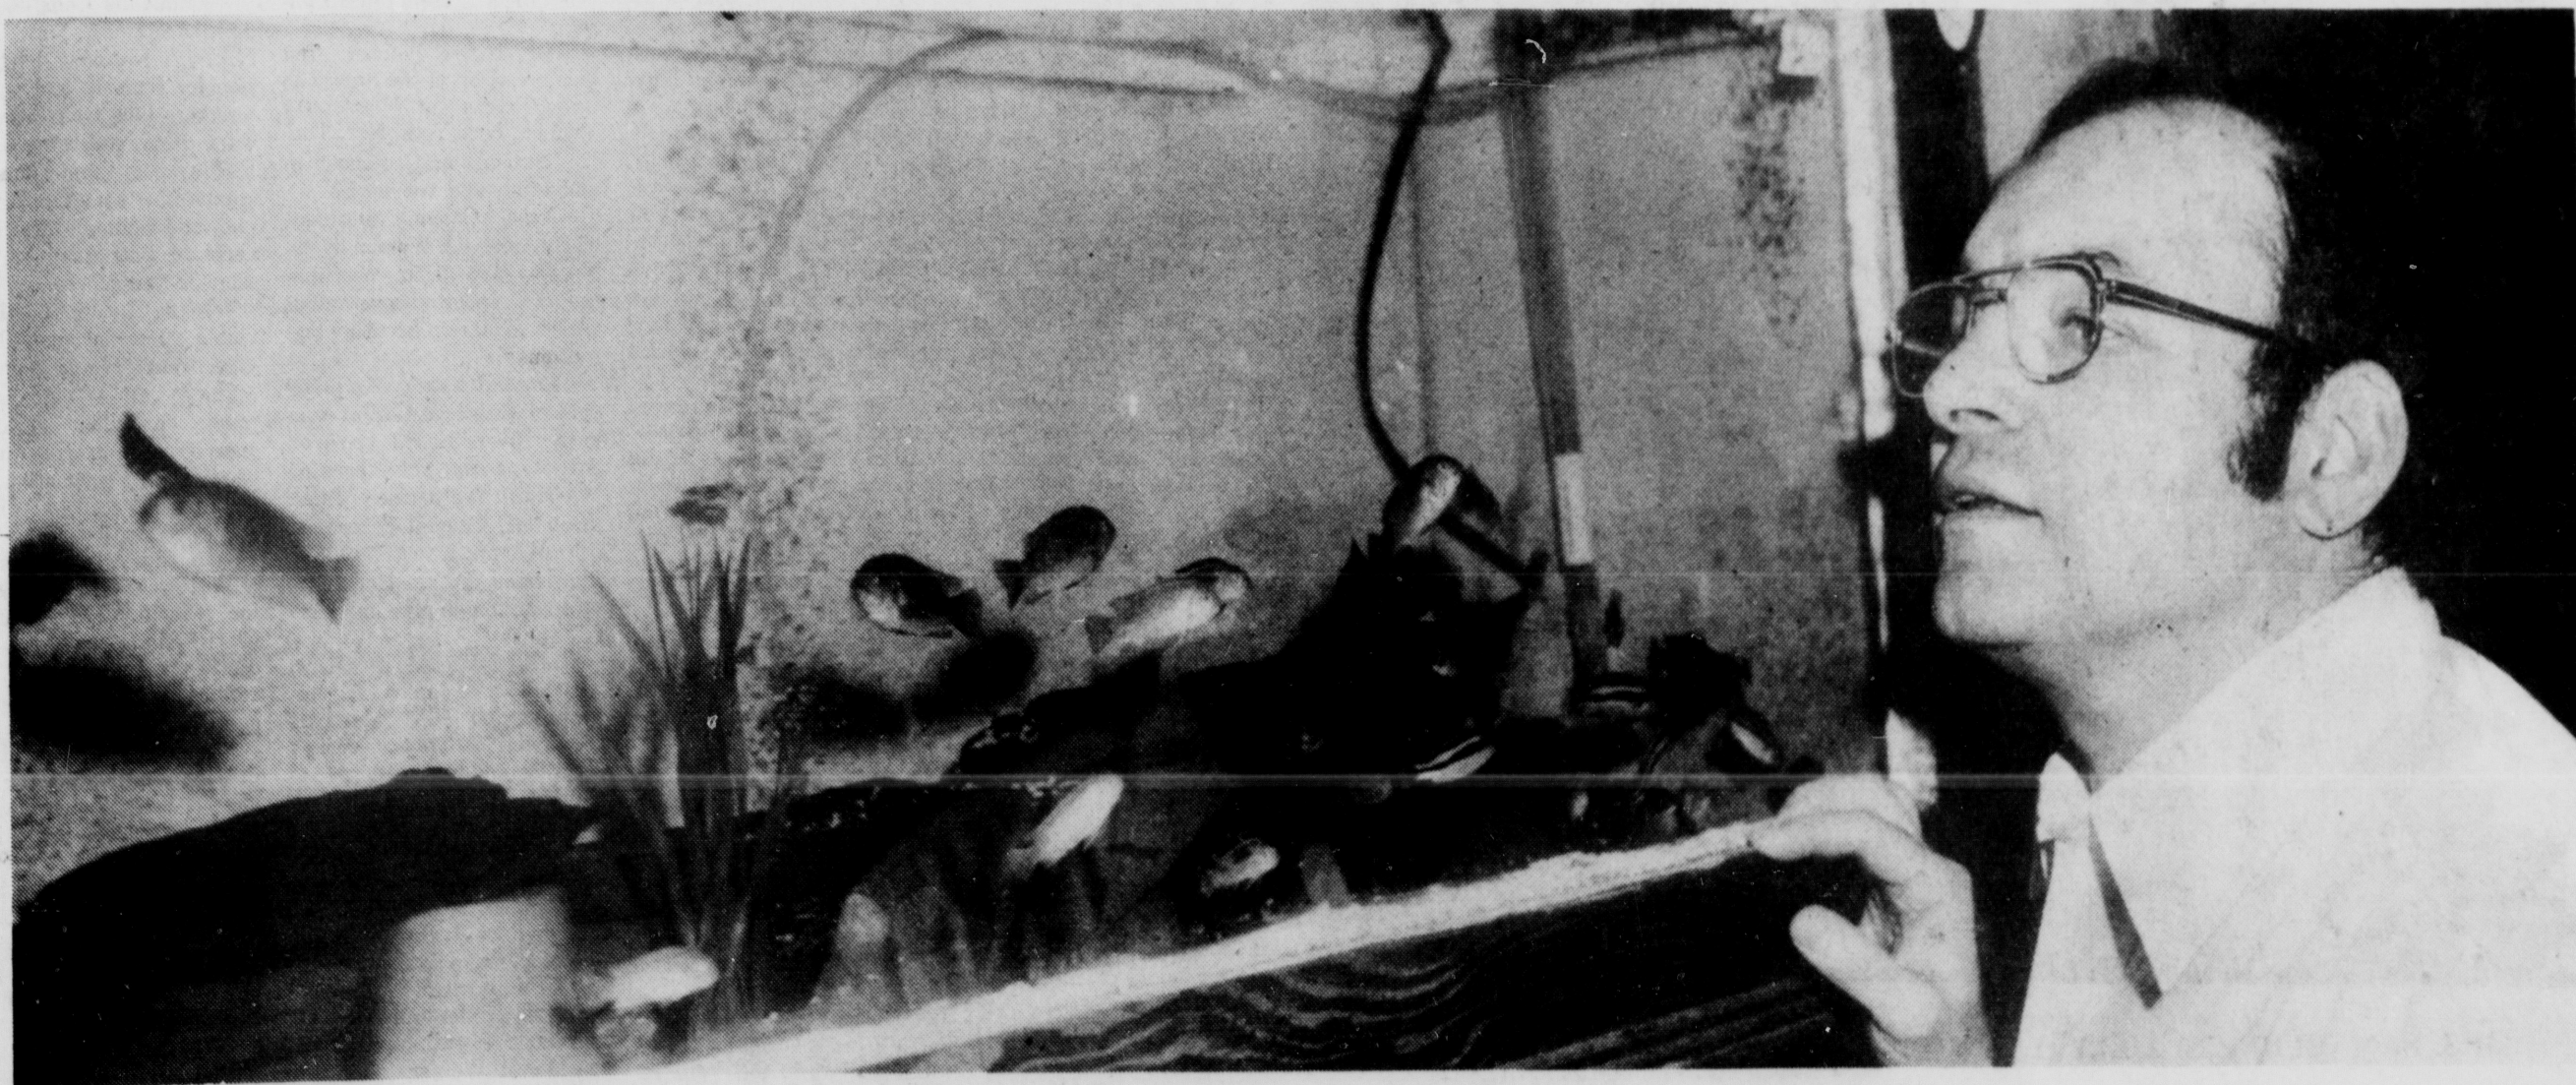

- "Always choose a tank larger than the one you need."
- "Know what you're doing before you begin to invest heavily."
- "Never place a tank in direct sunlight."

ONE OF THE 42 BLOCKS FOR BICENTENNIAL QUILT

For A Bicentennial Project

42 County Women Working on 42-Block Quilt for 1976

Forty-two Ulster County women are working on a cooperative project to commemorate the Revolutionary War heritage of this county.

The project of these women is a 42-block Ulster County Bicentennial Quilt, made in cooperation through the Office of Continuing Education and the Bicentennial Committee at Ulster County Community College in Stone Ridge.

Mrs. Ruth Culver, who teaches credit-free courses on quilting offered by the college, is coordinating this 42-woman effort. And Mrs. Culver has this to say about the gigantic task: "This quilt will show the history of the county and the development of Ulster County's heritage. It has required a tremendous amount of research."

The project also has drawn the praise of Dr. Donald Katt, the chairman of the Bicentennial Committee at the Stone Ridge college.

"This is an excellent way for these women to observe the Bicentennial and their efforts will result in something of a lasting nature to commemorate that nation's 200th birthday in 1976," Dr. Katt commented.

Each of the 42 women taking part in this Bicentennial project was assigned to do one block for the quilt, Mrs. Culver pointed out, saying that the interested women met recently at the college to map plans for the Ulster County Quilt.

During this organizational and planning session, the women involved met in smaller groups to sketch the design for the blocks and sew together.

"To me, quilting should be done in groups," Mrs. Culver went on to say, adding "That's how it was done at the time of the Revolution. It was a means for women to get together to express themselves."

Women working together on this Ulster County Quilt — which will be displayed for the public at the Stone Ridge campus in the fall of 1976 — are using the applique method of quilting — the same as was done in the colonial days.

Mrs. Culver also noted that each of the 42 women concerned with this project contributed $1 to buy materials. Two of the group pre-cut the blocks so that they would be the same size.

A pretty good cross-section of the Ulster County area is represented by the various women who are involved in this project.

City of Kingston — Kathy Baxter, Ruth Culver, Sharon Finch, Marie Hrouda, Arlene Imperati, Chris Kirk, Lois Kupec, Marie Hayes, Helda Pleva, Jackie Sittner and Dot Smith.

Woodstock — Jane Allen, Cathy Barnett, Lynne Brush, Elizabeth DeWitt, Penny Earnest, Lauretta Shekitka, Lillian Surasky and Winnie West.

New Paltz — Eleanor Anderson, Maggie Caccamo, Marie Collons, Barbara Fiorentino, Connie Gans, Donna Kent and Estelle Weed.

Hurley and West Hurley — Helen Antonovich, Claire Knickmeyer, Shirley Meyer.

Lake Katrine — Linda Culver.

Boiceville — Helen Carey.

Stone Ridge — Cindy Raymond, Rosemarie Raymond.

Rolling Meadows — Eleanor Connerton.

Phoenicia — Jan Evers.

Saugerties — Marie Genthner.

Kripplebush — Jacqueline Johnson, Gail Hilsenbeck.

Shady — Enid Hofstead, Charlotte Reynolds.

Krumville — Solveig Norman.

Red Oaks Mill — Roni Morzen.

After a summer recess, the 42 women can look forward to a busy winter season. They'll meet in September with their finished blocks, decide on a background material for the quilt — with the actual quilting due to get underway following the Christmas season.

Mrs. Marie Hrouda, Kingston, works on a section for an Ulster County Bicentennial quilt with assistance from Mrs. Ruth Culver, (C), also of Kingston, and Mrs. Robert Antonovich, right, of Hurley.

Distaff Memo to Uncle Sam: Most Want Something Different

MRS. SAM (BERNICE) ZILLY (L), AND DOROTHY HEIGHT

(UPI)

NEW YORK (UPI) — Twenty-five million American females, through organizations they pledge allegiance to, recently were asked:

What do you want from Uncle Sam — in the way of action?

The women weren't quizzed individually. Their leaders fielded for them.

It happened during an all-day seminar in New York. Kungpins in 15 major women's groups climbed on their soapboxes and answered for the 25 million. They aimed their remarks at all elected officials. Government!

Female student leaders from New York area colleges observed and made comments. The schools included Yale, Princeton, Vassar, Rutgers.

Most groups want something different in the way of government action — and getting it may also require state and local elected officials to move a little more, too.

The beneficiaries of such action, in the main, would be society's spoils and the down-trodden or helpless — rape victims, battered children, the physically, emotionally or mentally handicapped.

Most groups participating in the National Women's Speak-Out sponsored by Western Union also were of one mind about the Equal Rights Amendment. They want it ratified.

The exception: The National Council of Catholic Women. "On the E.R.A., listen to one speaker, Maxine R. Hays, president-elect of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of the United States of America:

"Until we grant legal equality of opportunity for women, legislation which is of great concern to us all will have little chance of emerging."

Taking an opposing view, Mrs. G. Sam (Bernice) Zilly, of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., spoke for the group she heads — the National Council of Catholic Women. She said:

Our rights under the law have always been the rights of women as well as men under the U.S. Constitution.

"Therefore, E.R.A. is not needed."

Ann Marie Elefthery, 20 and a junior at Princeton University, is a Catholic from Miami, Fla., and founder of a new program to tutor children of migrant farm workers in New Jersey.

In an interview she was asked about the speak-out. She said:

"I found Mrs. Zilly interesting, being Catholic myself."

"I respect her for her beliefs but I cannot agree with her. I think she was an asset to the program and provided controversy and showed us what women think, those against the E.R.A."

Other seminar panelists included:

—Muriel Mawer, president, Altrusa International, Seattle. Members want to "help resolve civic and social welfare problems in community and the world."

—Mrs. Eleanor Marvin, president of the National Council of Jewish Women from Woodmere, N.Y., said her group "probes injustices of the judicial system toward minors."

—Dr. Claire Flucher, first vice president of the American Association for University Women, New York, N.Y. Topic: Sexism and racism in education and the media.

—Jane Cohen, president elect, American Women in Radio and Television, Washington, D.C. spoke on government reform of station licensing regulations.

—Lotus Schanel, vice president of American Legion Auxiliary, Riverside, R.I. spoke on patriotism and volunteerism.

—Mary Katherine Miller, president, General Federation of Women's Clubs, Charleston, W.Va. Her group wants action on rape and alcohol abuse.

—Mary Poole, president, Association of Junior Leagues, Albuquerque, N.M. Members involved in a "child advocacy" program. Wants services to children on local, state and national levels improved.

—Dorothy Height, President, National Council of Negro Women, New York. Campaigning for food, for jobs, a decent place to live, education and human dignity.

—Mrs. Keller Bumgardner, National Coordinator, ERA League of Women Voters of the U.S., Columbia, S.C. "Piecemeal, patchwork legislation for more than 50 years simply has not succeeded in eradicating sex discrimination by federal, state and local governments. Only a constitutional amendment, ERA . . .

—Jacqueline Ceballos, past president of New York N.P.W., National Organization for Women, and regional director, told what feminists want from government. The E.R.A. She said feminism stands for equality between men and women, "not the reverse of patriarchy as some seem to think."

—Mrs. Lynette Oliver, Quota, International, Nashville, Tenn. Wants from government improvements in programs involving service to speech and hearing handicapped, drug prevention, senior citizens, needy youth and crime prevention.

—Jo Ann Alvers, president of Women in Communications Inc., Cincinnati, spoke on legislative drive to correct inequities in employment, tax, credit laws, as well as passage of ERA.

—Mrs. Naomi Whitesell, president of National Federation of Press Women, said her group's legislative priorities go like this: ERA, Freedom of Information, Adequate Shield Laws for investigative reporting.

(The sponsor of the speak-out will send its Government Guide, single copies or bulk, free to any woman. Write to Western Union, 83 McKee Drive, Mahwah, N.J. 07430. The booklet is subtitled—"It's Time We the People Spoke Up.")

It's Wedding Bells for More Spring Brides of the Area

Benter-Costello

Diane Margaret Benter, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Benter, Mt. Marion, became the bride of John Joseph Costello, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Costello of East Kingston. The Rev. Msgr. T. R. Mullins officiated at the ceremony at St. Colman's Church, East Kingston. Joe Eigo and Richard Scherer provided wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her brother, James Benter, the bride chose a mid-Victorian gown of white polyester organza in the A-line styling with Venice lace trim and an attached chapel train.

Mrs. Barbara Kogut of Quarryville was matron of honor. Attendants were Linda Benjamin, Gail Bigler, both of Kingston; Jackie Costello, Albany; JoAnn Costello, Lake Katrine. JoAnn Costello of East Kingston served as junior bridesmaid and Linda Benter of Mt. Marion was flower girl.

Jimmy Costello of Lake Katrine served as best man. Ushering were John Watzka, East Kingston; Billy Benter, Saugerties; Bob Fontaine, Schenectady; Wayne Raleigh, Kingston. Al Martino of Mt. Marion was junior usher and Kevin Nagy of Kingston was ringbearer.

A reception was given at East Kingston firehall. The bride, a graduate of Saugerties High School and Richard the First Beauty School, is employed as a beautician at Lords and Ladies II. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is employed at Hercules Inc., Port Ewen. The couple is residing at Sawkill Trailer Park.

Weishaupt-Corrigan

Julie Ann Weishaupt and James William Corrigan, both of Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows Sunday, May 25 at St. Peter's Church in Kingston. The Rev. William Reynolds of Larchmont officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew A. Weishaupt Jr. of 1 Cassidy Street, Kingston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice F. Corrigan of 84 Van Keuren Highway, Kingston.

Miss Nan Goldrick, organist, accompanied Richard Scherer who sang wedding selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a traditional white gown of silk organza fashioned with a ruffled neckline and Chantilly lace accents. The A-line skirt featured lace trim and terminated in a chapel train.

Joan Marie Weishaupt of Kingston was maid of honor for her sister. Attendants were Mrs. Michael Weishaupt of Germany, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Ann Corrigan, Kathleen Corrigan, sisters of the bridegroom; Sharon Augustine, all of Kingston; and Mary Ann Prendergast of Port Ewen.

Daniel Corrigan, brother of the bridegroom, Kingston, served as best man. Ushering were Michael Weishaupt of Germany, brother of the bride; Bruce Nichols, John Greco, Michael Carpino, Theodore Pfeiffer Jr., all of Kingston.

A reception was given at Holiday Inn, Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1972, and Ulster County Community College, class of 1974, is employed by Statewide Savings and Loan Association.

Her husband, an alumnus of KHS, class of 1972, is employed by the Town of Ulster. Mr. and Mrs. Corrigan will reside in Kingston.

Metzelaar-Cole

Marriage vows were exchanged by Ellen Jane Metzelaar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Metzelaar of 6 Morris Street, Saugerties, and Thomas Arthur Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Cole of Saugerties. The ceremony took place Sunday, May 18 at 2 p.m. in the First Congregational Church of Saugerties. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Frederick J. Imhoff, pastor. Mrs. Beverly Harris was organist and soloist-guitarist was Peter Sanson.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose to wear an imported Chantilly lace princess styled gown, matching lace cap and a three tiered veil in fingertip length. She carried a nosegay of white daisies, carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Anne Metzelaar of Saugerties was maid of honor for her sister. Attendants were Miss Susan Metzelaar of Saugerties, sister of the bride; Mrs. James (Patti) Potrikus of Ephrata, N.Y., and Miss Kaylyn Cole of Saugerties, sisters of the bridegroom.

Paul Bernard of Laconia, New Hampshire was best man. Ushering were Pete Finger of Saugerties; James Potrikus, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and Timothy Cole of Saugerties, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride is a graduate of Saugerties High School and was employed by Metropolitan Insurance Company. Her husband, a 1971 alumnus of Saugerties High School, received his BS degree in Electrical Engineering from Clarkson College of Technology at Potsdam and is studying for his masters there.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole will be at home at 16 Chestnut Street, Potsdam, N.Y. 13676.

Dickson-Lowe

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Dickson of RD 1, Box 81, Kingston, announce the marriage of their daughter, Jean Marie, to Dennis Asa Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lowe of Stone Ridge.

The Rev. James J. LeBar officiated at the ceremony May 10 at St. Catherine Labour Church in Lake Katrine.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a gown of nylon sheer organza and re-embroidered lace in an A-line silhouette. The gown was styled with a high neckline and Queen Anne sleeves, and featured a chapel length train.

Mrs. Charles Phillips of Kingston was matron of honor for her sister.

Brian Lowe, brother of the bridegroom, Stone Ridge, was best man. Ushering were Edward Lowe, brother of the bridegroom; David, Robert and Edward Dickson, brothers of the bride.

A reception was given at American Legion Hall in Stone Ridge.

The bride, a 1973 graduate of Saugerties High School, is employed by Wonderly Company. Her husband is a 1972 alumnus of Rondout Valley High School.

The couple is residing in Glenrie.

Pumpkins for Fun, Food and $$

Pumpkins are for laughter — for Jack-O-Lanterns and Halloween — during the cool, overcast days of autumn.

Pumpkins are for pies . . . all winter long.

And pumpkins are for extra cash: their sales bring in dollars when most other money crops are gone.

A fellow homesteader put it this way: "Pumpkins are our ace-in-the-hole for raising Christmas dollars. Old Jack brings in extra funds just in time to take advantage of the countless pre-holiday sales."

The big, beautiful, bright orange fruit is easy to grow, too. It needs about 120 days to reach maturity so, in most areas, plantings around the third week of May will bring in crops during late September . . . before damaging frosts and just in time for Halloween.

When seeding pumpkins outdoors, don't tire yourself by spading up every square foot of soil. Only the area where the roots will grow needs special preparation. Simply turning the earth in hills about two feet in diameter and spaced three feet apart should be quite sufficient, although digging lots of manure or compost into each mound definitely helps produce larger, more perfect specimens for the Halloween market.

When you seed pumpkins with other crops, leave a three-foot, plowed and unplanted border for future Jack-O-Lanterns and pies. Once you've planted the fruit every three feet down the strip, the rangy vines usually spread out from the ribbon of tilled soil and deposit their bright orange treasures — high and dry — on the adjoining unplowed ground. Pumpkin vines, you'll find, wander happily over rocky terrain, across lawns and even through weeds.

Place about three or four pumpkin seeds an inch deep in each hill and, when the young plants are well-established, put a thick mulch around them to keep down weeds that would otherwise rob the developing vines of moisture and food. This mulch should be tight, mat-like (packed grass clippings are fine) and stuffed closely around the stalks to shut off any passages through which squash bugs might gain entry to the pumpkins' roots. The squash bug is a persistent, plant-killing pest and the big ones like to live around the base of the vines and come up to lay eggs on the underside of the leaves. You can take natural preventive measures against this bug's infestation.

First, try the fundamental natural gardening formula: a strong and healthy plant will survive normal insect attacks and — in the majority of cases — yield a fine crop. Well-worked soil, plentiful organic fertilizer, regular watering and a good mulch tend to make pumpkin vines strong, healthy and resistant to insect damage and disease.

If squash bug infestation of your pumpkins does begin to get out of hand, though, a soap and water solution spray will kill the little pests (although it won't control them). Some gardeners claim they protect their pumpkins from the bugs by interplanting onions and garlic and onion juice mixed with water deserves further study.

One word of warning when experimenting with watered-down solutions of asparagus, elderberry, onion or garlic juice as natural insecticides: never, never test a mixture on your entire crop! It could prove disastrous. Try very weak solutions first, spray in the evenings rather than mornings or during the heat of the day, treat only a single infested plant or a few leaves at first and watch the doctored area closely for a few days.

If the sprayed plant or leaves show signs of wilting, drying or scarring, your solution is too harsh and must be discarded.

Cut your pumpkins from their vines after the first light frost. They'll both look and store better if you leave the stems on and firm specimens — stashed away in a dry room or cellar where the temperature can be maintained at around 50 degrees F — will keep well until spring. The fruit will rot if allowed to freeze and thaw.

Pumpkins intended for Jack-O-Lanterns use can be sold at roadside or in the front yard if displayed with signs indicating their price range. A little showmanship can really help move the fruit, and a scarecrow, set up for atmosphere, has been known to substantially increase sales.

One homesteader sells hundreds of pumpkins each Halloween by displaying them as "ready-made" seasonal faces. "I don't carve them," he said, "because — if I did — they'd spoil. I just make the faces with different vegetables or whatever strikes my fancy . . . even fishing lures. These ready-made 'jacks' sell faster and at better prices than my undecorated stock."

Another individual grows a number of huge pumpkins (up to 100 pounds each) by planting the Big Max variety, fertilizing gently three or four times during the season and regularly pruning off all but three or four of the largest fruits from each vine.

"We don't sell as many of these giants as we do the more convenient sizes," he notes, "but our oversized specimens are great attention-getters. Banks, stores and other businesses pay premium prices for the whoppers and use 'em as the focus of eye-popping Halloween displays."

"We made our initial sales with a few phone calls and, now, a number of businesses have standing orders with us for an established delivery date of a monster pumpkin each year." This year, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Mother Earth News, in care of The Freeman, Box 4994, Des Moines, Iowa. Ask for Reprint No. 180, "Mini-Garden."

Homemaker Service Has New Director

Mrs. Robert C. Rolfe, president of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Homemaker Service, Inc., has announced the appointment of Mrs. John Arceri as the new executive director of the Homemaker Service effective June 1.

Mrs. Arceri replaces Mrs. John B. Plass who has been the director of the service since its inception in 1970. Mrs. Rolfe said that "the retirement of Mrs. Plass is a great loss to the Homemaker Service since she has been its director since its infancy, but we are fortunate that she will continue to be involved in a volunteer capacity."

The Ulster County Homemaker Service was founded in October, 1970 by the Junior League of Kingston, Inc. and since that time has experienced rapid growth and is now a member agency of the United Way of Ulster County, Inc.

Mrs. Arceri, the former Rosemargaret Tangorra and a native of City Island, New York, is a graduate of the College of Mt. Saint Vincent in Riverdale. She has had wide and varied employment experience having been a teacher in the Ontario School District; a caseworker for the Department of Social Services, Bureau of Child Welfare; and most recently employed in the credit department of the Hudson Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association. Mrs. Arceri, her husband, and her son, Ram, reside in New Paltz.

One of the first challenges facing the new executive director will be the implementation of the new Home Health Aide program recently initiated by the Homemaker Service in cooperation with the Ulster County Department of Health. The home health aide provides personal, patient centered care in the home under the direction of a public health nurse. The home health aides are available on a contract basis through the Department of Health for patients who, though they are able to be at home, require skilled nursing care or physical therapy. Additional information on this program may be obtained from the Department of Health.

MRS. EMMA ARGULEWICZ

Local Mother Gets Degree

Emma Argulewicz, 39 Pine Street, Kingston, was awarded the doctor of philosophy degree at the 25th annual commencement at the State University of New York at Binghamton, Sunday, May 25.

She is the wife of Paul J. Argulewicz, local post office worker, and the mother of Anthony, a librarian at the Wallkill Middle School, and of Eileen, a federal employee, Washington, D.C. At present, Dr. Argulewicz is Assistant Professor of English and World Literature at the State University College at New Paltz. Before entering the doctorate program, she taught at the Bennett School, Boiceville, for five years, where she was the advisor to the BENNETT BANNER, school newspaper.

A graduate of Saugerties High School in 1938, she received her bachelor of arts degree, with honors, in English and French in 1962 from State University College at New Paltz. A recipient of a Middlebury College scholarship, she studied at the Bread Loaf School of English, Middlebury, Vt. where in 1965 she received a master of arts degree in English literature. Dr. Argulewicz also did post-graduate work at Harvard University under a New York State P.T.A. grant.

Her major field of study was English Romantic literature, with supporting fields of 18th and Victorian fiction. Her dissertation was a study of the progressive dark imagery in the poetry of John Keats. She is a member of the Keats-Shelley Association of America.

Dr. Argulewicz is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Francello, Glasco and the sister of Santo Francello and Attorney Louis Francello, Saugerties; Dr. Joseph Francello, Allentown, Pa.; Mrs. Leon Studt, Kingston; and Mrs. James Persons, Burnt Hills.

Mrs. John Arceri (R), newly appointed executive director of Ulster County Homemaker Service, and Mrs. John Traylor, chairperson of committee to oversee the newly-created Home Health Aide Program.

Dear Abby:

Play Deaf to Chatty Fellow Travelers

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I love to travel. I've been in 48 states, Mexico, Canada and the Holy Land. I especially like to travel by bus so I can get a close look at the scenery, but I've reached the point where I would almost rather stay home than get stuck sitting next to some of the folks I've come across on my trips.

Invariably, my seat partner wants to get acquainted in a hurry, so he (or she) starts to tell me his life history. Then out lines the snapshots of the whole family. Some even tell me personal things about their lives, which are of no interest to me. These confessions take hours, and since I will never see these people again, a whole segment of my vacation has been wasted. Usually the bus is full, and I can't move to another seat.

I have tried to escape from these nonstop talkers by burying my nose in a book or pretending to "nap" — but then I'm depriving myself of the scenery. I wish I had the courage to say, "Please shut up — you are boring me!" But I am basically a nice person (or a coward) and can't do that.

So, Dear Abby, what should I do?

LIKES PEACE AND QUIET

DEAR LIKES: Turn to your seat partner at the beginning of the trip and say, "I hope you're not expecting conversation, because I am hard of hearing. Unless he (or she) knows sign language, you're home free."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are Mormons who abstain from the use of tobacco, alcohol, coffee and tea.

I am planning a party for my mother, who is visiting me from out of town, and I don't want to serve the above-mentioned items. I also don't wish to provide for smokers, even though many of my friends, including my mother, are not Mormon.

My mother says it would be a terrible faux pas for me not to serve tea or coffee. She even offered to serve it herself and buy it if it would relieve me of the responsibility of seeming to approve of it by having it in my home. I told her I felt that I would be compromising my beliefs.

My question: Is she correct? Or am I?

PUZZLED IN PHOENIX

DEAR PUZZLED: I am informed that the Church of the Latter Day Saints leaves it up to the individual. The church has no ruling. With so many fine coffee substitutes available, you could surely serve one.

DEAR ABBY: Help — How does a terrible housekeeper learn to keep a reasonably neat house. Don't tell me to force myself to do my housework before my pleasurable jobs. I sew a lot and do things with my children (like coloring, playing games and working puzzles), but I find myself letting my housework go.

The kids have clean clothes and good meals, but my house is a wreck! There must be a smooth routine or method in a book somewhere, but I'm too ashamed to ask for it — after 10 years of marriage.

HOPELESS IN ILLINOIS

DEAR HOPELESS: Nobody's hopeless. First, teach your children to hang up their clothes (when they're old enough) and put away their toys before going to bed. Don't eat (or let anyone else eat) anywhere but in the kitchen or dining room. Don't let the children undress anywhere except in their bedroom. (This goes for shoes, too.)

After breakfast, wash the dishes immediately, so they won't stack up.

Don't ever set anything down. Put it where it belongs! Give one room a thorough cleaning every day, and dust and sweep the other rooms.

And if your house isn't always a model for "House Beautiful," don't worry. Doing things with your kids pays bigger dividends than being the neatest housekeeper on the block.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

T.A.C.T. Meets Monday

The final eeting of T.A.C.T., the parent-teacher organization of the M. Clifford Miller Junior High School, will be held Monday, June 2, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Parents are urged to attend this important meeting as plans will be discussed for the coming year.

A Youth-in-Government program, featuring students from Miller who were recently elected to serve in local government posts, will follow the business meeting.

Members will have the opportunity to meet Miss Bonnie McCaig, adviser for the school's Youth-in-Government organization.

Millipedes, Sowbugs and Centipedes — Unwanted Guests

Homeowners are reminded that one of three Anthropods may invade the home area now that warm moist weather has arrived.

Each year the problem with these many legged worm-like animals increases with the coming of summer. Although not true insects, they are closely related and a general description may help the homeowner understand them and what to do if they find an invasion in moist areas of homegrounds or basements, patios, garage floors and even in swimming pool areas.

Millipedes — the most common and often called Thousand-legged worms are hard shelled with a many segmented body bearing two pair of legs per segment. Most species are 1-1½ inches in length but some may exceed four inches. They are usually found in damp places such as under leaves, stones, boards or in the moist soil. Most Millipedes are scavengers, feeding on decaying vegetation, but a few species feed on living plant tissue. Generally, around the home the major concern is what to do when literally thousands of them appear at one time. They may be so thick that they climb up and cover parts of the walls of houses, garages and even may enter the home.

Agriculture Report:

By William H. Palmer

Sowbugs also called pillbugs, are fat dark gray, hard shelled Anthropods reaching about ½ inch in length. They also occur in damp places similar to millipedes. Centipedes — often call Hundred-legged worms are flattened, worm like animals with 15 or more pairs of legs. Both Millipedes and Centipedes overwinter as adults in protected situations. The females lay eggs in damp soil and leaf mulch throughout the summer. The Sowbugs and Millipedes will roll up into a ball when disturbed while Centipedes will usually run for cover if disturbed but can bite if handled carelessly. Millipedes and Sowbugs do not bite and are relatively harmless except they may occasionally attack stems and roots of young seedling plants or they may feed on tubers and vegetables stored in cellars or basements.

The Centipedes are predacious, feeding on insects, spiders and other small animals. They do not cause damage to plants. In the garden and around the outside of the house they may be controlled by using an insecticide as Diazinon or Carbaryl (Sevin). Apply the spray in moist areas around the foundation, window wells and in the garden. Do not apply the sprays to edible crops less than seven days before harvesting. In the home, use the household preparation of one of the above materials or use Baygon. Many aerosols contain preparations of one of these insecticides. Be sure to follow label directions carefully. If Millipedes continue to be a problem, it may be advisable to rake back mulch or thin out plants near the foundation of the house to let the area dry out more quickly.

Insecticides are not recommended around the home grounds as a general practice unless harmful insects are present and out of control. To assist homeowners in identifying insects, Cooperative Extension, 74 John Street, Kingston, offer a free diagnostic service, and make recommendations on control, if they appear warranted. In addition, we highly recommend every homeowner obtain a copy of "A Guide To Safe Pest Control Around the Home," for 25 cents and keep it as a handy library reference.

Tomatoes Are a Favorite

Among American families raising their own vegetables — and there's more and more these days — tomatoes are surely favorite. And with good reason — they can grow in a regular garden, a raised bed, or in sythetic soil and in tubs they can decorate a terrace or patio as well as balance your diet. Read All About Vegetables in the Ortho Garden Book.

How and When to Fertilize . . . Part 1

By Bill Meachem

Former Editor of Home Garden Magazine
I've been raising a few eyebrows lately with some of my fertilizing recommendations. Sometimes it's hard for me to convince people that there are right and wrong times to fertilize, as well as right and wrong fertilizers.

Chances are many people are "lawn oriented" when it comes to fertilizing. Well, if you're going to grow vegetables and ornamentals such as annual and perennial flowers, trees and shrubs, you have to fertilize differently.

A common question that is asked of me, for instance, is how much fertilizer should be mixed with the soil when planting trees and shrubs?

When I say none, the eyebrows go up.

Fertilizer is added to the soil before planting a lawn, seed or sod, because the roots of the grass plants can handle it. Also, when you grow a lawn you are looking for a fast surge of leafy, soft growth. This is not always the case with trees and shrubs.

Now, just because I don't recommend adding fertilizer at planting time doesn't mean that these plants never need fertilizing. They do. But the difference between a shrub and a lawn is that the newly planted shrub is suffering from transplanting "shock." It will have many injured roots. And it will have to become established before it is ready to receive some fertilizer that will push on the proper growth.

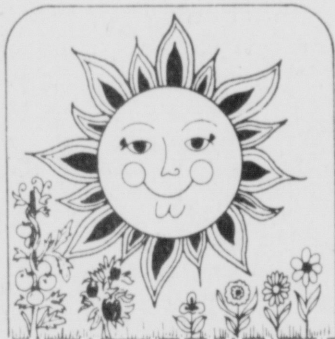

Better at planting time in the case of woody plants such as trees and shrubs is the addition of organic material in the soil beneath and around the sides of the roots. Be generous with this organic material which can be peatmoss, compost or well-rotted manure. There may be a little nutrition in this material, but what you are doing is establishing a good soil condition for the new roots to start growing in.

These conditions also should exist under the root ball as well. Some roots will grow down, but you also will be establishing a little drainage under the plant when you improve the soil a foot deeper than where the roots will be set. This keeps the plant from growing in a pool of water, which happens when the soil is a heavy clay.

You also should have some good soil on the sides of the roots. Here's how you do this. When digging the hole, put all the soil on a tarp or large piece of plastic. Mix in peatmoss, compost or rotted manure. Now when you replace the soil around the roots, it will be a good soil, not the plain fill that you removed.

This good soil will hold lots of moisture. This is needed because the remaining roots will be working at full capacity and need all the nearby water they can get.

New roots will start to form soon and the older ones will become stronger. This is the time to fertilize. If you had mixed in fertilizer at planting time, it is possible that some of these new roots would be "burned" with the high salt concentration. This would set back the plant—not help it.

How long does it take a plant to become "established" and ready for fertilizing? It depends on the size of the plant and where you live. In the North, a large plant with a large ball of soil around the roots may take as long as a year to become established. A smaller plant could become established in a month or so. And as we all know, where there is a long or all-year growing season the plant can become established sooner, regardless of size.

You will be able to see the change. There will be new growth of leaves and stems when it becomes established.

To fertilize this new plant, mix some dry fertilizer with sand or peatmoss—half and half. With a pipe or crowbar, punch holes in the soil as deep as you can around the edge of your original planting hole. It will be easy going. Remember, you mixed peatmoss with the soil. Pour in a handful of fertilizer mix in each hole. Cover and water. This is the time when the roots will need some feeding.

I'll have more on fertilizing next week.

Dear Bill:
At Christmas I received two poinsettias; one with the red leaf-like flowers and the other white. Both are in the same room, yet the red one is losing its leaves. But not the white. They get the same treatment, why should this be?

Mrs. A. L. Walsh
Beverly, Mass.

Dear Mrs. Walsh:
You're doing nothing wrong to the red or right to the white. It is just that the white varieties of poinsettias retain their bracts—or "flowers"—longer than red varieties. Put both outside on the patio this summer and enjoy them as a foliage plant.

Dandelions Shouldn't Be Pulled Out

The annual war on dandelions has started. On almost any street on any day, someone can be seen on hands and knees pulling up the enemy by the hundreds. The dandelions are sure losers, right?

Wrong. Pulling dandelions, or even cutting them out, provides temporary relief only. The plant's top growth may no longer be visible, but like an iceberg, there's a lot unseen down below. Dandelion tap roots are one, two, even three feet deep — making it very difficult to pull or cut everything. Being regenerative, whatever root is left usually starts growing back again. Before long, up pops a "new" dandelion, and the homeowner is right back where he or she started.

Even very careful digging up seldom succeeds in complete uprooting. It's a laborious, time-consuming way to spend a weekend or more, with little chance to really succeed.

By far the easiest and most successful combat method is to spread a selective dandelion control on the lawn. The active ingredients, harmless to grass, are absorbed through the dandelion's leaves into its system. The entire plant gradually dies, roots and all. Regrowth from that plant is impossible, so the homeowner's victory is a real one.

Application of this type of weed control is relatively simple, and takes but a fraction of hand-pulling time. According to the O. M. Scott Company, its Turf Builder Plus 2 dandelion control can be spread on the average sized (5000 sq. ft.) lawn in less than 30 minutes. And since it also contains a full portion of lawn fertilizer, that necessary job is done too at the same time.

Other broadleaf weeds, such as plantain and buckhorn, succumb to the same active ingredients, so when Scott's Turf Builder Plus 2 is spread to control dandelions, all susceptible broadleaf weeds are controlled.

Modern Salt-Box . . . Old Theme

By Jack McEleney

Today's house feature that takes its name from the old salt-box grandmother kept in the kitchen, appears in dramatic form in a plan called by the same name. The modern version retains all the visual beauty and physical comfort of the original salt-box homes, many of which dot the country-side as picturesque reminders of past revolutionary days. Simple to the point of severity, these old dwellings came by their name and charm through honest construction.

The "Salt-box" is not a large dwelling but has an element of spaciousness acquired from a fine sense of open planning. The living room occupies the front choice location and the family room is in the rear. While it provides two room utility, the area extends from front to rear with a center staircase wall that offers just the right amount of separation, virtually the entire front and right side walls of the living room are devoted to picture windows in complete keeping with the massive stone fireplace that ranges along the left wall to the stairway.

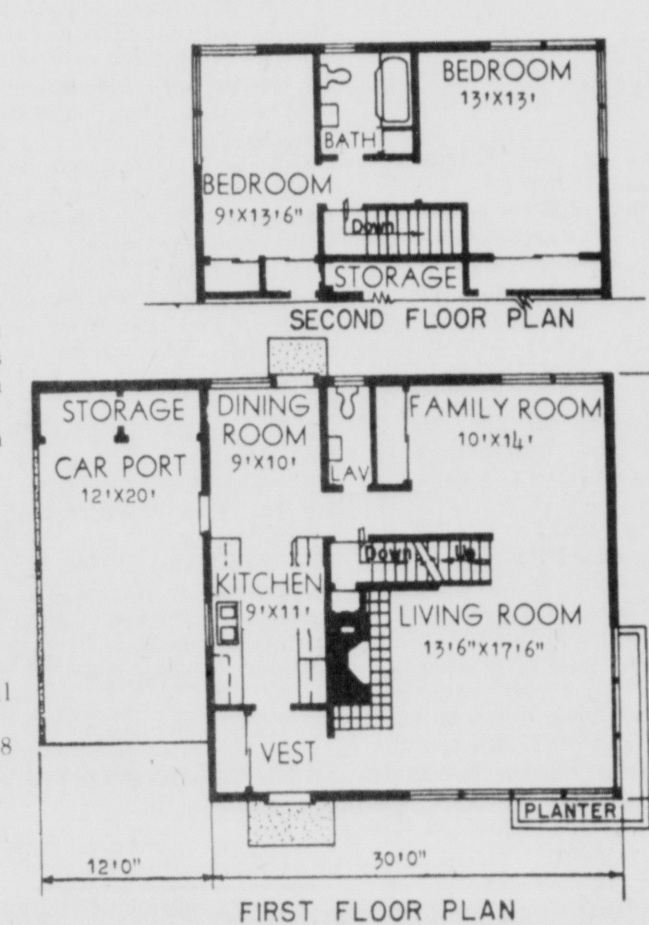

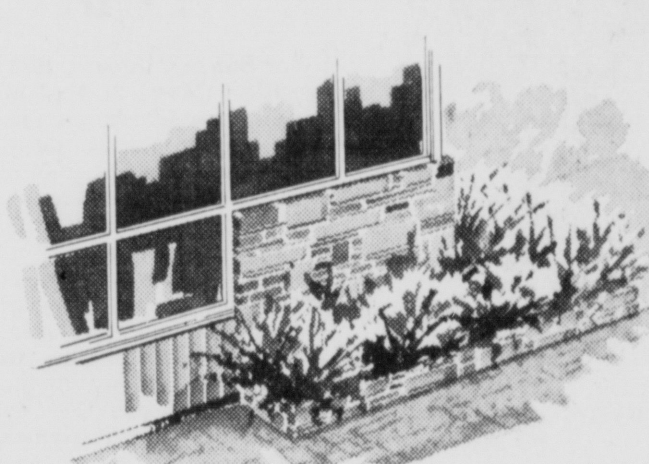

Kitchen cabinets are arranged galley-wise leaving the center open for easy movement from front to rear. The front entrance opens on a vestibule that affords quick access to the general areas, and in the dining room there is an entry to the carport and also one to the rear yard. Completing the first floor layout is a large sliding door closet in the family room and a small daily-use lavette (lavatory) next to the dining room.

The roof treatment in the design helps to provide two good size bedrooms on the second floor — each with better than average closet space. The rectangular shape of the "Salt-box" is an important factor in holding down building costs and the carport will do double duty as a sheltered terrace during the summer months.

The first floor contains 840 square feet of living space and the second floor 452 square feet. Basic house measurements are 28 by 30 feet. The "Salt-box" was designed for year round living but with unfinished interior it would also make a beautiful summer house. Complete building plans are available to readers at the moderate cost of $25 for the first set and $15 for each additional set. With the building plans you will receive form specifications and a complete material list with alternates for building with a full basement, without basement, with brick veneer or concrete block construction. Specify with full basement or without basement when ordering plans.

Home plan booklets of all types are also available to readers for 50 cents each and a new popular book for 75 cents. Send requests to the Associated Blueprint Co., 595 Plainfield Street, Providence, R.I., 02909.

KIT: Earthy, but just an act.

Q: Is Eartha Kitt still knocking them dead with her sexy song and dance act? — R.M., Bakersfield, Calif.

A: Not so much knocking them dead as bringing them to energetic life. Touring the chilly Scandinavian countries recently, she got marriage proposals from a count and a 30-year-old businessman. Then cops had to be called when half a dozen nightclub fans followed her to her hotel room and broke down the door. "They take my act too seriously," said sexy Eartha.

Q: I hear Eddie Fisher is making yet another comeback. How can he manage it? Doesn't it cost a lot of money? — C.L., Elizabeth, N.J.

A: It is expensive, but Eddie gets along with a little help from his friends. Most recently it was Buddy Hackett, a kindly sort, who cast Fisher in his new show at Long Island's Westbury Music Fair.

Q: I saw a TV movie with an actress in it named Tessa Dahl. Is that Patricia Neal's daughter? — K.S., Ocala, Fla.

A: Yes it is. She's 18 and her father is Ronald Dahl, Patricia's writer-husband. Tessa has recently moved in with young Patrick Fisher, whose father is a British Lord. The Dahls are saying only that it is very, very difficult to be modern parents these days.

Q: What happened to the German actress Hildegard Neff? She did some movies in the U.S.A. and wrote a book I liked. — K.L., Baldwin, N.Y.

A: Hildegard was stricken with cancer six years ago and as a result has undergone some 50 operations, including a radical mastectomy. Ms. Neff has written an account of her battle with cancer called "The Verdict." The book is a runaway best seller in Germany and will be published here in about a month.

Q: I hear they are going to film Irving Wallace's new book, "The Fan Club," about a famous actress who is kidnapped and raped by four fans. Who'll play the actress and where did the author get such a bizarre plot in the first place? — N.P., Sioux City, Iowa.

A: Strangely enough even in these permissive times, Columbia Pictures is having a difficult time finding a star willing to play the extended rape sequence. Wallace got the idea for the book when he overheard a group of men on a train discussing the fact that they would give anything for one night with . . . Elizabeth Taylor.

Q: Is my impression that actress Jane Fonda has been staying out of the headlines correct? — J.T., N.Y., N.Y.

A: Jane has been keeping a low profile and spending most of her time being a housewife and mother because that's the way her husband, political activist Tom Hayden, wants it. However, this may change soon if Hayden runs for California Senator John Tunney's Congressional seat. Don't think for a minute Tom will drag Jane along that bumpy campaign trail.

Some Indian Jewelry Traps the Unwary

By Jean Barnes

(First of two columns)

Blue or green? Stabilized? Old Pawn? Navajo, Hopi or Zuni? Persian or American?

Questions for a beginning collector of Indian jewelry are ample proof that the field is often bewildering in its magnitude and confusing in its complexity.

But the novice will receive encouragement from collector-dealer Charles Kidwell who admits that even the experts will make mistakes. After 12 years and thousands of miles of travel into the Southwest from his home in Wichita, Kan., he confesses, "I'm still learning."

A genial host, Kidwell received us in his shop one recent afternoon. We had not even a beginner's acquaintance with the subject and his terminology was foreign to us. However, his patient explanations bolstered by an array of demonstration pieces soon had us nodding in understanding.

He was quick to dispel several of our misconceptions on the subject of Indian jewelry and we spent enough time to come away with a deep appreciation of the use of turquoise and silver to produce beautiful works of art.

The first is that most Indian jewelry is "antique." The term is "old pawn" and derives from the fine old Indian jewelry that was left, unredeemed, in pawn shops. Actually, most jewelry on the market is of recent vintage and aside from museum-quality pieces, age has little to do with price.

Not all Indian jewelry is handcrafted. Basically, there are three methods of production. The primary method used by Indian silversmiths is to produce authentic, hand-crafted jewelry in their own homes or shops for sale to individuals, dealers or wholesalers. These objects are wrought by hand and will reflect a varying degree of quality workmanship and materials.

Small factories, employing Indian personnel, using machines turn out the majority of jewelry on today's market. Handwork is at a minimum.

The poorest quality is the imitation which makes use of pot metal, plastic and enamels. To sell this as "Authentic Indian Handcraft" in Arizona is fraud.

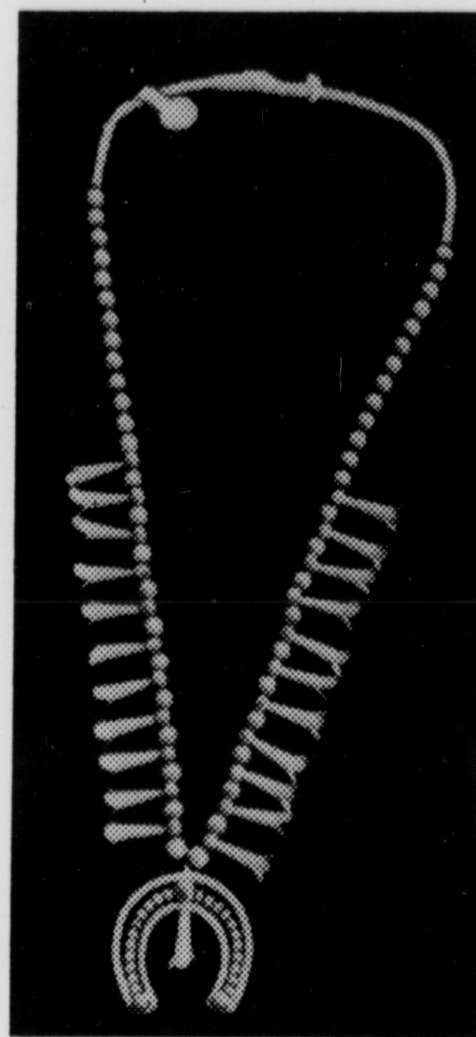

Jewelry of the Zuni, Hopi and Navajo are distinctive in design and style. The Navajo are recognized as the first silversmiths, Kidwell explained. They taught the Hopi who in turn taught the Zuni.

Generally, Navajo jewelry is less elaborate, incorporating larger stones. The Zuni is known for multiple stone inlays of almost delicate quality and for their channel work. This is the art of outlining a design in metal, fitting stones within the outline and polishing both metal and stones to a smooth surface similar in appearance to cloisonné. The Hopi Indians work almost exclusively with silver.

Although many dealers feel that the collecting of Indian jewelry has approached "fad" proportions, they also feel that there is a quality, a fineness, a heredity and historical interest which will appeal to collectors for many years to come, Kidwell said.

In the next column, we will talk with him about turquoise, a gem that is measured by carat weight as a diamond is.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Silver squash blossom necklace is Navajo. Name comes from the silver blossoms fitted between the beads. The naja or amulet against evil spirits came from the Moors and Spaniards brought it to the New World.

Your Astrographs for Today and Monday

For Sunday, June 1, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extra-careful who you take into your confidence today. Don't disclose information to one known to talk freely.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll receive strong feelers from a friend who wants to borrow something. Follow your instincts, to avoid being taken.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The ends do not justify the means for you today. Don't do anything that could sacrifice your good name for a temporary gain.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Hiding your motives for fear of rejection is folly. You're better off leveling with friends you seek help from. They'll know if you don't.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be extra wary in conducting business today. A sly salesman could easily rip you off.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're much too wishywashty today for your own good. If you're not aware of this, a stronger personality will take advantage of you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your attention span is not up to the task you've tackled today. You're a good starter, but a poor finisher.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be moderate in partaking of the good things of life. Overindulgence comes easy to you today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll look for the quick way out of things today, though you know that what is most expeditious is not always best for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're involved in any type of mental work today have a back-up to check on you. You're prone to make and overlook errors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Speculative ventures aren't for you. You may feel lucky today, but risky undertakings will only take money out of your pocket.

PICES (Feb. 20-March 20) Others will take you at your word today. Be careful not to promise something you have neither the means nor the inclination to deliver.

For June 2, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something you know you should attend to now will be started today, but not completed. You're too easily distracted.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An outside activity you're interested in will prove a bit more expensive than you anticipated. Have your check-book ready.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Profit will come from ventures today only if you're persistent.

Don't let those you're dealing with know you're unsure of yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You still have a tendency today to try to hide your real reasons for doing things—this could cause you a problem.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll aid someone who now needs your help, but if you tell others what you did it will prove embarrassing to that person.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't take bows for something you didn't do completely on your own today. Share the credit equally with teammates.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This can be a very productive day for you if you stick to your goals. Keep your priorities in proper perspective.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be on guard in social situations today not to let the cat out of the bag about things that should be kept secret.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Take a firm position on a domestic issue where you feel the family is best-served by a course of action you have devised.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Normally you don't shirk responsibility, but today you could easily be talked into putting things off till tomorrow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today will be materially rewarding if you don't look for gains in something-for nothing areas. Stick to sure things.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't back out of a fun thing you've planned because of minor problems that pop up. They can be attended to later.

Walk, Jog

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please let me know if jogging is good for losing weight? If so, how many times a day should I do it and for how long in minutes?

DEAR READER — Walking and sensible jogging are both useful in eliminating and preventing obesity. They help use calories and that is what you want. They do many other beneficial things for your health. I really like people to have a general exercise program that includes walking or jogging so that all of their muscles get some sensible exercise.

Walking and slow jogging use about 60 calories a mile more than you would use at rest. If you walk or jog about a mile and a half a day, 365 days a year, you will use the amount of calories found in nine pounds of fat.

The key to success is consistency. Start with walking and after you can walk an hour a day comfortably without difficulty, then you can start jogging a short distance followed by walking. By interval jogging and walking, but always avoiding getting tired or short of breath, you can gradually increase your exercise if you want to.

There is a lot that goes into starting such an exercise program. For more details write to me in care of The Freeman, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for The Health Letter on Exercises for the Heart and Circulation (number 1-11). Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for mailing and costs.

Above all, don't overdo it. Most of the people who get into trouble with exercise programs try to do too much too soon or they try to do far more than is necessary. A common problem is the person who wants to jog fast. It is better to jog slow or walk and get regular, sensible exercise than try to beat the clock. You'll be around longer that way.

DEAR DR. LAMB — One test doctors give to determine the presence of infection in the appendix is a blood test. In a recent case the test was said to be negative. The patient was in severe pain and had a bloated abdomen. A few hours later, exploratory surgery disclosed a ruptured appendix.

All turned out well in the hands of a skillful surgeon, but I still have this question. Is it possible that an infected appendix would not be disclosed in a blood test? If not, why do doctors seem to rely on it?

DEAR READER — Anyone who knows anything about appendicitis can diagnose the typical cases. It is the non-typical case that causes all the trouble.

You are talking about the white blood count. It is usually elevated in the presence of an acute appendix, but there are exceptions. It makes it difficult for the doctor to make a correct diagnosis before surgery if the count is not elevated.

Despite these non-typical cases, in most instances the white blood count is a helpful part of the examination to diagnose appendicitis. The physical findings also help.

Oddly enough, appendicitis in older people is often non-typical. It is apt to go unrecognized until it ruptures or causes complications.

The blood test isn't all that different from most of the laboratory tests we use. All must be evaluated in the total picture, which includes the history and the physical. Apparently, the doctors in this case were not greatly misled since they proceeded with surgery despite the confusing laboratory test which is good medicine.

The Book Corner

By JOAN HANAUER
United Press International
In A Year of Grace,
By Honor Tracy.
(Random House, $6.95)

Honor Tracy has written a sparkling, funny novel that starts out castigating the weaknesses of the Irish and ends lambasting the selfishness and narrowness of mankind.

To Miss Tracy, the story runs second to the characters, and she has created a cast of scamps and simpletons who career through the book with an energy and agility that leaves the reader breathless with laughter.

You might shake your head in contempt at some of their actions, but you will find it difficult to condemn any of them—the dolt of a clergyman who enjoys nothing more than a stay at a stylish drying out home where he can play cards with his friends, the rogue of a young reporter who breaks confidences and distorts his stories without a blink of thought.

The grandest of them is Grainne Hoolahan, the bumbling, upwardly mobile matron who is incessantly defeated in dealings with her daughter, Nuala, her aristocratic neighbor, Lady Belling, and even her slovenly maid. But somehow she surmounts her disasters and pushes onward, ever hopeful of future social and family triumphs.

The story, which is pleasant enough, concerns Nuala's out-of-wedlock pregnancy and her legal difficulties following protest demonstrations involving birth control laws. Nuala skitters about trying to keep the terrible news from her parents and herself out of court.

The ending is a delight, leaving the reader with the wistful desire that Nuala might get herself into another kind of difficulty and start the madcap business all over again.

The Privilege of His Company,
By William Marchant.
(Bobbs-Merrill, $10)

Anyone who can rhyme Balenciaga with Forsythe Saga has to have a unique view of society and an odd way with words. Noel Coward surely did. His vitality, his cleverness and, surprisingly, his humaneness are conveyed adeptly here by a writer-friend who recounts his meetings with Coward over the years. Very amusing stuff about a theatrical scene that no longer exists.

Where Have You Gone, Joe DiMaggio?
By Maury Allen.
(Dutton, $7.95)

Perhaps Joe DiMaggio was baseball's last hero, as sportswriter Allen suggests. At any rate, he was one of the game's great players when baseball was in its prime, both in players and popularity. As Allen quotes copiously from players and others who knew DiMaggio, the portrait emerges of a man who was clumsy in his public life except on the ball field, where he performed extraordinarily with barely an awkward movement in his entire playing career.

Stop the Presses, I Want to Get Off
Edited by Richard Pollak.
(Random House, $8.95)

There is nothing fundamentally wrong with American journalism, but it's not that glorious, either, which is a gentle interpretation of this critic's viewpoint. Its carefully researched articles deliver sledgehammer blows to such press institutions as The New York Times and The Wall Street Journal. Readers wondering about the quality of their daily newspaper will learn a lot about its shortcomings in this intriguing collection of essays.

Cop Killer
By Maj Sjovald and Per Wahloo.
(Pantheon, $7.95)

Martin Beck, as detective as detectives in early mystery movies, explores the death of a blond female whose body was found decomposing in a swamp. The rural setting and attendant discomforts do not diminish Beck's detective abilities, though his grouchy reactions give the book an amusing flavor. The mystery itself is a zinger.

By Hook or By Crook
By Emma Lathen.
(Simon and Schuster, $6.95)

Believe it or not, John Putnam Thatcher, vice president in the trust division of Wall Street's staid Sloan Guaranty Trust bank, has gotten mixed up in the murderous affairs of a mixed-up family of Armenian rug dealers. As usual with mysteries in the Thatcher series, the book is a slick and entertaining job, although it's likely that whodunit fans familiar with solving Agatha Christie posers will be able to figure this one out before the first corpse is cold.

South bid his hand with all the delicacy of a Sherman tank rumbling through open country. Fortunately for his peace of mind his play was delicate and successful.

If West had opened a trump, nothing would have saved South's slam, but no one can really blame West for getting off to the king of diamonds lead. East dropped the four and South false-carded with the six, but West did not fall for it and shifted to a trump.

South won, cashed his aces of spades and diamonds, ruffed a diamond and led dummy's queen of spades.

East was smart enough not to cover and South discarded his three of clubs. The jack of spades came next and again East held back his king.

South huddled and finally ruffed. Then he ran off all his trumps. The last trump squeezed poor West who had to throw away his jack of clubs in order to retain a high diamond.

South led his queen of clubs, dropped West's king covered with his ace in the dummy and picked up the last trick with his 10 of clubs.

South's line of play wasn't the best, since it required finding both the king and jack of clubs in the West hand. But nothing succeeds like success and it was the one that worked.

Religion in America: Churches Enter Bicentennial with Zeal

By UPI

American churches are moving into the Bicentennial observance with an intensity and zeal that is reminiscent of a religious revival.

That is not to say the various observances, celebrations or programs associated with the churches' marking of the nation's 200th birthday will be a religious revival.

Rather, the churches recognize Bicentennial time as a period of both reflecting on and acting on the unique role religion has played in American history.

It is also a time for the various religious strains within the country to re-examine their own sense of identity, their uniqueness from and commonality with each other in the American pageant.

One of the first serious entrants in the Bicentennial field was the Roman Catholic Church. The American hierarchy's commission on the Bicentennial chose the well-worn phrase

"Liberty and Justice For All" and planned an audacious program to breathe new life into the phrase while attempting to relate Catholic teaching, especially social teaching, to the American experience.

The Catholic program, featuring open hearings around the country — two have already been held and a third is planned for the Twin Cities area of Minnesota — is to culminate in Detroit next year with a major conference on justice.

Already, however, the Catholic program has run into severe criticism from within the ranks of the church. Sociologist Andrew Greeley, for example, has bitterly attacked the program as "attempt to celebrate the bicentennial of our republic by tearing down the American accomplishment to pieces."

Catholics are not alone in the field. At the recently concluded meeting of the American Jewish Congress, the AJC launched a program to encourage American Jews to become involved in research on the Jewish component in American history as a part of their observance of the birthday.

As a first step in that program the AJC is publishing a booklet, "Jews in American Life: A Guide to Local programming for the Bicentennial."

In an introduction to the booklet, Dr. Gladys Rosen notes that "the growth of the Jewish community in America has been intimately intertwined and enmeshed in this country's expansion, its social development, its economy and its institutions."

Not all of the response to the role of religious bodies in the bicentennial celebration has been exclusively enthusiastic, however.

James E. Wood Jr., for example, recently wrote the official bicentennial organization — the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration — challenging some of their plans for funding nonprofit bicentennial projects that would include the churches.

The ARBA wants to provide matching grants of up to 50 percent for projects undertaken by religious and other private, nonprofit groups.

Woods, executive director of the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs, told the ARBA it did not really understand what the relationship between religion and America was all about.

"A part of the genius of the American experience has been the separation of church and state," he said. "To bridge that separation in order to celebrate its existence is a logical and perhaps legal contradiction."

It adds up to religious observance that will, if nothing else, continue to mark the great diversity of religious values in American life.

Rhinebeck Christian School

RHINEBECK

The First Baptist Church of Rhinebeck recently announced the establishment of the Rhinebeck Christian School as a further extension of its ministry.

The school will begin with nursery school for children ages three and four in September.

The First Baptist Church of Rhinebeck plans to expand the Rhinebeck Christian School to include classes, kindergarten through sixth grade sometime in the future. Presently the educational facilities of the new church building at the corner of Astor Drive and Montgomery Street will be used for the school.

The purposes of this school are:

To provide a thorough academic education with high scholastic standards, integrated with an evangelical

Christian view of God and the world; to offer a program which will meet the spiritual, intellectual, physical, social, cultural, and artistic needs of the students; to help young people mature in such a way that they will develop loves of useful service to Christ, the church and mankind and to cooperate with other Christian efforts including the church and the home, having similar purposes.

Presently serving on the Board of Education of the Rhinebeck Christian School are Jeff Adels, Mrs. Eva Kuhn, Mrs. Beth Westcott, John Bowen and Peter Saamann.

Children enrolled in the Nursery School should be three years old by Sept. 1, 1975. Parents who desire more information concerning the school may call the church office or Mrs. Pat Adels.

Academy Students Peruse Children's Literature with Reason

Dr. Seuss and Teenagers

Kingston Children's Library is the setting for Ulster Academy students as they study books for the young under the direction of Sharon Elswit, children's librarian, standing. Pat Lown (L) of Kingston; Sherri Rua of Saugerties; and Dan Wise of Woodstock; are part of a UA spring semester Children's Literature course taught by Alphonse Apalategui.

KINGSTON "I didn't think I'd enjoy the small kids or get along with them. But, it was really fun reading to them and they behaved very well," says Paul Alexander, an Ulster Academy student enrolled in a Children's Literature course taught by Alphonse Apalategui this semester.

Relating children's stories directly to youngsters by reading to them at the Kingston's Children's Library, Broadway, is one of several elements incorporated into the course. Sexism in childhood reading materials; fantasy and myth; illustration emphasis; personified toys; and non-fiction are all part of the course.

"We are trying to relate all the elements involved in children's Literature," explained Apalategui. "Using the Children's Library facilities is an important part of the program. Reading to the youngsters helps the students grasp first-hand reactions to stories and illustrations, and also has taught them how sophisticated younger children can be," he says. "I think they realize that the age difference isn't as great as they thought it was."

The Wednesday afternoon reading sessions are held after school at the Children's Library, so the Academy class has been sending one volunteer each Wednesday, as well as studying with the children's Librarian, Sharon Elswit, every Thursday during the school day.

"Besides learning an English course we've shown students another area of the community where volunteer assistance is needed," Apalategui says.

Sexism in children's literature is an issue of major national importance, with several women's groups currently attempting to change elementary school reading text books, and just naturally become part of the course.

Comments on sexism in children's lit ranged from the obvious indignities suffered by girls in many stories to the cop-out attitude:

"There is a certain amount of sexism in children's literature, which isn't very good because it does form ideas in children's minds about roles in society which are, unfortunately, further supported by the general attitude of our society . . . But, I do not feel that sexism is such a big issue, and extreme and sudden efforts should not be made to get rid of it. That only blows the issue out of proportion."

"I am pleased to see that children's literature is becoming less sexist. I hope even less so by the time I have children of my own. I realize that children, even if they come from educated families, 'with it people,' are constantly exposed to sexist attitudes."

Although students have varying opinions on children's literature, this class will at least be aware of many kinds of reading materials offered to the young and be better able to judge children's books and stories in the future, which will affect the new breed of writers of children's literature.

Youth in the News

End of semester honors and inductions highlight Youth in the News this first Sunday in June.

Twenty-nine Kingston High School juniors were inducted into the school's chapter of the National Honor Society in candlelight ceremonies 7 p.m. Wednesday evening.

The following were selected for the honor by the KHS faculty committee:

Heidi Adamietz, Renee Andrews, Barbara Barz, Amy Bellows, Andrew Braunslein, Debbie Cacchillo, Anna Carollo, Maura Connerton, Timothy Dell and Marc Feldman.

Also, Sharon Felton, Barrett Ford, Ronald Goss, Brian Harding, Patricia Huber, Kathy Klein, Kathryn Kuba, Christine Lee, Susan Locke and Lisa Marmo.

Also, Carol Phillips, Ronald Reedy, Stephanie Smedes, Steve Sterling, Beth Sullivan, Brant Thomas, Steve Tutt, Linda Ward and Jill Wells.

Steven F. Mones, a freshman at Union College, Schenectady, was inducted recently into Delta Upsilon fraternity. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mones of 101 Wilson Avenue, Kingston, he is majoring in chemistry at Union following a pre-medical course.

Patricia Kinstrey of Esopus was elected a charter member of Eta Sigma Gamma at Russell Sage College, Troy, recently. She was one of several health education majors, both undergraduate and graduate to be inducted into the new Sage college chapter of the national honorary association in the health science field.

Kathryn and Ellen Manz, daughters of Mr. and Mrs.

Aloysius P. Manz of Walkill Avenue, Tillson, have been named to the dean's list at State University College at Oswego for both fall and spring semesters.

Ellen is majoring in Spanish and French in the International Trade Division. She will be a sophomore in September.

Nursing Scholarship

WOODSTOCK

Ellen S. Steuding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Steuding of Woodstock and a senior at Onteora High School is this year's recipient of the Woodstock Public Health Committee's nursing scholarship award.

She was selected for the honor on the basis of high scholastic average, fine moral character and plans for a career in nursing. She has been accepted at the School of Nursing, Russell Sage College, Troy.

At Onteora she is a member of the National Honor Society and American Field Service Student Club. During the year she has been American "sister" to Onteora's foreign student from Belgium.

She is a member of the Onteora Marching Band and is a very active member of Woodstock Reformed Church. She is president of the Christian Endeavor group at the church. In 1973, she visited Spain and in 1974 toured four European countries with her church group.

Teen Scene

Robert Redford — Reel Versus Reality

By Lei

With about five films making the second-run movie houses, one current release, and two more about to be released, Robert Redford is, understandably, not too reticent about publicity. Since his popularity spans at least three generations, everything from the quarter-horror scandal sheets to the New York Times is running a Robert Redford story. With emphasis on the "a". After the first three, all the stories seem slightly the same. "Handsome," "The Sting," "blonde and boyish," "The Great Gatsby," "consumer affairs activist," "blue eyes," "charming," "no feud with Paul Newman," "He doesn't bleach his hair," "father of three," "and no feud with Mia Farrow," "handsome and boyish," "married for fifteen years," "and no feud with Barbra Streisand," etc., etc., etc.

Well, handsome, boyish, blue-eyed Robert Redford is very fond of a cute teenaged girl, and his wife doesn't mind a bit. It's his daughter, Shauna, a pert 14-year-old. His son Jamie is 13, and his youngest daughter, Amy, is 3. And his 15-year-long marriage, something of a record for Hollywood, was no child marriage. Handsome, boyish, blue-eyed, Robert Redford is actually 38 years old — and sometimes in the close-ups, he almost looks it. Probably many of his teenaged fans have fathers his age but — well, let's face it. Robert Redford doesn't exactly look like somebody's father. Shauna, Jamie, and Amy are pretty lucky, although their father is rather old fashioned about some things, and severely limits their TV-watching time, for instance. He's really into nature and the ecology and consumerism and even women's lib. Of course, most of the interviews go into that, along with how he isn't very fond of interviews.

It is easy to get the impression that Robert Redford rode into the world on an antique bike as the background music played "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head" and Kathryn Ross became dewy-eyed. Current interviews certainly don't delve back much further than "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," and there's probably a reason. Robert Redford got a late start in acting.

He'd grown up near Hollywood and (predictably, perhaps) it left him rather cynical about the magic of the silver screen. As a teenager, he was even rather antagonistic toward the values and people of the Beverly Hills circuit. Instead, he came East to study art, met and married Lola, and almost stumbled into acting as a way to make a living while he continued his art studies.

Very little is heard, these days about ERE — the Early Redford Era. He first came to the public attention in something called "The Downhill Racer," which drew mixed reviews — mixed from puzzled to poor. You had to be awfully fond of skiing to grasp the message through the wide-screen snow job. But there was a message, and it was a meaningful and occasionally moving picture.

"Extraordinarily aware of the thrust of current feeling." This was the characterization of Judson Smith's art. Smith, a leading force in the Woodstock art community for 50 years, did this mural in the old Colonial Tavern of the Gov. Clinton Hotel. The 7-foot-wide, 9½-foot-high painting graced the wall behind the hotel's pine-paneled bar for many years. Smith's works will be included in the third exhibition of the Permanent Collection of the Woodstock Artists Association, opening Saturday, June 7. (Story, photos on page 4.)

Lefooters . . . Swing Your Partner Time

Graduation Night — Thrills and Frills

Music and dancing have always been the hallmark of our American way of life.

And it's been questioned by many as to what kind of a world it would be without music.

Well, put both of these ingredients together and what have you got — in this case it's the Lefooters Square Dance Club.

Lefooters' members put both the music and dancing together every Friday night at the Hurley Reformed Church and the net result is a very enjoyable evening.

The local Lefooters organization was organized in 1964 and now the dance club boasts of a membership of some of 115 couples, according to Jean H. Steltz, a spokesperson of the club.

The year's activities actually get underway in September when couples start a course of lessons, beginning with a free Fun Night.

Regular members of the club, of course, are on hand at the Friday night dance sessions in September, offering tips to the new members. It all makes for a fine, enjoyable evening.

In addition to their regular Friday night dance sessions at the Hurley church, the Lefooters Square Dance Club also offers demonstrations for various organizations throughout the area including nursing homes, schools, churches and civic affairs.

The accompanying photos were taken during the recent club graduation when 24 couples graduated and danced for the first time with the club.

Head "angels" for this year's class were Art and Brenda Tobiassen and Fred and Effie Johnson.

This year's executive officers of the Lefooters Square Dance Club include:

Francis and Jean Steltz, chairmen; Gus and Dee Olson, program chairmen; Ron and Mary Ellen Wunderlich, treasurers and Ron and Jon Ann Willing, secretaries.

Interested couples who would like to become club members may contact any of these officers or other board members for further information.

IRA BELL

Ira Bell of Kingston (interviewed at Mammoth Mall): "To a certain extent, it should be legalized. After all, the government will make money if they legalize marijuana sales, just as they do now on cigarette taxes. But, for the harder drugs, I think the penalties should be even harsher."

Lucy Antonio of Rhinebeck (interviewed at Mammoth Mall): "I definitely think marijuana should be decriminalized. Too many people are unjustly put in jail . . . A lot of young people who have gotten busted are going to have their whole lives ruined because of it. And it's really not that bad a thing."

William Waterous, Chief Constable of Woodstock (interviewed at Woodstock Town Hall): I feel some of the criminal penalties should be removed from the statutes with regard to marijuana. Possession of a quarter of an ounce should not be a felony crime that ties up the courts.

Ben Merch of Woodstock (interviewed at Woodstock Town Hall): "From what I've read about pot, it's a dangerous drug. I think our legislators should go to the medical experts and determine the results of its use on people. Who knows what it is? They say liquor is a dangerous drug and we have laws against its use in public."

Jerry Simonetti of Woodstock (interviewed at his Woodstock Meats store): "I think alcohol is a lot more dangerous than pot. I've seen some awful things — AWFUL — with booze. But I really don't think pot should be legalized because it's a stepping stone to other harder stuff. I've been a musician all my life and I've never had a need for pot to make me play like I want to play. I just don't see a NEED for it."

Carol Brinnier of Kingston (interviewed at Kingston Plaza): "I think it should be legalized just because it hasn't really been shown that it's all that harmful — and just because so MANY people do use it today. But the penalties should be much, much harsher for speed and heroin because they've proved it just ruins you."

Maverick Concerts . . . An Auspicious Start

By Tobie Geertsema

Concerts and parties will apparently go hand in hand this season as the Maverick Sunday Concerts celebrates the 60th anniversary.

The kickoff event of the coming summer season, held Saturday, May 17, and billed as a press preview, emerged as a gala cocktail party after the 50 people attending heard a short briefing. Held beside the swimming pool at the Zena home of Mr. and Mrs. Belmont Towbin, it was a reception worthy of honoring America's longest, uninterrupted series of chamber concerts.

Hollister "Jack" Sturges, chairman of the 60th Season Committee, spoke briefly of the Maverick's six decades since the series began in 1916 in its rustic music hall in the middle of the woods. He also previewed the '75 season, which will open June 29 with famed American pianist Lorin Hollander, to be followed July 6 by the Eastern Brass Quintet. In all, 10 concerts will be presented this summer, through Aug. 31—and offering some of the most eminent musicians in the country.

If the highly enjoyable press party was a prediction of things to come, the Maverick's fund-raising party slated Saturday, June 21, beginning at 5 p.m. in the Maverick Hall, should be an event to be long remembered. Open to the public, the theme of this sparkling gala in its woodland setting is lodged in Shakespeare's 1595 comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Dress will be optional, but the committee is urging women to place emphasis on white attire.

Concertizing at the party will be pianist Nina Lugovoy and violinist Charles Libove (who will appear later in the season at the Maverick on Aug. 24); flutist Karl Kraber; and pianist Vladimir Padwa. Other highlights of the fund-raising party: a champagne reception to include a buffet dinner; dancing to the music of Mark's Black Quintet.

Reservations for this party of parties, which will conjure up memories of the pixieish Puck of Shakespeare's comedy, may be made through Mrs. Rose Kóplovitz, 16 Oriole Drive, Woodstock. And, in addition to the music, food and dancing, those attending will have an opportunity to take home as an award, the original drawing by famed artist Fletcher Martin which will appear on the cover of the Maverick's commemorative 60th anniversary souvenir booklet. The Martin drawing is an exquisite rendition of a Chamber Music trio, and appeared on the cover of the Daily Freeman's Tempo magazine recently.

Guests of honor at the fund-raising benefit will include such illustrious names as Mr. and Mrs. Leon Barzan, Mr. and Mrs. William Kroll and Ilse Sass. Sass, Barzan and Kroll have appeared at many Maverick concerts over the years. Violin virtuoso Kroll will be heard again this season, performing Aug. 14 with pianist Nadia Reisenberg.

In celebration, then, of the Maverick and its long tradition of musical camaraderie, the 60th season is getting off to an auspicious start—promising that this year's festivities will be as gala and as musical as ever before . . . if not more so.

Ernest Marmorek of the Maverick's board of directors (L) with Phoebe and Belmont Towbin, who hosted a press preview reception and cocktail party at their home for the Sunday Concerts Series.

WAA's Third Permanent Collection

The third exhibition of the Permanent Collection of the Woodstock Artists Association will open Saturday, June 7 at 4 pm. It will show those works of art which have been acquired since the last exhibition in September 1974. The Permanent Collection now comprises a significant nucleus of an impressive art museum for this region.

Included in this exhibition will be a painting, "The Deserted Mill," by Judson Smith, who was a leading force in the Woodstock art community for more than 50 years. "The Deserted Mill" was awarded First Honorable Mention in the Carnegie International Exhibition of 1931. Judson Smith's work, in the words of Bradley Tomlin, was characterized as "extraordinarily aware of the thrust of current feeling." In contrast to his easel painting was his mural in the old Colonial Tavern of the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston, painted in 1935. It graced the wall behind the pine-paneled bar for many years.

In 1931, at the height of the depression, the Woodstock School of Painting, was founded by six outstanding artists: Konrad Cramer, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Henry Mattson, Henry Lee McFee, Charles Rosen and Judson Smith (who was also its director), all of whom are represented in the Permanent Collection. This was the first school organized by artists in this area.

Konrad Cramer, one of the founders, has figured prominently in the awakened interest in the roots of modern art in this country. Cramer came to Woodstock from Germany in 1911, two years before the famous Armory Show. He was closely associated with the founding of the Woodstock Artists Association.

In "Barns and Corner of Porch" (1922), the early currents of modernism — abstraction, cubism, collage and the use of space — are fused to create a new vision. Cramer's influence and work have been especially singled out in critical reviews of this year's exhibition, "Avant Garde Painting and Sculpture in America, 1910-1925", an exhibition which attracted national attention at the Delaware Art Museum.

A newly acquired representative marine by Henry Mattson and a sumi ink painting by Yasuo Kuniyoshi will be included in the Woodstock exhibition. Also to be shown is a painting by Birge Harrison, one of the earliest arrivals in Woodstock and a principal founder of the Artists Association in 1920. The painting was donated by Peter Whitehead, whose father, Ralph Radcliffe Whitehead, along with Hervey White and Bolton Brown, established the Art Colony in Woodstock in 1901. This was the first art colony in America, one of the few with a large year-round population of resident artists. In its long history, it became world renowned for the quality of its art.

A tremendous vote of confidence has been given to Woodstock's new museum. The Woodstock Artists Association has just received a Federal grant by the National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities, to be used toward constructing a small exhibition area and a store vault for the museum's collection. The construction will be completed by November of this year. This, the second of three phases in the extensive building project of the WAA, will provide a permanent repository for these art works. The first phase, completed last year, included the remodeling of the entrance to the gallery, as well as an extension of the sculpture garden and meadow in the back of the gallery. The third building phase will include a large exhibition space. The fund-raising campaign for this last project is now under way.

Enthusiastic supporters of the new museum, now in its second year, have already contributed more than 140 works of art. At present the Collection is concentrating on the work of artists no longer living. The exhibition of the most recent acquisitions will be on view from June 7 through Wednesday, June 11, between 1 and 5 p.m. The public is welcome.

Confucianism Book By Marist Author

Dr. Yuan Chung Teng, associate professor of history at Marist College, Poughkeepsie, will have a book entitled "A Study of Confucian Sagehood of Wang Yang-ming" published this spring by Cheng-Chung Publishers, Formosa.

Written in Chinese, the work has already been serialized in the "Art and Literature Journal" and in "Republic of China Report," two journals published in Taiwan.

"Confucianism posits a higher level of being, which any person, if one applies oneself hard enough, can reach," explains Dr. Teng, "and sagehood stands for the highest achievement of such effort."

The professor's book investigates the validity of this ideal through a case study of the life of Wang Yang-ming from 1472-1529. Yang-ming was a governor, a general, and a practitioner of Confucianism.

A native of China, Dr. Teng earned his doctorate at Georgetown University.

George Burns has become something of a national treasure simply by outliving his contemporaries from the pre-historic days of vaudeville and burlesque. Burns and his late partner, Gracie Allen, will be featured in a special "Burns and Allen Festival" on Channel WMHT, Schenectady, starting June 2 and continuing through Friday, June 6 at 11 o'clock nightly. (UPI)

Irene Yah-Ling Sun, who had a brief run on series television—less than a month as one of the co-stars of "Khan"—is drenched with Asian charm despite her desire to be thought of simply as an American. Irene broke into show business as a dancer in "Flower Drum Song," followed by "The World of Suzie Wong" in stock. She is a member of the Asian-American Repertory Theatre off-Broadway. (UPI)

Reception for Kenne

Alex Kenne, Stanfordville artist, is being honored today at a reception at the Village Greenhouse in Millbrook.

Kenne, reputed to be one of the most prominent contemporary painters and sculptors today, studied with the Art Students League in New York City and the Academic Julian in Paris.

His work has been shown in several New York, Paris and Munich Galleries.

The Village Greenhouse is located on South Road, one mile east of the Taconic Parkway.

"Rick's Meadow" by Robert Angeloch

Three artists of uncommon sensibilities are being featured in a Group Show of Landscapes at the Ann Leonard Gallery, 63 Tinker Street, Woodstock. The exhibition will continue through June 8. Featured are the works of Robert Angeloch, Sheila Benow and Stephen Miller. Although each paints in a distinctly unique style, the tenor of the work is representative of a deeply felt preoccupation with nature. All three artists are represented by the Ann Leonard Gallery which is open daily from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Hamlet's Next ... 1-Act Plays

Two internationally famous one-act plays will be staged this month by the Hamlet Theatre group.

The two plays, both directed by Alan Croce, are The Lesson, by Eugene Ionesco and Striptease, by Slawomir Mrozek.

Opening night for this double-barreled action on the Hamlet Theatre boards, Route 28A in West Hurley, is Friday, June 6.

The two plays will be offered every Friday and Saturday nights throughout the month.

The Lesson involves an elderly professor's attempt to teach a young and very beautiful, but none-too-bright student, the fundamentals of reasoning. The interplay between teacher and student creates a comic counterpoint to the bizarre ending.

Michael Gallagher will portray the professor in The Lesson, Lynn Beattie as the student and Liz Max as the maid.

Striptease is set quite appropriately in a bare room in which two characters become the play thing of a supernatural phenomenon.

John Haag, who recently played Davies in the Hamlet's April production of The Caretaker, will play one of the men and Brian Benben is cast in the role of the other man involved.

Tickets for both The Lesson and Striptease may be reserved by calling 339-5493. Tickets may be purchased at the door before each performance.

Council on Arts . . . June 7

Ulster County Community College will host the annual meeting of the Ulster County Council on the Arts on Saturday, June 7, at the Stone Ridge campus, according to Dr. Richard Olsen, chairman of the Music Department at the College.

Dr. Olsen, also a member of the Arts Council, said all members of the UCCA and all persons interested in the arts in Ulster County are invited to attend this meeting which will be held in the Quimby Auditorium in Vanderlyn Hall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

At this session by-laws for the Arts Council will be presented to the membership for approval. There also will be general discussions concerning the arts in Ulster County.

Dinner-Theater at Rosa's Cantina

Dinner and theater will again be the fare Wednesday and Thursday nights, June 11 and 12, at Rosa's Cantina, Rock City Road in Woodstock.

The Woodstock Players will present the premiere appearance of "After Magritte," by Tom Stoppard, produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc. "Magritte," directed by Dick Gerendasy, is a one-act comedy set in a London flat, starring Rochelle Parker Haas and Steve Weinberg as Thelma and Reginald Harris, who, as the scene opens, are practicing for entry into a dance contest. The mother, a devotee of the tuba, is played by Joan Schulich. Others in the cast are Michael Dattorre, in the role of Inspector Foot and Dick Gerendasy as Constable Holmes.

Dinner will be served prior to the show at 7:30 with a menu offering of a Mexican or American meal. The dinner, with theater included, is priced at $8.25 a person. Reservations may be obtained at Rosa's Cantina or by calling 679-8111 after 5.

The Woodstock Players have already earned an areawide reputation for theatrical excellence with dinner theater productions in Woodstock and Boiceville and a special pioneer showing at the Ulster County Jail; will shortly perform dinner theater in Rhinebeck and High Falls.

Images of Wendy At Artists' Co-Op

The second season of exhibitions of the Artists' Co-Op at Parnassus Square in Woodstock has opened with an exhibition of photographs by Dan McCormack.

The McCormack exhibition, "Images of Wendy," will continue until June 6 with the gallery being open 1 to 6 p.m. daily except Monday. An opening reception was held on Saturday.

The theme of McCormack's exhibition is Wendy, photographed from 1967 as the photographer moved through different styles and moods — at times Wendy is the model, at other times, a lover and then, wife. The geographic breakdown represents periods of time — 1967-68 in Chicago, 1969, in Indiana, 1970 in Brooklyn and 1971 until recently in upstate New York.

Several of his series of images are primarily concerned with form as expression, while still others deal with revealing the intimacy of the event.

McCormack, co-chairman of the Artists' Co-Op, teaches photography at Columbia-Greene Community College in Hudson, and has had shows recently at Millersville State College in Pennsylvania, So-Ho Photography Gallery in New York City and Image Space, Middletown.

Opening June 7 will be three one-person shows of the work of Joyce Perkins (erotic photographs) Janie Schecter (clay and mixed media) and Renie Perkins (drawings). There will be an opening party on June 6th in the gallery on Parnassus Square, and the show will run through June 20.

Mystic Steamboat Sailings

If you're in the mood for a sail, why not get over to Mystic, Conn., and get aboard the Mystic Seaport's steamboat, Sabino, the country's last coal-fired passenger vessel.

The Sabino began its 1975 operation recently, making scheduled runs in the upper reaches of the Mystic River during the late morning and afternoon, leaving her pier near the Seamen's Inne. The vessel will depart with Seaport visitors on the half-hour from 11 a.m. through 4:30 p.m.

In the evening a longer trip is available with the Sabino leaving the Seaport at 4 p.m. and heading downstream passing through Mystic's two drawbridges and continuing two miles down the river to the historic shipbuilding community of Noank.

Fare for the afternoon trips is $1.75 for adults and $1 for children under 16. The longer evening run is $2.40 for adults and $1.25 for children. Children under 6 are admitted free when accompanied by adults. Mystic Seaport admission is not required for the 6 p.m. trip to Noank.

WAMC-FM Back on Air On June 10

WAMC-FM, Albany, will be off the air until June 10 while improvements are being made to its power sources on Mt. Greylock.

Improvements are being made by Poole Broadcasting Corp., owner and operator of WCDC-TV (Channel 19) in Adams, Mass., which provides space and power to WAMC.

The new equipment is expected to improve the stability of the power used by Channel 19 and WAMC.

Meagher School Fair

What is a neighborhood school? Do they still exist?

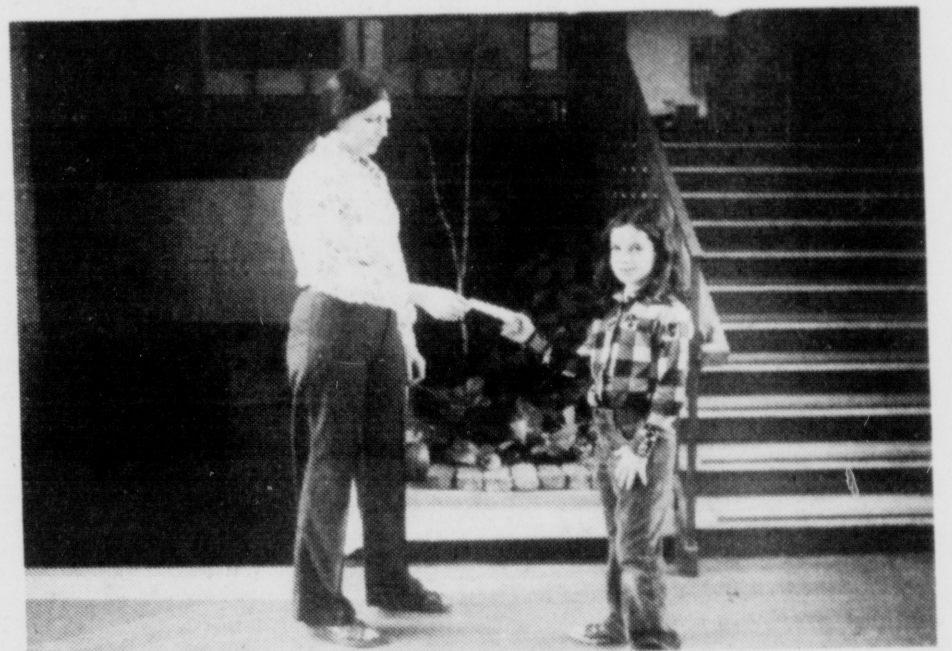

Well, faculty members and parents attending the Meagher School, Wynkoop Place, think of their school as a true neighborhood school.

And in this vein, the Parent Teacher Club of the school is taking on a big job — The Cobblestone Fair — scheduled for June 7.

It's going to be a fun day for the entire community — with the event taking place on the school grounds, right off the cobblestones of Wynkoop Place.

Of course, the PTC has two goals in mind for this big upcoming event — the first is for fun for all and the second is to raise money. Funds raised by the PTC are used for the Meagher School children — sponsoring field trips, after school clubs, guest speakers and special entertainment. Extra equipment to benefit the children's education also is obtained through these monies.

Committee chairpersons in charge of the upcoming fair include Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Peppard, Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Fasano, Joseph Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Landi and Mrs. Sandra DiDonna.

Mrs. Diane Peppard presents Kathy McGowan with an award in recognition of the youngster's selection of Cobblestone Fair as the name for the upcoming event.

County Man Has Exhibit

Burton R. Johnson, a West Hurley resident who is an audio-visual technician at Ulster County Community College in Stone Ridge, has openend a one-man art exhibit at the Cloud Gallery on Wooster Street, New York City.

“Geometric Landscapes 1973-1975” is the theme of Johnson’s exhibit. His show will continue through June 13.

Johnson’s work has been exhibited in various group shows including the Woodstock Artists Association, State University of New York at Albany the Schenectady Museum, Pratt Institute and Ulster County Community College. He is a member of the Woodstock Artists Cooperative.

The UCCC technician, a graduate of the community college as well as receiving a B.F.A. degree from Pratt, says of his art:

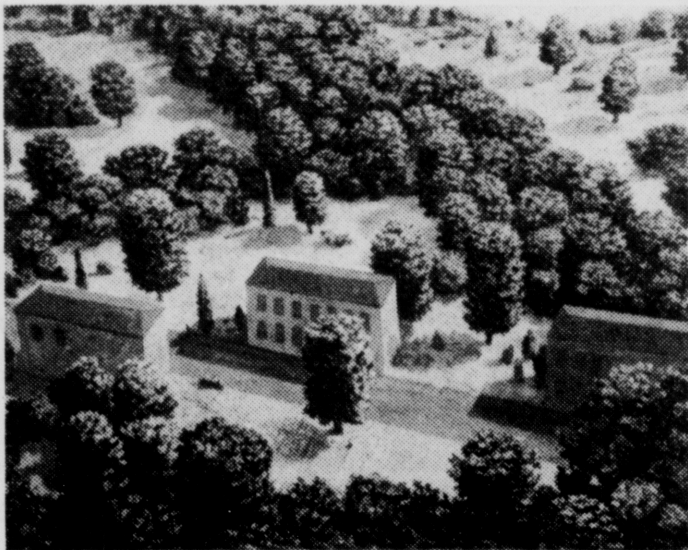

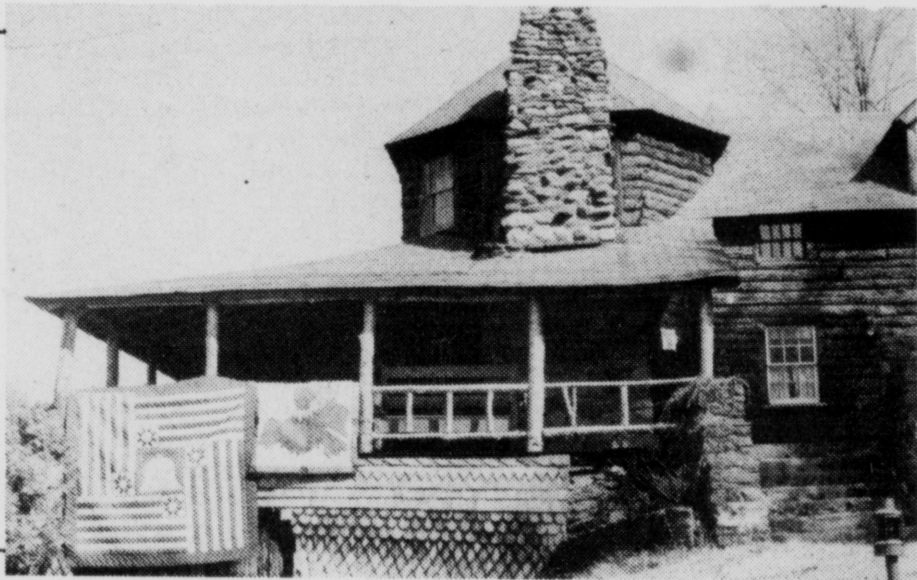

“The paintings have evolved as a geometric synthesis between the urban environment and a natural landscape. By exploring various surfaces, I am more able to transform instrinsic sensibilities into concrete images. Nature holds endless points of interest.”

His art work has been greatly influenced by his years of New York City life and his acquaintance with such artists as Charles Schucker from the Abstract Expressionist School and Howard Buchwald’s geometric oils.

BURTON R JOHNSON

Puckihuddle Products of Oliverea is all in readiness for its Country Quilt Festival set for June 7 at the Moose Lodge in Oliverea. It should be an enjoyable day — from 9 a.m. u til 5 p.m. with a quilting bee, open to those on hand; country music, fiddlers and strummers, old-fashioned homemade deserts, a potters wheel in motion and an expert whittler working at his bench. A short ride up Route 28 on June 7 will bring you to a full day of varied activities.

The next offering at the Gallery of July and August will be an exhibition of oil paintings by Robert Pittenger, an artist who resides and works in New York City. This aerial view of landscapes has a strong surrealist mood, created largely by Pittenger’s use of illusionistic space. Also shown will be a group of watercolors by Ken Showell, a New York based artist, whose credits include two Whitney Museum annual exhibitions. An opening reception was held recently. The Gallery of July and August is located at 5 Rock City Road, Woodstock. Gallery hours are 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Friday through Monday.

Mission: Friendship Spaceship

The Soyuz is scheduled for a July 15 launch from Russia.

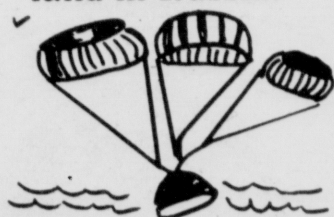

7½ hours later, the Apollo spacecraft will be launched from Cape Kennedy.

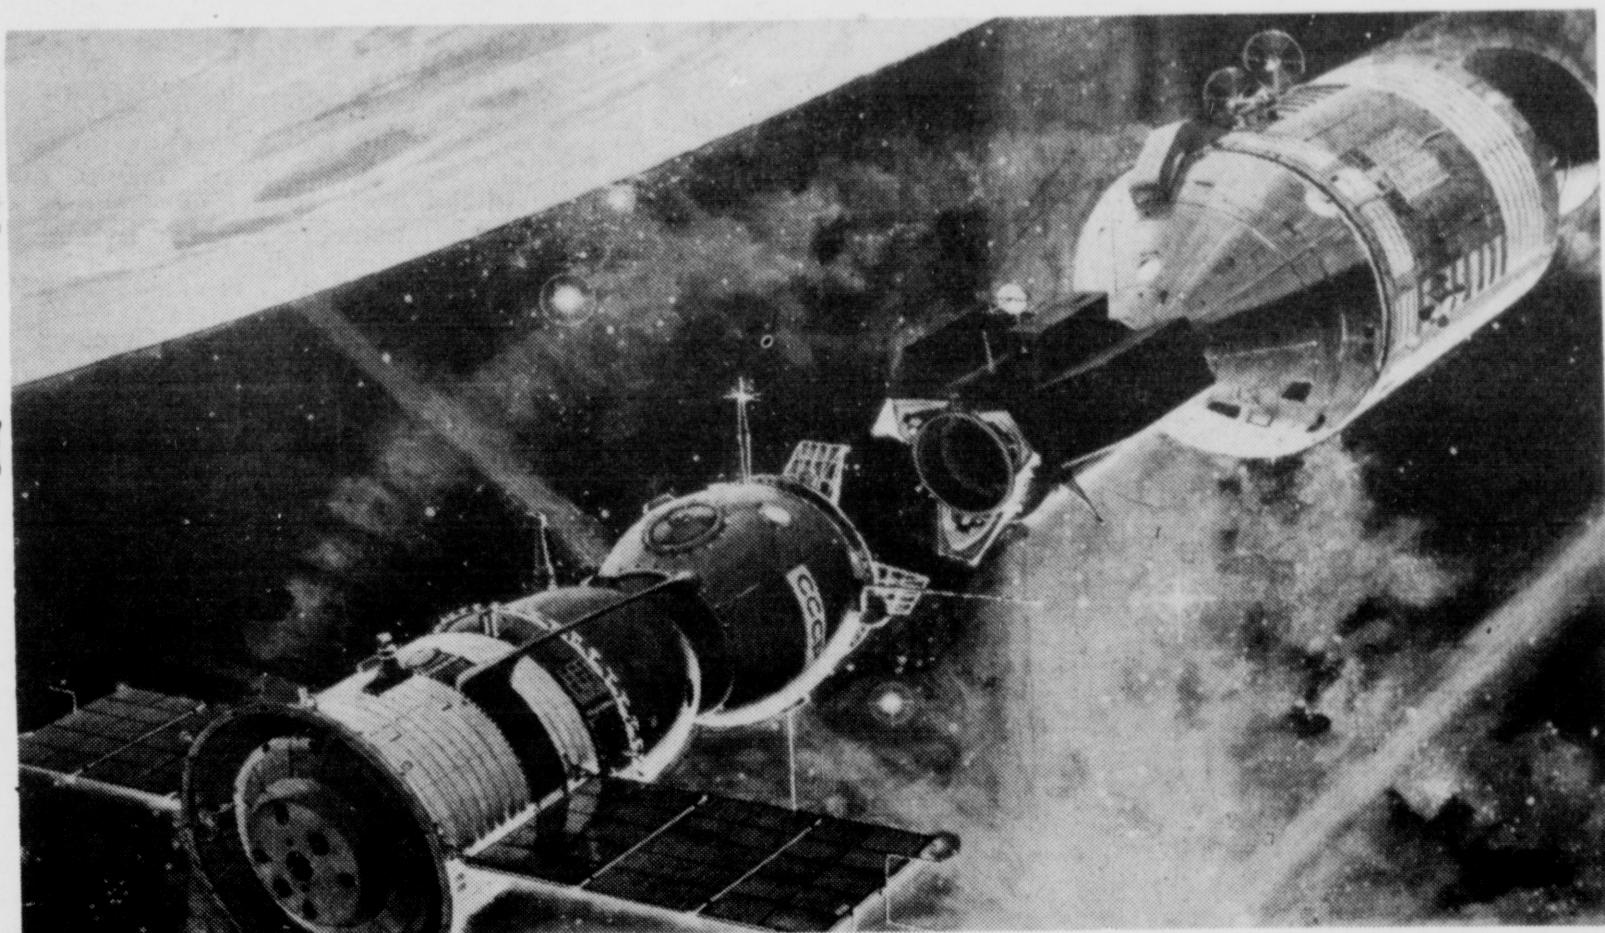

The ships will link up two days later and stay joined together for two days.

After they undock, the Soyuz will stay in orbit for two days and land in Russia.

The Apollo will stay in orbit for about five days and will land in the Pacific Ocean.

Aerosol Test

One of the Russian-American joint experiments will measure the amount of aerosols far above the earth. Aerosols are the gases released in hair sprays and other spray cans. Some scientists feel that these gases might be breaking down a special layer in space that protects us from the sun's ultraviolet rays.

In the middle of July, three American astronauts and two Russian cosmonauts will hold a two-day meeting in space.

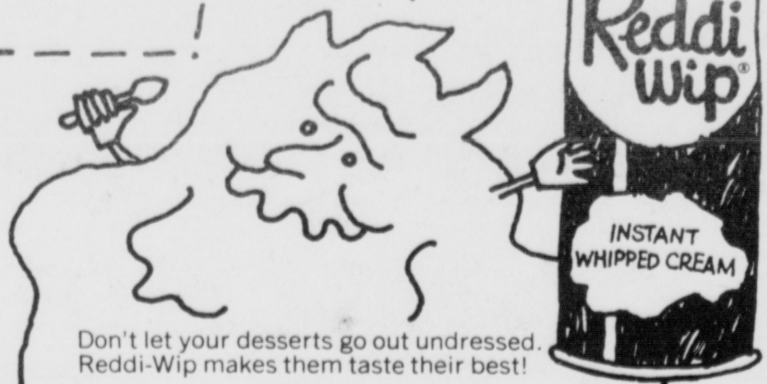

This will be the first time that spacecraft built and launched in different countries will dock together.

The mission is a part of "detente." Detente (day-tant) means a relaxing of strained feelings between countries.

It is hoped that by working together towards the same goal, both the United States and Russia will learn to understand and cooperate with each other better.

Who's Planning to Go?

The two crews have studied each other's language and visited both countries. On one visit, they toured Disney World and were greeted by a space-suited Mickey Mouse.

The Americans:

Commander Tom Stafford is a General in the Air Force. He enjoys handball, weightlifting, and swimming. He has made three flights into space.

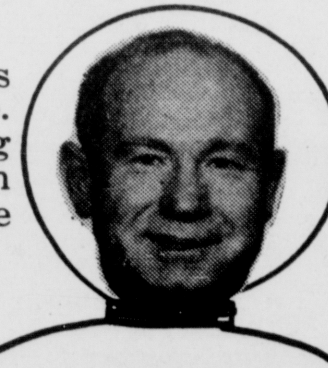

Command module pilot, Vance Brand, likes skin diving, skiing and canoeing. He is a civilian, and this is his first trip in space.

Docking module pilot, Donald Slayton, is 51 and will be the oldest man to ever go into space. He was one of the first astronauts picked back in 1959. Because of a heart condition, he has not flown in space. This condition has cleared up, and the doctors say he can go. Slayton likes fishing and hunting.

The Russians:

Commander Aleksey Leonov was the first man to ever walk in space. He is a very good artist. A painting he did of the Apollo-Soyuz mission will be on a Russian stamp. He likes to laugh and joke a lot.

Flight engineer, Valeriy Kubasov, has conducted several space experiments in space, including welding material in space.

The official emblem of the joint mission.

Super Sport: Francie Larrieu

Francie Larrieu can fly. Well, not really. It just seems that way. Francie holds the World Indoor record for women in the mile, 2-mile, 1,000-meters, 1,500 meters and 3,000 meters.

The 22-year-old track star trains hard. Sometimes she will run 140 miles in one week. Francie is a junior at UCLA. She hopes to compete in the 1976 Olympics and win a gold medal. She might do just that.

The Wolf Fights for Survival

"If you are afraid of the big, bad wolf, it's only because you don't know the truth about them." This is what experts at the Wolf Sanctuary in St. Louis, Missouri, told The Mini Page.

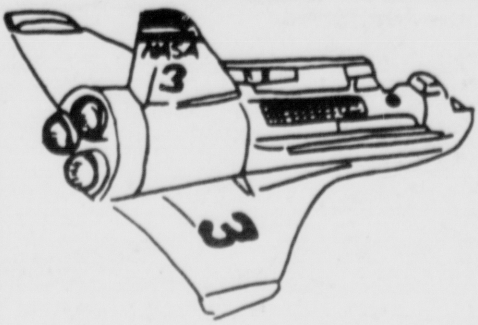

"Wolves do not eat people. They prey on sick deer or caribou. Each animal plays its part in the delicate balance of nature.

What's Up Next?

The Space Shuttle

The space shuttle is scheduled to be in use in the 1980's.

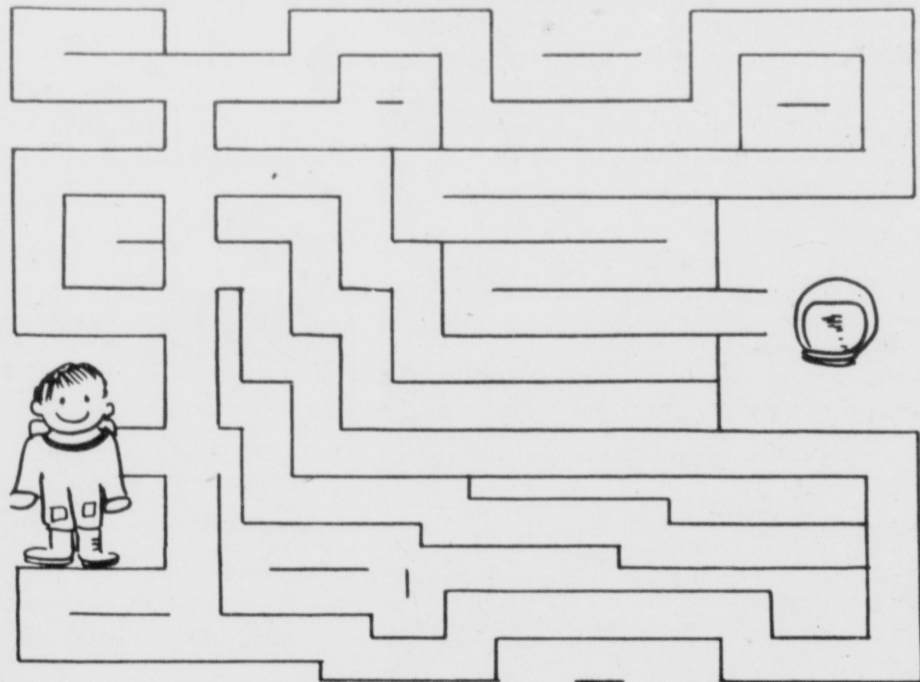

The space shuttle is a reusable spacecraft. It is like an airplane in that it can be used over and over again. It can also land just like an airplane.

It is like a spacecraft in that it can orbit the earth. It will shuttle from Earth to orbit and back.

The space shuttle will cost our country less money than today's spacecraft that can only be used once.

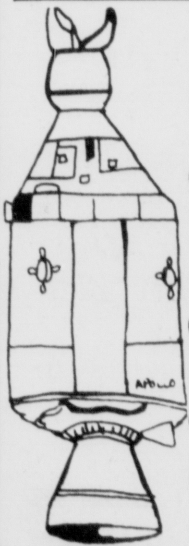

It can stay in orbit from seven to 30 days and will carry a crew of from three to seven astronauts.
